THE WEATHER.

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Oct. 12.—[Reported by A. G. Wamber, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock p.m. the barometer registered 30.09; at 5 p.m. the Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 69 deg. and 70 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 80 per cent.; 5 p.m., 45 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., northeast, velocity 2 miles; 5 p.m., northwest, velocity 10 miles. Maximum temperature, 85 deg.; minimum, 49 deg. Rainfall for month, .10 of an inch; last year at corresponding date, .32 of an inch; average for month, .30 of an inch. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The storm central over the interior of the Pacific Slope Tuesday morning has divided into two parts, the latter central over Northern Arizona, and the other over Wyoming and South Dakota. Another depression has appeared over the North Pacific States, causing a continuation of rain in that section, west of the Cascade Mountains and in portions of Southern Idaho. The rains in California have ceased. The storm covered most of the State from Los Angeles northward, being heaviest in the vicinity of Point Reyes and in the San Francisco Bay district, where nearly half an inch fell. The storm continues fair east of the Rocky Mountains, except in Eastern Texas, Oklahoma and Northwestern Louisiana, where rain is reported. The pressure distribution over the Pacific Slope, while still unsettled, tends to produce generally fair weather and slowly rising temperature in Los Angeles and vicinity. Some cloudiness will likely prevail at intervals, owing to the barometric depression to the east.

FORECASTS.—Los Angeles and vicinity: Mostly fair, with some cloudiness at intervals tonight and Thursday; variable winds, mostly westerly.

Riverside, Redlands, Riverside and San Bernardino: Generally fair and somewhat warmer tonight; Thursday, fair.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Forecast:

Sacramento Valley: Fair Thursday; light west wind.

Nevada: Generally fair Thursday and Friday; cooler in south Thursday.

DIARY LEADS TO DIVORCE.

Mrs. C. F. Lummis to File Suit.

WIFE OF FORMER LOS ANGELES LIBRARIAN WILL SEEK FREEDOM IN NORTH.

DISCOVERY OF RECORD OF AFFINITIES IN SPANISH LED TO SEPARATION.

"TROUBLES HAVE BEEN NO FAULT OF MINE," SHE DECLARES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It became known here today that Mrs. Charles F. Lummis of Los Angeles has placed her case in the hands of Cushing & Cushing, well-known lawyers, and that she will soon begin proceedings for divorce. Mrs. Lummis has been here for several months, much of the time staying with Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst at her home across the bay, Hacienda del Posa de Verona.

Mrs. Lummis refuses to give grounds for divorce, but rumor has it separation and divorce were due to her recent discovery of her husband's diary written in Spanish and Greek giving details of love affairs with many amnities.

She couldn't read the Greek parts, but the Spanish she easily read. Hence she left home with her daughter and youngest son. Now she says she is bound to secure possession of her other son, who is with her father. She regards Lummis as unfit to have charge of any child.

DEMANDS ALL THE CHILDREN.

Mrs. Lummis, it was learned today, has been in San Francisco and vicinity for nearly a year. At present she is staying at the Hotel Victory where are her daughter, Turbese, and her youngest son, Keith, 4 years old. She said today, in discussing her case.

"I have always been a domestic, home-loving woman. In that I have nothing to reproach myself with. I have made my home as attractive as I could and lived mostly for my husband and children—it is not my fault that things have turned out as they have.

"You can count on it, however, that in case of a divorce, not one of my children will be left to the care of Mr. Lummis," she said vehemently several times. "That I will demand as my right—and I will get it, too.

"The troubles that we have had have been no fault of mine. I have never been the sort of woman who prefers outside amusements to the care of my home or my duties in it. I have lived quietly. I have taken care of my children, and if things had gone as I wanted them to go, I would be in my home today, and there would be no question of separation."

HAS AIDED HUSBAND.

Beyond that she refused to discuss the cause of divorce.

"Not only in domestic ways have I done my duty," she said. "I have also given time and thought to the advancement of my husband's literary interests. Up to the time I married him in 1891 he had done little along literary lines. He had done some newspaper work both in the East and in Los Angeles, but his chief distinction was as the author of a story of his walk from Cincinnati to California, a trip of 3507 miles, which he made in 143 days.

"At the time I met him he had been writing in Los Angeles and had gone to New Mexico to live with the Indians, studying their modes of living and their tribal customs, with a view to incorporating his knowledge in a book.

"My brothers were mining engineers who had come out to New Mexico and my sister had come with them. After she married I came from my home in Connecticut to visit her and it was through her husband, who was a trader among the Indians, that we met Mr Lummis, and it was there that we were married.

"Since our marriage he has had great success in his chosen career and I can say without conceit that I have been an immense help to him. Up to that time he lacked much of the concentration and ambition necessary to make him successful. I have done a good deal of literary work myself. A number of my stories have been published but my chief work of interest in the past two years has been in the translation of Spanish works into English. A play and a novel that I have translated are now in the hands of the New York publishers. The novel, entitled "The Bull Fight," made a tremendous stir in Spain two years ago, and is a powerful protest against one of the favorite national customs of Spain. Whether it will be so well received here is a matter that is yet to be decided."

RECONCILIATION NOT WANTED.

When asked whether she will return to Los Angeles or bet Mrs. Lummis said that she had not yet decided.

"I will be here for some time—a month at least, but where my future home will be I do not yet know—as long as I have my children with me it does not much matter where I am," she added.

Friends of the couple have tried to bring them together, but neither wishes a reconciliation. Mrs. Lummis evidently does not, as the suggestion that such might be the ending of the affair caused her merely to shake her head.

"Things have gone so far now," she said, "that I am not sure that I want a reconciliation."

Lummis is very well known here for his ability as a speaker and for his eccentricities in dress and manner. His corduroy suit, red sash, sombrero with rattlesnake skin band, and his Indian bracelet have created a sensation and the Eastern tourist viewed him with wonder and amazement. This notoriety seemed to please him, although he frequently hurt the feelings of friends with whom he was walking on the streets.

Mrs. Lummis has made many friends here who regret extremely that the notoriety of a divorce suit should be literally forced upon her. She is very popular, and those who know of her life in Los Angeles applauded her courage in leaving the home in Arroyo Seco from which a husband's love, respect and care had departed, according to her statements.

It is understood her action may have an important bearing upon the recent gift, in trust, by Lummis, of an exceedingly valuable archeological and historical collection to the Southwest Museum of Los Angeles. Mrs. Lummis, it appears, insists that this collection was accumulated as community property, and may maintain that he has no right to deed it, in trust or otherwise, to any institution or individual.

Two Hundred in It for Man Who'll Marry German Spinster.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Eugenie Adams, who is on a visit to this country from Germany, will pay $200 to any man who will consent to become her husband for an hour. The above is not her real name. She confessed as much when she presented an advertisement to a local newspaper.

She explained, however, that a wealthy and eccentric uncle at home had made her beneficiary of his will on condition that she is married a week from today. She says it is hopeless for a woman of forty to try to get a husband in Germany, but in America she is still a "young girl."

"I will be no trouble to him," she said. "I will get a divorce at once, in an hour. I never want to see him again."

WOMAN TELLS POLICE OF DYNAMITE PLOT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—It became known tonight that the detectives from Los Angeles who have been in this city several days in connection with clews to the three men who purchased dynamite believed to have been used in the destruction of The Times building, have discovered the lodging place of "J. B. Price" and "F. A. Perry," two of the three suspects, prior to the time they moved to the Argonaut Hotel.

Brice became a lodger at the home of Mrs. D. H. Ingersoll, 2654A Twentieth street, on September 4. He left on September 14, to go to the Argonaut. During the time he lived on Twentieth street Perry called on him, according to Mrs. Ingersoll, sometimes as often as three times a day.

PLOTTED IN ROOM.

Brice seldom left his room. Mrs. Ingersoll refused to talk about her former lodger to any extent, saying that all the information she possessed was in the hands of the police. She said, however, that Brice and Perry devoted their time while together to plotting against some one, she would not say whom, and that they frequently mentioned dynamite.

These discussions were held in Brice's room, but at times the men's voices were raised to a pitch that made them audible all over the flat.

Mrs. Ingersoll's description of Brice tallies exactly with that given of Bryson, one of the purchasers of the dynamite, while she describes Perry in such a way as positively to identify him with the "squint-eyed man," another of the trio.

Mrs. Ingersoll also stated that she was acquainted with a woman friend of Brice's, and that it was through this young woman he happened to go to the Ingersoll house to room. The name of the woman Mrs. Ingersoll refused to divulge.

SHE FEARED "BRICE."

According to Mrs. Ingersoll, Brice came to her house September 4, telling her that he was a printer from Chicago, but that he had just come from Los Angeles, where he had been for two or three days. Brice greeted Perry when the latter called, as "Smithy."

When Brice went to the hotel he telephoned Mrs. Ingersoll asking her to take dinner with him. She refused, said said, because the conversations she had heard between Brice and Perry had alarmed her.

What was the substance of these conversations she refused to say further than that they were plotting against someone and used the word "dynamite."

NOT ON THE KATE.

Mrs. Ingersoll was positive that the two men did not leave here on the gasoline schooner Kate, but would not say how she knew. She said both men

STATE MAKER THINKS CHAPLAIN GETS TOO MUCH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX, (Ariz.,) Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Today the Arizona Constitutional Convention did little more than distribute the loaves and fishes, a job which had been worked over for a couple of days by a subcommittee of one member from each County. The result found favor with the majority, though Winsor of Yuma, thought that five dollars worth of chaplain a day was extravagance and Goldwater of Prescott, asked to be transferred from member at 44 a day to page at $5.

Altogether, there are thirty attaches, with a few more to come and a payroll, for members and employes of about $400 a day, inclusive of incidental expense. For sixty days this would total $24,000, about $5,000 more than will be available from the appropriation of $20,000 made by the enabling act, after election expenses are paid.

CONGRATULATE NEW MEXICO.

It has been determined to print each night a journal of the day's proceedings, including the speeches.

It is evident that the convention may safely be considered anti-corporation in the spirit of the majority, and there is a probability of the passage of a number of the planks that have been demanded by the laborites. A significant feature is the announcement that F. A. Jones is to be chairman of the committee on railroads, for Jones is the active manager of the Arizona Commercial Club, which has strongly fought for lower freights and fares for several years past. He is an expert railroad man, formerly a Santa Fe passenger agent.

The session is limited to sixty days, but only as far as concerns the per diem to be paid. Several prominent Democratic delegates have expressed the idea that the convention sit at least for sixty days, with the object of holding over the Constitution for submission to the next Congress, which they hope will be Democratic.

Today a number of other leaders have been heard to express their belief that the Constitution should be framed with all celerity, for the especial purpose of getting it before the current session of Congress before it expires on March 4, by limitation. They argue that it would be a poor use of their power to delay Statehood a whole year, when there is a prospect of admission during 1911.

WOMEN GO EARLY.

A delegation of women is here, led by Mrs. Frances Willard Munds, president of the Equal Suffrage League of Arizona, to press for a woman's rights plank in the Constitution. Officers of the National Suffrage Association are expected later and the delegates are steeling themselves against the attack

It is understood that the Prohibitionists have recoganized that there is no chance for a prohibition clause in the Constitution and have agreed to work for the submission of a separate plank that will deny the sale of liquor in the new State. At the worst the present local-option law will hold, granting prohibition on a majority vote of any town, precinct or county.

A strong lobby is present, sent by the Federation of Labor and the different labor unions, which are not necessarily in accord with the Federation. The Federation, represented by the Labor party, has a list of about fifty rather revolutionary planks, which its representatives will today try, claiming to be backed by the workingmen generally. Several lawyers are advocating the abolition of probate courts, in the course of the necessary organization of State courts, succeeding the present Joint-Federal system here.

LIVE TRAIL.

"MAN WITH THE BAD EYE" IDENTIFIED BY PHOTOGRAPH.

Is Recognized From Group of Criminals By Competent Witnesses, Several of Whom Had Talked With Him—Criminal Record Is In Hands of the Police—Dragnet Thrown Out Makes His Arrest Certain—Wallace Released.

Reports received from the North last night indicate that a live trail to at least one of the trio who dynamited the Times Building and sacrificed more than a score of innocent lives, has been found.

Through information gained by detectives working under Earl Rogers, information concerning a man whose criminal record is preserved in all police departments, was gained and a photograph of the man obtained.

This protograph, it is understood, was rushed to San Francisco, where persons who have seen the trio that rented the launch Pastime and purchased the dynamite at Giant, identified it as the man posing variously as Bryson and Perry and Leonard in the series of transactions.

That the identification is positive was found in the fact that each witness recognized the photograph from a group of criminals. This was done to insure the certainty desired before any attempt was made to arrest the man. Each witness separately picked out the same photograph.

It is of a man who answers the description of the "man with the bad eye," the picture revealing the scar above the left eye and the peculiar appearance of that organ, as has been noticed by a score or more witnesses. Many of these witnesses have rejected other photographs in the past few days. One of the witnesses talked with the man for a long time and is regarded as the most competent. Others had talked to him, but not for more than a few minutes.

Though the name of the subject is known by the detectives in the north, it has been withheld, but the identification of the photograph, it is reported, was followed at once by a dragnet arrangement that must surely result in his arrest if he be on land.

But until he has been taken into custody and the same witnesses that identified the photograph view him and reassert identification in his presence, there will be no cessation of the pursuit of other lines of investigation.

Although it is understood that George Wallace, the man arrested at Sacramento, Tuesday, was ordered released by W. J. Burns, Mayor Alexander's detective, now in San Francisco, the detectives have not ceased inquiry into his whereabouts and associates.

New interpretations have been put on the letters sent to him by Murray from this city, and the detectives have begun a similar investigation of Murray with progress justifying them to prosecute it thoroughly.

Misses Campbell, Harvey and Nesbitt Play Great Golf in United States Championships at Flossmore—Games Today Bring Contests Down to the Finals.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

FLOSSMORE (ILL.) Oct. 12.—As the result of the second round of match play in the sixteenth annual women's championship of the United States Golf Association today at the Homewood Country Club, Canadian players took the lead with three representatives.

Experts declare the championship lies between Miss Dorothy Campbell of Hamilton, Ont., and the winner of the third round match scheduled for tomorrow between Miss Lillian M. Hyde of New York, Metropolitan champion, and Miss Vida Llewellyn of La Grange, former holder of the western title.

Miss Campbell is expected to have little trouble defeating either of these women, as her work has been far in advance of anything shown by other competitors.

Few surprises marked the day's play in the second round. The feature of the day was the establishment of a course record of 78 by Miss Campbell.

Miss Llewellyn's victory over Miss Elkins was one of the most sensational seen in a woman's tournament. Miss Lewellyn was down most of the contest and at the twelfth hole Miss Elkins was three up. Miss Lewellyn, however, squared the match at the fifteenth hole and won on the home greens.

Miss Lillian Hyde of New York, Metropolitan champion, defeated Miss Katherine Moulton of Minekahda, 3 up and 1 to play. Miss Ruth Layan of Hinsdale defeated Mrs. L. N. Broche of La Grange, 5 up and 4 to play.

Miss Florence Harvey of Hamilton, Ont., defeated Mrs. Caleb Fox of Huntington Valley Club, Philadelphia, 3 up and 2 to play.

Miss Vida Llewellyn of La Grange, former western champion, defeated Miss L. B. Elkins of Oakmont Club, 1 up. Miss E. C. Nesbitt of Woodstock, Ont., defeated Mrs. M. W. West, Philadelphia, 2 up. Mrs. G. M. Martin, Tavistock, Devonshire, Eng., defeated Miss M. Warren, Skokie, 4 up and 3 to play.

Portland Citizens Ignore Arrival of Government Official Who Favors Betterment of Pacific Coast Defenses—Los Angeles and San Diego Will Probably Be Visited.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Admitting that the Pacific Coast is entitled to better fortifications than it has, and declaring he favors the carrying out of a general plan of betterment in this regard, Secretary of the Navy George von L. Meyer spent an hour in Portland tonight en route from Puget Sound to San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Nobody met Mr. Meyer here except newspaper reporters. Portland citizens had taken umbrage when he curtly declined a telegraphed invitation to stop over here and look over the Columbia River harbor, refused to believe his excuse that he could not spare the time.

"What harbors will you inspect in California?" Mr. Meyer was asked.

"Probably San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego," he replied.

"Is your present inspection confined to fortifications?"

"No; I am looking at fortifications and harbors," was the reply.

Asked particularly what points his tour would include in Southern California, Mr. Meyer said that according to his present plans he would go first to Los Angeles and after looking over the harbor and fortification site at San Pedro he would proceed to San Diego. "But," he added, "it may be that I shall be called East before completing my itinerary. It is my present intention to visit the cities and harbors I have named."

MILLIONAIRE ARRESTED.

SEATTLE, Oct. 12.—C. D. Hillman, a millionaire real estate promoter, and S. B. Smith, one of his employees, were arrested today on a bench warrant issued by United States District Judge George Donworth, charging intent to use the mails to defraud. Each was released under bonds of $5000 to appear before the Federal Court at Tacoma tomorrow. The grand jury is investigating Hillman's business methods and has already returned six indictments against him.

Strikers are Denounced By Briand.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PARIS, Oct. 12.—The strike of the railroad men, which threatens to spread throughout France, was denounced today by Premier Briand as "an insurrection, purely, built upon criminal foundations."

The Premier declared the strike was called while negotiations were going on for adjustment of grievances, and he promised that the instigators of the strike would be prosecuted.

The river Seine, which, in January threatened to destroy Paris, now looms up in the role of savior. The government has made arrangements to rush food supplies to Paris from the sea, requisitioning all boats to meet the crisis and ease the food market, which already is hard hit.

The employees of the Eastern and Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean railroads have not, to any appreciable extent, responded to the strike call, and the government's weapon of mobilization has induced some of those employed on the northern road to return to their posts. Nevertheless, the northern and western railroads are at a standstill.

The call to the colors has been ignored by the large majority and at mass meeting today the strikers reiterated their determination not to respond to the call.

Much destruction has been wrought on the Western system where the strikers and their supporters have held up the derailed trains, blocked tracks, destroyed signals, ripped up rails and cut telephone and telegraph wires.

The government has ordered the arrest of a score of strike leaders and instructions have been issued to the troops to use severe measures wherever occasion requires.

Thousands of persons living in the suburbs and employed in Paris, massed this evening around the depots. There they found closed and silent, with military camps in front. Then with true Parisian gaiety they laughingly set out to walk home, perhaps a distance of five or ten miles, or stormed the street cars, cabs, automobiles and other conveyances.

The losses to commerce already are tremendous. Scores of trains have been stalled along the roads, many of these carrying food supplies which have become unfit for use.

Many Americans have been compelled to remain in Paris or to pay fabulous sums to reach the coast. Seven hundred sacks of American mail are now being transported from Havre to Paris up the Seine, and the French steamship line will employ a tug to convey the passengers for the steamer La Touraine, sailing on Saturday.

M. Joures, leader of Socialists in the Chamber of Deputies, today answered Premier Briand, charging the railroads were responsible for the present crisis. He declared the scheme of mobilization to break the strike was dangerous, as it was certain to weaken military discipline and increase anti-militarism.

The Paris, Lyons and Mediterranean and the Orleans Railroad men late tonight voted to strike. The employees of the Paris subway, who have been agitating a number of demands for some time, also have gone out.

Warrants were issued tonight for the arrest of fifty-two strike leaders.

The Southwest Express had a narrow escape from being wrecked on its arrival here today. The brakes failed to work and subsequent investigation showed that the air pipes had been cut. The train dashed into the Austerlitz station at a speed of sixty miles an hour. It was stopped just before reaching the Dorsant terminus.

At Bois Colombes, the strikers held up a freight train and smashing in the doors of the cars freed a cargo of cattle. Heavy consignments of fruit and vegetables destined for Belgium and Northern France are stalled and ruined. Prices of fish, eggs, butter and milk have jumped 25 per cent. The merchants are arranging for the transportation of vegetables from the suburbs by automobile.

The garrison of Paris has been reinforced by troops from the provinces.

The strikers held up the express train from Havre at Bois Colombes and, covering the engineer and firemen with revolvers, compelled them to abandon the locomotive which was then uncoupled from the train and tipped over across the track. The boat train for Dieppe covered a few miles and then returned here. The Saint Nazaire and Invalides terminals have been closed. Paving stones have been heaped on the tracks outside the Saint Nazaire station.

STRIKERS INSULT TRAVELERS.

COLOGNE (Germany) Oct. 12.—Railway traffic between this city and France was at a standstill today. Arrangements have been made to send the French mails into France by way of Jeumont, on the frontier.

URGES WAR DEPARTMENT TO INCREASE TROOPS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Brig.-Gen. Asher Murray, chief of coast artillery, U.S.A., in his annual report to the War Deparment on the efficiency and personnel of the service, strongly advocates an increased detail of artillery troops to man the coast defenses of this Government.

"It is believed to be established beyond dispute," says Gen. Murray in his report, "that in order to insure efficient handling of our coast defenses in time of war it is necessary that we should maintain in time of peace at least one full manning detail of coast artillery troops. This view has been expressed repeatedly not only by myself and my predecessor, as chief of artillery, but practically all general officers who have commanded departments containing a preponderance of coast artillery.

"In time of war we must have at each place liable to attack such a number of coast artillery troops that they will be sufficient not only to form a full manning detail, but to maintain a full manning detail, allowing for absentees, sick and wounded."

The report shows that the actual strength of the coast artillery corps on July 1, 1910, was 634 officers and 18,109 enlisted men. The authorized strength on that date was 672 officers and 19,321 enlisted men.

MISSOURI FIGHTS ROADS.

Attorneys Argue Two-cent Rate Law Before Supreme Court of the United States.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Stubbornly contesting every point, attorneys for the State of Missouri and the railroads herein today began argument before the Supreme Court as to the validity of the two-cent passenger rate, and maximum freight rate laws of the commonwealth.

It is asserted by counsel that issues in the controversy will affect railway legislation in nearly every State in the Union. The case includes questions of jurisdiction of Federal courts over state legislation and the proper basis for the remuneration guaranteed the railroads under the Federal Constitution.

The Federal Circuit Court held the laws were unremunerative and enjoined their enforcement.

The arguments were opened by Frank Wagerman for the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy. He maintained that the valuation of the property devoted to intrastate business as distinguished from interstate business was in the same ratio that earnings from the carriage of intrastate freight and passengers bore to the earnings from interstate business in the State. "It costs more," he said, "to carry on local than interstate business."

FIRES LEAP VALLEYS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CARTER'S LAKE (Colo.,) Oct. 12.—Forest fires which swept Big Chief Mountain yesterday, today jumped to Sheep Mountain and tonight that peak is a giant torch, sending its flames high into the sky.

Efforts to control the fire by the force of fifty men sent from Denver yesterday proved unavailing, the fire jumping the cleared space made by backfiring.

Timber loss so far is estimated at $150,000, with the destruction still proceeding. The fire area is now about ten miles long, and in its widest part about five miles deep.

"THE" SAVES A GRAFTER.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—Fred Warner, former member of the House of Delegates, charged with accepting a bribe in connection with the passage of a bill permitting the establishment of a garage, was acquitted by Judge Hitchcock's court today in his third trial.

At his first trial Warner was convicted and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. This sentence was set aside by the Supreme Court, which held the indictment was defective because the definite article "the" was omitted in the phrase, "State of Missouri."

At the second trial the jury disagreed.

LIVE TRAIL.

from Sacramento tells what Burns did when he reached the State capitol to interrogate the man arrested by the Sacramento police at the postoffice Tuesday. It follows:

WALLACE RELEASED. BURNS GIVES THE ORDER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] George Wallace, arrested yesterday on suspicion of complicity in the dynamiting of the os Angeles Times building, was released today by orders of Detective William J. Burns. There was no evidence to warrant the holding of Wallace. The letters he received from Los Angeles and which fell into the hands of the police, indicated that he was in sympathy with the hellish crime, but were not directly incriminating.

Detective Burns arrived here this morning with his assistant, George Beck and had a talk with Wallace. The latter was released at 6 o'clock tonight. Shortly afterwards word was received from the Los Angeles police to hold him, but no attempt has been made to rearrest Wallace.

Wallace has threatened to invoke the interference of the British Consul. He is a British subject.

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS.

Burns left for San Francisco this evening. He was registered here as "E. J. Williams," but was recognized by a newspaper man. Burns said:

"Wallace knows nothing of the affair. I have a complete line on his movements in Los Angeles. My men in Los Angeles have also trailed Murray. He knows nothing. I will land the perpetrators of this outrage, but it may take some time. I have nineteen of my best men on the Coast working on the case, and some are on the way from the New York office. With the information in hand now I am confident of unraveling the case."

Burns intimated that the same gang was responsible for other and similar outrages.

MORE ABOUT THE KATE.

NO LET UP IN PROBING.

It is also understood that Rogers's detectives in the north have found additional information about the voyage of the power schooner Kate, which encourages further efforts to find her true destination.

The information is of such a character that it justifies the belief that the Kate was the means of escape for the fugitives, and that they are now within a few hundred miles of Honduras, that haven of all criminals who fear extradition for their crimes.

In spite of the reassuring news that one of the trio has been identified and may be apprehended on land, the sea search is being pushed. This is on the theory that though the identification is positive and the real man is exposed, there is still a chance that he may not be on land, but on sea in the Kate with other fugitives.

There is information in the possession of the local police that justifies this belief, in addition to the discoveries reported yesterday by Rogers's men in the north.

HER ACTIONS SUSPICIOUS.

The outfitting of the Kate expedition has aroused the detectives to further inquiry about her. She cleared for the Galapagos Islands. There she must go or brand herself as a pirate. But this destination would not preclude her putting into any port for fuel or provisions. Yet, if she intended to take the course to the islands, there is no reason why she should rebuild her distillate hold to contain enough for the whole voyage.

Oil may be obtained at Port Hanford, Santa Barbara, San Pedro or San Diego, or even Ensenada. Lower California, but she is provided for rapid run past all these ports. This is regarded as a suspicious circumstance.

Adding to this direct information that a boat that left San Pedro has not reported at any point, and that its leaving followed closely on the heels of the great disaster, the conclusion has been reached that the Kate kept away from the port of Los Angeles and took the fugitives aboard just as she took the mysterious Bisbee September 26, at Drake's Harbor.

By making a rapid run to the Honduran coast, she could dispose of the fugitives and then sail for the Galapagos Islands only a few hundred miles Westward. Pursuers would find her there innocently hunting turtle-shells or buried treasure, thus verifying the stories told before her departure from San Francisco.

It is argued, on the other hand, the conspirators, who were able to purchase her outright for the expedition, could well afford to scuttle her in deep water and make for the shore in boats.

In this connection, it is noted that before the port San Francisco she took on board a capacious and seaworthy yawl. In addition she carried a small power launch. The scuttling theory implies that the fugitives, distrusting the captain and crew, will kill the mand send them to the bottom in the hold of the schooner.

COLE JOINT ADJUSTER.

Local Insurance Man to Help Settle Fire Losses at First and Broadway.

J. N. Cole, a well-known Los Angeles insurance man, has been appointed joint adjuster, with Edward E. Eitel of San Francisco, to determine the fire losses sustained in The Times building and adjoining properties at First and Broadway after the dynamiting on the morning of the 1st inst. The adjusters will act on behalf of more than forty fire insurance companies. Mr. Cole has been in the business many years, and his insurance experience is broad. He has the respect and confidence of all the great companies, and has been called upon to adjust losses amounting to millions, in the East and the West.

An hour later Tom Benoist, a St. Louis aviator, after making two successful flights in a biplane, was struck by the propeller while adjusting his engine. He is in a critical condition.

BARNES QUITS COMMITTEE.

NEW YORK LEADER SENDS IN HIS RESIGNATION.

REPUBLICAN CHAIRMAN REGRETS CIRCUMSTANCE.

SAYS HIS CONCLUSIONS IN LETTER ARE WRONG.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Ezra B. Prentice, chairman of the Republican State Convention, today received the resignation of William Barnes, Jr., as a member of that committee.

"I regret," said Mr. Prentice in a statement, "that Mr. Barnes has taken the view he does of my failure to appoint him a member of the executive committee. Mr. Barnes's conclusion that I believe his services will not be useful, or that he is faithless to the Republican ticket, is incorrect."

Contending that his party loyalty had been questioned through the failure of Ezra P. Prentice, the new chairman of the Republican State Committee, to reappoint him a member of the executive committee of the State Committee, William Barnes, Jr., of Albany has tendered his resignation as State Committeeman from the Twenty-third Congressional District, comprising Albany and Schenectady counties.

INCENSED AT THE OMISSION.

Mr. Barnes led the fight against the selection of Col. Roosevelt as temporary chairman of the recent Republican State Convention at Saratoga.

In his letter Mr. Barnes says: "In reading the list of the members of the executive committee of the State Committee announced by you this morning, I find that my name is not among the number.

"The mere fact of membership in the committee is entirely unimportant, but after having served as a member of that committee ever since I was first elected to the State Committee in 1892, the omission involves the inevitable conclusion that your action was caused either by your belief that my services would not be useful, or that I was faithless to the Republican ticket. Under no such supposition can I rest. Having been a member of the executive committee for eighteen years, if my services are no longer useful or my party loyalty is questioned by you as the head of the organization, then I am no longer qualified to serve under you as a member of the State Committee itself.

JAMS HIS ETHICS.

"It has been my habit not to carry lightly the responsibility and burdens of the committeeship which I have held. I cannot therefore maintain the proper sense of political ethics and serve upon a committee, the chairman of which holds the attitude toward my political ability that you have displayed.

"The State Committee is the supreme authority of the party and I shall vote for Mr. Stimson and the rest of the Republican ticket and individually work for its election."

Mr. Barnes was re-elected State Committeeman for two years during the Saratoga convention, although the vote of Schenectady was against him. If the State Committee accepts the resignation it has the power to fill the vacancy.

ACCEPTS NOMINATION.

DEMOCRATS NOTIFY DIX.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

THOMSON (N. Y.) Oct. 12.—Planting himself squarely on the platform adopted by the Rochester State Convention, John A. Dix formally accepted today the nomination as the candidate of the Democratic party for the office of Governor of New York. Herbert P. Bissell of Buffalo, the convention's presiding officer, notified Mr. Dix and the other candidates on the State ticket of their nomination. In his speech of acceptance Mr. Dix promised if elected to give the people of the State a business administration.

TRIES TO WRECK TRAIN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Oct. 12.—What is believed to have been an attempt to wreck the fast limited passenger train from Cincinnati to New Orleans on the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Pacific railroad was discovered last night at a point thirteen miles south of here. The train was crowded with passengers and had the obstruction on the track not been seen in time heavy loss of life probably would have resulted. Two months ago, an attempt was made to wreck the same train at the same spot. Detectives went to the scene today.

FORTUNE IF HE MAKES GOOD.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

KENOSHA (Wis.) Oct. 12.—M. P. Winther is a poor tool maker in a Kenosha factory today, but he has an incentive to work and if he is able to make good, at the end of the three years he will be in possession of a small fortune. Winther was named for Martinus Petersen, an eccentric but wealthy bachelor, of Omaha, and when the will of Petersen was filed for probate last Saturday it included an inheritance of $50,000 for the Kenosha namesake. However, it was stipulated in the will that before Winther should inherit the money he must show the executors of the will that he is able to command an income of $2000 a year. Three years is given for Winther to reach this point. He is now making about $25 a week, but he is something of an artist and he believes that by making pictures by day and working as a tool maker at night he can reach the point where he can claim his fortune.

TREAT TO SURPRISE WEDDING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—That part of a Clayton, Mo., crowd which had gathered early around the platform that they might be assured of good places to see and hear Col. Roosevelt yesterday, were surprised to see a band march upon the stage an hour and a half before the scheduled time for the appearance of the ex-President. As though in deference to Roosevelt's story policy, the band struck up "Here Comes the Bride." Then Justice of the Peace Meyers, of Jennings, Mo., made his way to the platform, closely followed by Christ J. Horning of St. Louis, and Miss Nellie Greeves, also of this city. They were married while the crowd cheered so lustily that the music of the band was drowned.

HOBO KING NOW A DOCTOR.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

JEFFERSON CITY, (Mo.) Oct. 12.—James Eads How, of St. Louis, can now write "M.D." after his name. He was given a license to practice medicine by the State Board of Health, after taking the examination conducted here September 20-22. When How was taking the examination he said that he wanted to become a doctor so that he could put the hoboes into proper physical trim and enable them to hold a job when they succeeded in getting one. "Many of my boys," as he called the hoboes who frequent the headquarters of the Welfare Association at No. 1740 Locust street, "are sick. They can't hold a job when they get one."

SAY FARMERS ARE LAZY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—The unwillingness of farmers to get up at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning and milk a large herd of cows, with delivery of the milk at the nearest railroad station before 6 o'clock, is one of the main factors alleged by local purveyors to be responsible for the recent increases in the retail prices of the fluid. An advance of one cent a quart was announced a few days ago, and it was followed yesterday with the unwelcome tidings that cream had followed the advance with a vengeance, the increase amounting to a cent a half pint or four cents a quart.

SAN BERNARDINO MEN REPORT MEETING STRANGER.

Staggers Into Camp at Carrizo Springs, Fainting From Lack of Water and Food—Refuses All Explanations — Description Tallies With Number Two Dynamite Fiend.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 12.—Raymond E. Fairchild, a real estate dealer of Redlands, and S. W. Reeder, also of that city, reported to the Sheriff's office a dynamite suspect case which may prove of value in connection with the man hunt now on in all sections of the world.

Fairchild and Reeder have just returned from a long trip into the Imperial-San Diego mountain country. While camped at Carrizo Springs, on the line between the two counties, Wednesday, October 5, in the afternoon a man answering the description of suspect "No. 2," as sent out by the Los Angeles officers, came into camp in the afternoon suffering from lack of water and food.

He gave his name as Frank Mason, but refused to talk of himself, or the reason he was so far away from civilization without means of travel or provisions. The following day the stranger was recognized by two prospectors, Hicks and Grayson of El Centro, as a man they had seen at Julian, in San Diego county, but the stranger denied having been there. That night Mason was taken ill with pneumonia, and conveyed in a wagon to a hospital at Imperial by Hicks and Grayson.

He then stated that his true name is Fred Carter, and that his father resides at Monrovia. He explained that for seven years he has resided at San Diego, and desiring to escape a woman, hired a horse and carriage and drove to Julian, where he abandoned the rig and struck across the desert afoot, trying to reach Mexico.

The Redlands men did not learn of The Times horror until many days later, when they at once said the stranger tallied closely with suspect No. 2. They seem firm in their belief that the man Carter, alias Mason, is one of the fiends. As both Fairchild and Reeder are men of reputation and standing in this valley, their statement has created a sensation.

The Sheriff's office has communicated with the Los Angeles police department in the matter.

ACCUSED STOPS TRIAL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MONTESANO, (Wash.) Oct. 12.—The first session of the trial of John Klingenberg in the Superior Court on a charge of murder in the second degree, in connection with the death of Charles Hadberg, was marked by a sensational outbreak by the prisoner.

As the court was about to proceed with the selection of a jury today, Klingenberg jumped to his feet, and addressing Judge Sheeks, said:

"Look here, your honor, I refuse to accept a jury until the main witness, William Gohl, is brought back from the penitentiary to testify in my behalf."

The crime for which Klingenberg is standing trial is the same as that for which Gohl was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. Gohl was convicted after Klingenberg had made a confession in which he said that he (Klingenberg) killed Hadberg near Aberdeen, Wash., at the behest of Gohl, and because he was afraid Gohl would kill him.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 12.—Gustav Madeiro, a brother of Francisco I. Madeiro, is in prison here charged with having tried to induce a number of army officers to inaugurate a revolution in Mexico against the Government. Gen. Milton Hurtado complained to the authorities that Madeiro had made revolutionary suggestions to him, and said that several other officers had been approached. Two friends of Madeiro, Margareito Loano and Josus Higuera Sevilla, are also in prison under similar charges.

SECRETARY OF STATE ISSUES BIENNIAL REPORT.

SAYS CORPORATIONS SHOULD BE SPECIFIC.

CURRY HITS AT WATERED STOCK GAME.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 12.—Secretary of State Curry filed his biennial report, covering the Sixtieth and Sixty-first fiscal years, with the State Board of Examiners yesterday.

The report contains the financial statement already published and in addition to this, Mr. Curry recommends several changes in the laws of the State. Among other things, he says:

"Laws should be enacted compelling a corporation at the time of filing its articles to state definitely in these articles its purposes and limiting the purpose and business activities of each corporation to a certain definite business enterprise."

Mr. Curry represent a "public service commission," which shall have powers to receive reports of domestic and foreign corporations doing business in the state, should be created, the reports referred to, to be filed annually and contain financial conditions and an epitomized statement of receipts and disbursements. This, he says, would prevent over-capitalization, watering of stock, excessive bond issues and combinations of public utility corporations in restraint of trade and detrimental to the public welfare, and would, at the same time, insure economical administration and efficient service at reasonable rates and cost to the public.

Regarding election laws, Mr. Curry says that California has a good code, but he anticipates a number of radical changes will be made by the next Legislature. He says these changes should only be made after careful consideration.

The direct primary law needs amending, he says, so that the circulation of petitions in certain specific counties by candidates for city and county nominations who now have to circulate petitions in a certain per cent. of the voting precincts should be amended as it is unnecessarily burdensome to the candidate.

The candidate should be permitted to secure the required number of petitions of his constituents to place him on the ballot, these to come where he can get them with the least inconvenience.

Mr. Curry thinks the law should be so amended that county clerks should send the office of the Secretary of State the results of primary elections, tabulated by precincts.

The Governor's arrival at camp was heralded by a salute of seventeen guns. Col. Charles Mason, Eighth Infantry, commanded the review, which was formed in four lines. The Governor, accompanied by his staff, mounted, and many regular army officers and the organized militia were a great feature to the State.

Gen. Bliss Invites All Officers to Reception—Regulars Say Militia Great Credit to California—Friday, Saturday and Sunday Soldiers Will Leave.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CAMP ATASCADERO, Oct. 12.—Gov. Gillett today reviewed the 4000 troops of this camp. A drizzling rain fell throughout the review.

Immediately after the review there was a reception for the Governor, to which all officers were invited by Gen. Bliss.

This was to have been a spectacular affair, but it was deferred on account of the rain.

The Governor's arrival at camp was heralded by a salute of seventeen guns. Col. John Mason, Eighth Infantry, commanded the review, which was formed in four lines. The Governor expressed himself highly pleased with the appearance of the entire command, and many regular army officers said the organized militia were a great credit to the State.

The militia is nearing its close in camp. The Ninth Infantry today climbed into first place by defeating the Thirtieth Infantry, 11 to 1. It now has for second place is between the artillery and the headquarters teams.

On Friday the Californians start homeward, Thursday and Sunday the regulars go.

Capt. John W. Ward, Thirtieth Infantry, who was recently amputated as the result of a railroad accident, will be sent to the Pueblo Hospital tonight at midnight.

FIVE EVADE FRAUD CHARGE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Oct. 12.—Because Superior Judge W. O. Chapman signed an order reading carefully an order setting aside the original information filed by J. J. Connelly, J. J. Carvon, Max G. Cohen, W. P. Robinson, and Robert Pigney, charged with fraud in connection with the recent primary election, it is probable they will never be brought to trial.

Attorney F. O'Brien, their attorney, may be cited for contempt of court for including in the order the words "the defendants are hereby discharged." The order was presented by O'Brien and signed by Judge Chapman last night. The attorney for the defense now advances the plea of former jeopardy for his clients. Should this prove to be a bar to further prosecution, Judge Chapman declared he would call O'Brien to appear before him for contempt of court and follow this with disbarment proceedings.

ALASKA COAL DEVELOPMENT.

Territorial Governor Says He Will Recommend Removal of Restrictions in Report to President.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SEATTLE (Alaska) Oct. 12.—Gov. Walter E. Clark, who has returned from a two months' tour of Alaska, said today that in his annual report to the President he would make a recommendation regarding the opening of the coal fields of the Territory. It is said he favors leasing the land but intends to outline his plan further before he says that it provided for protection of the people against the coal lands in the hands of monopolies.

The Governor said:

"Alaska is entirely capable of supporting a large permanent population, and liberal treatment by the government is absolutely necessary to the development of the Alaskan coal fields which at the present time is a monopolization on the Pacific coast the coast for 6000 years or more. The coal that Alaska is now burning is imported largely from foreign countries and costs $18 a ton. A few miles away much better coal is locked in the ground."

Adoption of Amendment to Constitution is Made Special Order of Business at Cincinnatti Convention. Committee Will Investigate Prayer Healing for Reconsideration.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CINCINNATI, Oct. 12.—In the most important session that it has held thus far, the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Convention this afternoon not only reversed its decision of a few days ago, when it refused to pass an amendment to the constitution of the church providing for suffragan bishops, but shortly after creating the new suffragan bishops, passed a resolution calling for a committee to investigate faith healing by means of prayer or suggestion.

The question of suffragan bishops came before the House of Bishops last week after the House of Deputies had adopted it. The rejecting vote at that time was close. Today the proposal was brought up again as a special order of business and was adopted by a vote of 60 to 31. It now becomes law.

A stir was created among the delegates when it was announced the House of Bishops had passed a resolution calling for a committee to investigate unction to the sick for healing purposes. This is the resolution defeated in the deputies yesterday. In all probability it will be brought up again in the deputies.

A canon for the regulation of suffragan bishops was adopted by the bishops, giving these bishops an equal vote in the convention with regular bishops.

A petition from chaplains of the army and navy of the United States was received, asking that their work be considered a special department in the work of the church.

The House of Bishops appointed a committee to investigate the matter. In case favorable action is taken, the jurisdiction will be represented in the convention by a bishop of he army and navy.

Bishop Cheshire of North Dakota, and Bishop Johnson of Los Angeles took their seats in the House of Bishops today for the first time.

Intruder Fires Three Shots Into Brave Salt Lake Youth, Who Falls Dead in Pursuit.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 12.—Startled into flight by the sound of footsteps on a stairway, a burglar, suddenly confronted by a 14-year-old schoolboy today in the latter's home, fired three shots from a revolver into the lad's body and then rushed through the kitchen door. The victim, Thomas R. Karrick, started in pursuit of the robber but fell dying on the steps of the portico just as a physician who had dashed toward him from the street car was about to administer an opiate.

Young Kerrick was alone in his home when attacked having just returned from school to prepare his noonday meal. The boy's mother is supervisor of art in the public schools of this city.

RECOVERING DEAD BODIES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

STARKVILLE (Colo.) Oct. 12.—The situation at the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company mine here tonight may be summarized as follows:

Bodies buried and in the morgue, 14; bodies located in the mine, 8; bodies missing, 33.

Three-fourths of the 55 miles of stopes, crosscuts and entries explored by rescue parties.

Tonight the workers are devoting their energies to the removal of the eight bodies located at noon. Their task is made doubly hard by the condition of the bodies, and the 6700 feet of rough and dangerous trail over which they must be carried to the death cars.

Those not needed in this work are pushing their way to the 1. entries, where 15 men are believed to be entombed.

Fred Foster, an electrician of Walsenburg, was struck by a Santa Fe train and killed, after coming out of the mine with his shift today. He is reported to have been engaged to marry a Trinidad girl a few months hence.

TINY REPUBLIC STANDS BY PORTUGAL.

Great Britain Notifies Braga's Government That Recognition Will Follow Absolute End of Revolution and Restoration of Normal State.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LISBON, Oct. 12.—The provisional government has received telegrams from President Comtesse of Switzerland announcing that government's recognition of the Portuguese Republic.

The British Minister, Sir Francis H. Villiers, today handed the Premier a note stating that Great Britain would recognize the republic as soon as it was convinced that the revolution was absolutely ended and affairs in Portugal were in a normal state.

The government has issued a decree granting amnesty to all military and naval offenders.

The Patriarch of Lisbon, Monseignor Tonti, it is announced has signified his allegiance to the new regime. Senhor Teixeira Sousa, leader of the regenerador party, is organizing a new party which will accept republican institutions.

The huge iron safes containing the treasure of Queihas convent, which reverts to the government, have been placed in the bank of Portugal.

A commission composed of officials of the Ministry of Finance has been appointed to make an inventory of the royal palaces and decide what property belongs to the king personally. This commission will also investigate the outstanding debts of the royal family.

President Braga favors the establishment of woman's suffrage in Portugal.

He reiterated yesterday the provisional government's intention of administering affairs only until it is able to hand over affairs to a properly elected assembly. He added the assembly would be elected by universal suffrage, and that he saw no reason why women should not vote as well as men, they being equally interested in the nation's well-being.

LIFE'S SEAMY SIDE.

WOMEN HELD FOR BURGLARY.

FIVE FEMALE AUTOISTS LOOT FARMERS' HOMES.

"DEVILMENT," EXPLAINS ONE IN CONFESSION.

COUNTRY PRODUCE IS FOUND IN CHICAGO GARAGE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.]—A remarkable study from a psychological point of view, of a woman's idea of amusment, developed today when Mrs. Ralph E. Hayden, wealthy, wife of Dr. Ralph E. Hayden, a dentist; her mother, Mrs. Mattie Jennings; a sister, Miss Laura Jennings and Mrs. A. Cresner, were taken into custody by detectives in connection with an alleged series of burglaries at the homes of farmers in Crown Point, Ind.

Mrs. Hayden, who was arrested on a fugitive warrant charging larceny, made a verbal confession, according to Detectives Conick and Culhane, admitting that she and the other women committed the thefts for "devilment" while on an automobile trip in Crown Point.

Between $50 and $75 worth of butter, eggs, apple butter, linen, tableware and vegetables said to have composed the property taken from the farm houses, were found in Mrs. Hayden's private automobile garage at the rear of No. 4839 Prairie avenue, according to the police.

The women, as a general thing, would only take what they could conceal under their long coats. Cabbages, onions and potatoes were conveyed to the car from the fields in the same way and from the houses actually entered, shoulders of meat, hams and pastry were taken. Hen houses gave up their booty, too, and the dairy was not overlooked.

A lace handkerchief bearing Mrs. Hayden's mongram which corresponded with the crest on her automobile, dropped in a farmer's pantry she was looting, gave the first clew. The second came when the women stole some accessories while their automobile was being repaired at a Crown Point garage.

The case resembles that of Mrs. Helen Romadka, wife of a Milwaukee millionaire, who, with a negro ex-convict, committed many burglaries here and served two years in prison.

4 EXCORIATES MURDERER.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 12.—Life imprisonment in the penitentiary was declared by Judge Kavanaugh yesterday to be a more terrible punishment than hanging.

The jurist, in a remarkable opinion handed down in sentencing Joseph Welcome to life imprisonment for murder, contrasted death with the tortured soul of a life convict in his solitary cell, and told the prisoner it is not correct to regard the death senience the most severe punishment to be inflicted.

Welcome murdered Mrs. Mary McLean, March 22, 1910, in a boardinghouse which she conducted. He pleaded guilty.

It was shown he had forced his wife to become a "white slave" and shot her for refusing to give him money. Mrs. McLean was shot while trying to save Mrs. Welcome.

ASSASSIN'S BULLET KILLS BOY.

FUGITIVE COMMITS SUICIDE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Charles Fischer, aged 12, was swung writhing and screaming from the sidewalk last night by a man, who used the boy's body to check a bullet fired by Harry Greenwald, an ex-pugilist. The bullet pierced the boy's brain and he died within an hour. Greenwald, terror-stricken, and pursued by citizens and police, dashed into a hallway and committed suicide. The man who used the boy as a screen escaped. His name is not known. Greenwald was 25 years old, and was known as "Bix" Clark.

ROBBERS FAIL; SHOOT UP TOWN.

Four Colorado Bandits Dynamite Bank Safe and Have Running Gun Fight.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

STERLING (Colo.) Oct. 12.—Four masked men, heavily armed, rode into Proctor, Colo., seventeen miles northeast of here, today, shot up the town, dynamited the State Bank of Proctor, and escaped after a running fight with citizens. They got no money.

Sheriff Brush of Logan county, and a posse are hunting them.

The first intimation of the bandits' presence in Proctor was given by an explosion of dynamite which partially wrecked the bank. For an hour thereafter every man who ventured into Main street was shot at by one of two bandits who stood on the street corner. The other two worked steadily to drill or dynamite the inner door of the safe, but finally gave it up, and the four mounted their horses and rode toward Sterling, shooting up the town as they left.

GIFT, BUT NO RECIPIENT.

Kansas Church Convention is Divided Over Plan to Form Organization With Defined Powers.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

TOPEKA (Kan.) Oct. 12.—A dispute which promises to cause a fight in the International Convention of Christian churches will come up during the session to be held Thursday.

The cause of the disagreement is a gift consisting of $130,000 in stock of the Christian Publishing Company, of St. Louis, offered the church by R. A. Long, of Kansas City, the Christian Evangelist's chief asset of the pulishing company. This Mr. Long offered to give to the church, but the church has no governing body which could accept the gift.

The convention, onw in session here, it is admitted, is nothing more than a mass meeting of delegates from various churches, without power to enter into any contract.

A faction of the delegates wish to create an organization whose action will be binding upon the individual churches. Another faction bitterly opposes this move as revolutionary and will fight any attempt to form a governing body.

When the controversy arose Mr. Long withdrew his offer in the interest of harmony, but the question started by the offer holds the center of attention of 3000 delegates.

INVOKE SPECIALISTS' AID.

Seven Medical Experts Are Summoned to Save Lives of Five Typhoid Victims.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

ELIZABETH (N. J.) Oct. 12.—The advices of specialists from seven leading medical colleges will be sought in an effort to save the lives of five men who are hovering between life and death in the General Hospital here.

They are ill with typhoid fever, which attacked every one of thirteen men who sat down together at a dinner of the Entre Nous Club here a month ago.

Five of the thirteen have already died, three are safely on the road to recovery, while the other five are in a dangerous condition.

The latest victim was Daniel Sullivan, who died yesterday. After an autopsy by professors from the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New York, this statement was issued:

"This typhoid resulting from that dinner is very virulent. We will have to make several tests in the New York laboratory before we can say whether or not there are other complications."

The typhoid germs are supposed to have been contained in a lobster salad which was served at the club diner.

Committee Can't Agree on Candidate for Governor of Massachusetts; Will Poll Delegates.

The committee decided to send special delivery letters to all delegates to the recent convention, in which the delegates may express their preferences.

This indication of preference is intended for the guidance of the committee of four, to which the State convention delegated the power of nominating the head of the ticket.

The committee has been in a deadlock since its appointment, two of the members favoring the nomination of Congressman Foss and two that of Charles S. Hamlin.

DOES HE DRINK? "PUT YOUR ARMS AROUND HIM"---NOW

Senator Bruce Having Purchased This Hospital Will Conduct It Exclusively for Treating Alcoholism

Los Angeles Branch Also Owned by the Senator, Where the Neal Three-Day Cure for the Liquor Habit Is Successfully Administered

Behind the drawn curtains of many a home of wealth and comfort there lurks an abiding grief.

Loved ones who are in the clutch of the drink habit are slipping each day farther and farther away from solid ground.

"What I Went Through as a Drunkard's Wife" is a graphic story of one woman's experience as related in a recent number of the Ladies' Home Journal.

It is a story which mirrors days of sorrow in many a heart.

This wife and mother tells of her sorry fate. How the head of the house died, a victim of the drink habit, and was laid away by those who went dry-eyed to his grave. But the curse of appetite descended to the son. He, too fell into the bondage of the drink habit, which sent him staggering home night after night to sorrowing mother and sisters.

It is the story of the boy's redemption that thrills. An unknown stranger helped the mother to carry the sodden young fellow into the home one night and the mother heard from the stranger's lips the helpful injunction: "Put your arms around him."

"How can that help him?" she asked, "He has been drinking for years."

And she was told that loving interest could save him. And it did.

There is a chance for readers to "put their arms around" some loved victim of the drink habit and help save him, instead of giving up hope of his redemption. The opportunity for this helpfulness lies in interesting him in the Neal treatment for the drink habit.

The treatment is now being successfully administered at the Los Angeles Institute, located at No. 945 South Olive street, in this city, and at many other similar institutions established and in operation in substantially all the centers and large cities throughout the United States and Canada, from which upward of five thousand persons each month are made happy by the perfect cure of some dear one of the awful curse of the drink habit—each one being perfectly and satisfactorily cured in just three day's time.

Many wonderful cures have been effected at the Chicago hospital and the amazing results are known to many prominent persons in this city, reference to whom will be cheerfully furnished upon application.

That the Neal treatment does cure alcoholism—and in three days—no one will doubt after reasonable investigation.

The Neal treatment consists of the administration of a perfectly harmless and purely vegetable medicine taken internally only and without any hypodermic injections.

The treatment and the method of its administration are pronounced and conceded by all who have investigated to be not only ethical and professional but entirely satisfactory, and its success and success in all cases have been demonstrated and proved to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The Neal treatment is simple, yet very effective. Dr. Neal, after many years of the most painstaking professional and thorough study, experiment and investigation, has found and demonstrated that the drink habit instead of being a disease or an inherited affliction, is due to the stored-up poison in the system coming from the continued and excessive use of alcohol.

After discovering and demonstrating this he found the antidote for this poison, and its administration results in the neutralization of this poison. The poison thus antidoted and neutralized is eliminated from the system and the desire, appetite and craving for drink is at once destroyed or lost.

The nationalization of the Neal treatment was made possible by the Hon. James E. Bruce of Iowa, who is now associated with the Chicago hospital and giving the work his personal attention. In the United States and Canada there are at this time forty-seven Neal institutes established and opening.

The Neal institute offers a pleasant place for a three days' vacation for all those who are excessive drinkers. The surrounding are ideal. There is an atmosphere of good cheer in the institution which is itself helpful Names of guests are never divulged. All communications are confidentially treated. Guests enjoy utmost privacy. Each is given a private room and is always in the personal and direct charge of a regular physician and nurse.

The Los Angeles Institute management says: "Satisfy us of your ability to pay and pay when your friends are satisfied".

Satisfaction is guaranteed, and if a cure is not effected all money will be refunded. Investigation is personally invited. Write for booklet, "The NEAL Way," and full information. Address Neal Institute, 945 South Olive street. The Institute is open night and day. Telephone A4072; Broadway 4602.

PAY HONOR TO DISCOVERER.

GLOWING TRIBUTES FOR THE WORK OF COLUMBUS.

BRILLIANT GATHERING HEARS WORDS OF APPRECIATION.

BISHOP CONATY SPEAKS OF CHANGING CONDITIONS.

Glowing tributes were everywhere paid to America's Discoverer yesterday, the four hundred and eighteenth anniversary of the landing of his three little ships on the shores of the western continent, but in all the fifteen States that observe Discovery Day as a legal holiday, few more brilliant encomiums on the memory of the intrepid navigator were heard than at Shrine Auditorium last night.

Columbus is historically reputed to have suffered great hardships in the exploit for which his name is famous, and to have endured, after the manner of some latter-day explorers, even greater ones at the hands of his incredulous constituents afterward. But whatever his troubles in life, the eminent Genoese would have felt at least in measure repaid could he have been present at the great celebration in his honor held under the auspices of the order whose patron he is—the Knights of Columbus, Los Angeles Council No. 422.

If not perfect altogether adequate to the occasion, it was just as nearly so as the knights could make it. Under their direction the celebration was at once civic, patriotic, religious and essentially American. At their behest the city's biggest and best turned out almost in force to do honor to the memory of the great discoverer.

Long before 8:30 o'clock, the hour of beginning, the spacious grounds about the Shrine hall were ablaze from a score of huge electric horse shoes, and the big building itself was all atwinkle with a multitude of incandescent bulbs.

Little effort, aside from the appropriately semi-tropical setting of the stage, was made to decorate the interior. The knights themselves, glittering in the mail and sword of their order, furnished a sufficiently decorative touch to the big audience that comfortably filled even the last of the balcony seats.

An effort was made to have the programme as thoroughly as possible representative of the order, the city and the community. Practically every local church of the faith under which Columbus sailed was represented by its presiding father. Delegates from the legislative, executive and judicial departments of city and county sat side by side on the platform and took part in the programme.

Presiding as chairman of the evening was Justice Paul McCormick. Paul Grand Knight of the local council and State advocate for the order. In presenting him, Grand Knight Shea in a brief sketch told briefly of the formation of the order under the name and patronage of Columbus, and of the significance to it and to all patriotic Americans of the celebration of Discovery Day.

Representing the city, Mayor Alexander spoke briefly, touching upon the lessons that the life of Columbus teaches in the direction of good citizenship, of the unselfishness, self-sacrifice and lack of any mercenary spirit that makes for charity and kindliness.

UNDER TERRIBLE SHADOW.

"For the past ten days," said His Honor, "Los Angeles has stood beneath the shadow of a terrible calamity, one that weighs and should weigh heavily upon every one of us. Not the smallest of the problems that it has brought to us is that of caring for the families of those who perished there. And as the civic lesson of the character of Columbus is that of disinterested service to our fellow men, let us profit by the good instance in the aiding of the widows and orphans whom the catastrophe has left in our care."

Touching the business interests of the city and municipality, Past State Deputy Joseph Scott spoke in his happiest vein, dwelling upon the standard that the Genoese has left of honesty, integrity and indomitable courage in the face of disaster and disappointment. Received with appreciation were the selections by Kerby's Orchestra, readings by Prof. George Lynch of the Columbia School of Oratory, and the "Songs and Stories" inimitably rendered by Deputy Grand Knight Walter J. Goldsmith.

BISHOP SPEAKS.

The address of the evening, delivered by Bishop Conaty, was a masterly effort. Representing the ecclesiastical phase of the celebration and touching lightly upon the historical side of the character of the discoverer, he held up in strong relief the moral teachings of his life consecrated at once to the service of his religion and his country.

The bishop said in part:

"All mankind must honor the scholarship as well as the courage of the man who, seeking for a passage to the East, found the great continent of the West and made possible the establishment of Christianity upon the great Southern portion of this western world.

"The name of Columbus is one to conjure with. It is a source of inspiration and encouragement. It teaches that after all the essence of greatness is in duty well done, in faithfulness to God and loyalty to country. The names of great men are sources of pride. They tell us of privation and sacrifice, they speak of unselfishness and urge us to imitate. From out the ages which produced a Columbus there comes to us a spirit of chivalry, a sense of love for religion and a fearlessness in venturing when the cause of religion and country is at stake.

"It is not fair to judge the man of those times by the standards of ours, nor to compare them with ours. We are reaping now the fruits of the knowledge of the centuries and science today places us within reach of possibilities not dreamed of in the Middle Ages. However, when we consider what they did and the means at hand for the doing, we must marvel at the success which they obtained.

"The knowledge possessed by you should be used for the glory of God and the benefit of mankind and the honor of the knighthood intrusted to you should lead to that splendid obituary by which men stand ready to defend the truth and aid to protect the weak, to live honorable and stainless lives that thus they may save the holy places of heart and mind from the dangers of evil.

"Columbus Day should inspire us to greater devotion to our God and greater love for our country."

PARADE ON COLUMBUS DAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Two big parades in which Italian societies were prominent participants, were features of New York's celebration of Columbus Day in commemoration of the 418th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus. Fifteen states now observe the day—California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island. The big exchanges, including the New York Stock Exchange, were closed today. Outdoor features of the celebration included a parade in which a special attraction was a host of boy scouts. Cardinal Vannutelli reviewed a small army of school children at the Queensborough bridge.

SIXTY THOUSAND MARCH.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BOSTON, Oct. 12.—Columbus Day was observed for the first time in Massachusetts today. The celebration centered in Boston, where a parade of 60,000 men was reviewed by President Taft, Governor Draper, Mayor Fitzgerald and Archbishop Connell. Although legally a public holiday, the principal observers were almost entirely Roman Catholics. The paraders, except the military, were members of Catholic societies. Knights of Columbus, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Polish and Portuguese societies and the Holy Name Society composed the six divisions of the long line which required several hours to pass a given point and was more than an hour in the line of march.

Oakland Postpones Celebration.

OAKLAND, Oct. 12.—On account of the rain, Discovery Day, marking the celebration of the 418th anniversary of Columbus's discovery of America has been postponed until next Sunday. The full programme will then be given, running from 1 o'clock until 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

San Francisco Celebrates.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Discovery Day was marked here today with a general celebration in the Italian quarter. There were a parade, literary exercises and fireworks. A committee appointed by Mayor McCarthy also conducted literary exercises in commemoration of the event.

T. R. SCORES "JACKPOTTERS" ADDRESSES ROMAN CATHOLICS.

Former President Points Out Duty of Americans to Drive Corruptionist From Public Life at Springfield, Ill.—He Lauds Work of African Missions at Peoria Country Club and Discusses Religious Toleration—Enthusiasm Marks His Reception.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PEORIA (Ill.) Oct. 12.—Ex-President Roosevelt came from the South into Illinois today. In his speeches he denounced corrupt Legislatures and commended work which the Roman Catholic church is doing.

Leaving St. Louis in the day, he traveled across the southern end of Illinois, speaking at several places on the way. In Peoria he was the guest of the Knights of Columbus, to whom he made a speech at a dinner tonight.

It was Col. Roosevelt's first public utterance to Roman Catholics since the Vatican incident last spring. He said he favored the broadest measures of religious toleration.

In a brief speech to the crowd at the railroad station in Springfield, Col. Roosevelt made what was construed as a reference to the allegations of corruption in the Illinois Legislature. Hardly had he begun to speak, when a man in the crowd called out: "Give it to the jackpotters, colonel."

ATTACKS THE "JACKPOTTERS."

Others in the crowd, to whom the expression had become familiar since the confession of members of the Illinois Legislature that they had shared in a corruption fund which was called the "jackpot," applauded.

Col. Roosevelt took it up and attacked the men involved in the scandal as vigorously as he did in his speech last month at the Hamilton Club in Chicago, from which Senator Lorimer was excluded after the Colonel had refused to attend unless the invitation to Lorimer was withdrawn.

"Good, my friend! I am glad to hear you say that," he said. "No man who is worth his salt will have anything to do with anyone of the creatures who was tainted in that scandal. The most important thing before us as a people, is to drive from public life the corruptionist, the bribe taker, the bribe giver. The men of whom you speak as 'jackpotters' are traitors to the American people, traitors of the basest kind, and it is infamous in anyone to condone their iniquity or to support them and stand behind them, directly or indirectly."

"The presence in public life of such men is a shame and a scandal, and I don't care a rap whether they belong to my party or to some other party. I hold it my duty to be equally hostile to them in either event."

RECEPTION AT PEORIA.

When Col. Roosevelt arrived in Peoria he went to the Country Club for luncheon, then visited the home of Bishop Spalding. A public reception followed. Long before the time for the reception the club house was crowded. By the time the colonel got there the street outside was blocked. After he had spent an hour in shaking hands with hundreds of people the crowd in front of the building was larger than when he began.

The people outside were told that the colonel could not shake hands with all of them, but they refused to go away. Col. Roosevelt made a little speech from the steps to pacify those who could not get inside.

At dinner tonight Bourke Cockran of New York, Richard Little Henry of Chicago, and Dr. R. E. Kane of St. Louis made speeches.

Col. Roosevelt, in his address said: "Last winter I visited various Catholic missions in Africa and just about Christmas I was at one of them, Bishop Hanlon's, on the shores of the great Victoria Nyanza lake, just under the Equator. There I met one of our fellow Americans, Mother Mary Paul, who was at the head of the religious sisters of the establishment. She already had been in correspondence with me, saying that I must not go through Africa without stopping and seeing their mission, because she was the only American missionary in Uganda, right in the heart of the Dark Continent. So of course I stopped.

"Now, the mission to which Mother Paul belongs s doing a srking and admirable work in Africa and I promised her that I would pulicly tell about this before some Catholic body and ask that the Catholics of the United States take an active interest in this Catholic mission in mid-Africa, where such good work is being done by an American nun. Ugranda is one of the places where missionary effort has been signally successful. From personal knowledge I say this and from personal knowledge I wish to bear hearty testimony to the good work done there by the Catholic missions, and I hope the charitable Catholics in the United States will gladden the heart of Mother Paul by backing up in substantial fashion the missionary work to which she has given her life.

"There is no other country in the world where there is such really broad among good people of different creeds as in America. There is no other country where Catholic and Protestant get on as we do here, each treating the other on the basis of our common citizenship and judging him not as to how he worships his Creator, but on his conduct towards his fellow men—on his own worth as a man.

"We must never permit anything to make us deviate from this standpoint.

"Perhaps I can give you my own theory in short form by telling you of a correspondence I had once. Of course, in every church there are some good men who are narrow (as well as some men who are narrow without being good) and one of these good narrow men, a Protestant clergyman, wrote me a letter of protest, about my receiving Cardinal Satolli at the White House.

"I wrote him back, saying that I had received the Cardinal, just as, for instance, I had received bodies of German Lutherans and Welsh Methodists, and as I am expected to receive the Archbishop of Canterbury and that I would hold myself to be a poor representative of the American people, an unworthy President, if I failed to treat with good will and friendliness all good men, no matter what their religious faith might be; and then added that I could best explain my position by saying that I believed our country would last a very long time and that if it did, there would be many Presidents and some of these would be Catholics and some Protestants, and that I, a Protestant, wished to act toward my Catholic fellow citizens exactly as I hoped that a Catholic President would act toward his Protestant fellow citizens.

"I think that expressed my views about as clearly as I can put them."

Mr. Roosevelt is to spend tomorrow in campaigning for Senator Beveridge.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BAUDETTE (Minn.) Oct. 12.—With the coming today of Gov. Eberhard and other State officials, and the arrival of more provisions and supplies, temporary relief is provided for forest fire sufferers.

The basis was laid for permanent relief measures which will be taken up on the arrival of Ernest P. Bicknell of Washington, D. C., national director of the American Red Cross.

Lumber was hauled over from Rainy River today and actual work was begun on the building of temporary structures.

The first new building will be a temporary home for Mayor Williams and his family, which will also be used as headquarters until a separate building has been erected for that purpose.

Gov. Eberhard has received information that generous subscriptions are being received by the various branches of the Red Cross throughout the State and a telegram from Winnipeg announced the City Council had appropriated $3000 for relief work.

Lumber will be given to those who wish to build, household goods will be provided, and cows and horses furnished wherever possible.

Much of the partly burned timber is valuable if not left standing too long. This timber the lumber companies have agreed to buy, thus assuring a large number of the settlers work and a competence during the winter.

LOWER CUSTOMS BARRIERS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Customs barriers between the United States and Canada were broken down today in favor of donations by Canada for the forest fires sufferers in the Northwest. Collector of Customs Johnson at St. Paul, Minn., was advised by telegraph that Canadians' donations for the fire sufferers may be admitted free as an act of international courtesy. The last similar suspension of duties in such an emergency was at the time of the San Francisco earthquake.

GOING TO STOP THEM.

OFFICERS OPPOSE BOUTS UNDER AMATEUR DISGUISE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—Four round boxing contests have fallen into disfavor with District Attorney Charles M. Fickert, and if the attorney carries out his announced intention the bouts scheduled for next Friday night, when "One-Round Hogan" and Anton La Grave are advertised as the main event, will not take place.

In an interview today, Fickert said:

"There will be no contests held in Dreamland rink Friday night under the guise of amateur prize-fights. I have obtained admissions from many of the fighters who competed in some of the recent contests to the effect that they were paid in cash for their participation in the events."

Fickert declared this constituted a violation of the city ordinance and said he would be on hand with deputies to stop the bouts Friday, if the police did not aid him.

Chief of Police Seymour said he proposed to see the law was obeyed. He said he expected to see the club managers at his office before the fights.

"I think they will understand before I get through that there will be no winking at any evasion of the law," he concluded.

The attitude of the city authorities is of peculiar interest in view of the recent matching of Hogan and Eat Nelson for a 10 or 15 round meeting in this city later in the month.

PIERCE INVESTIGATING.

HE WANTS TO TALK WITH THE OIL MEN.

Frank Pierce, Assistant Secretary of the Interior arrived at the Lankersnim yesterday afternoon after having made a short tour of the oil fields of central California.

Mr. Pierce, who has been closely identified with the workings of the department, says he is in California to look into the conditions surrounding the oil lands.

"I have been active in the legal end of the department it is not proper for me to express my opinion in regard to the laws now governing the filing on oil lands," said the assistant secretary yesterday.

"I will be in Los Angeles until Sunday, and in the meantime I would like to have all oil men and others interested in this matter come and see me so that we can talk it over and arrive at the proper conclusion."

GREAT SELLING PARADE FRIDAY AT NOON.

THEATERS VIE TO GIVE THEIR BEST TO SUFFERERS.

Gratifying as was the result of the box-auction at the Auditorium Tuesday noon, the hustling committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association propose that the next move in the sales campaign for the mammoth benefit for Times sufferers, to be held at the Auditorium October 20, shall totally eclipse it and advance the preliminary receipts to a tremendous degree.

Promoter Max Meyberg was busy all day yesterday, and at nightfall he had some gratifying and highly interesting results to show for his endeavors.

At 11 o'clock Friday—tomorrow—members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, to the number of 150, will meet for a parade through the downtown streets.

Mr. Meyberg secured the co-operation of the local musicians, who promised him, if he needed them, all the band men in town. This wholesale offer cannot be accepted, but it is probable that nearly 100 instrumentalists will be used.

The members of this sales-parade are among the chief boosters of the city, and the parade, which will continue for three hours, will be made in automobiles. There will be two stops to a block, and at each stop there will be a campaign among the onlookers as fervent, heartfelt and personal as the lurid and picturesque appeals of the old-time revivalists.

Ladies connected with the leading clubs have been asked to participate.

The price of seats will be $5 for the main floor, $3 for all other seats, $2.

The Benefit Committee has two boxes and one loge that can be resold, the bidders having offered them to the committee in order that more money can be obtained from them.

A seat purchased by Charles Frohman, at a magnificent figure, has been re-donated, and is in the hands of H. B. Gourley, of the Chamber of Commerce. Almost needless to say, this seat is in a very choice location.

A superb design for the programme has been drawn by C. W. Penfield, and has been accepted. It represents, over an announcement in apparent relief, a sackclothed figure of grief clasping hands with the angel of life and progress.

Superb work is being done by the men who have volunteered to canvas "ads" for the programme. They are many hundreds of dollars to the good already, and hope to establish a new record for programmes of any description.

EXTRAORDINARY ATTRACTIONS.

Henri Gressit, manager of the all-star revival of "The Prince of Pilsen," which will be playing at Hamburger's Majestic, is making extraordinary efforts to have a record-breaking representation from his organization. He hired Henry W. Savage last night, concerning the great public interest in the matter and unusual nature of the testimonial. Gressit says that in all probability there will be a scene from the play, that Jess Dandy will give his famous "Cincinnati" specialty, Primadonna Barnes Cameron will be heard in a group of numbers, Walter Catlott and Ivor Anderson will each do specialties and there will be a special "pony" number.

The Burbank company will give an act from the Eldridge-Heustis play, "The Eternal Three."

Helen Bertram, prima-donna soprano, will be heard in several solos.

The Woman's Orchestra, under the the direction of Harley Hamilton, will furnish instrumental music.

The Orpheum will contribute comedians Waterbury Brothers and Tenny, and from the same bill Rameses, the Egyptian magician.

The Pantages management is going to send Piquo the acrobatic clown, and McMahon's Southern Review, a "girl act."

From the Los Angeles will appear McCormick and Irving in "Flirtology," and the Four Free Sisters.

From the Auditorium, there will be presented the second act of "Morning, Noon and Night," the current bill.

HE'S FREED BY PAUPER'S OATH.

Jose Chawa took the pauper's oath in order to get out of jail yesterday. He was convicted ninety days ago of having taken liquor into the San Manuel Indian reservation. He was sentenced to serve two months in the County Jail and pay a fine of $100. He remained thirty days in jail, longer than the fixed period because he could not pay the fine. When he sought to escape by taking an oath that he did not have more than $20 worth of worldly goods, the officers were doubtful about letting him go, as he was driving a horse when he was taken in custody. He cleared up the situation by swearing that the animal belonged to a widowed friend.

GOING TO THE APPLE SHOW.

Thirty members of the Produce Exchange of Los Angeles left in a private car yesterday evening for Watsonville where they will attend the Apple Annual. Many of the local men are heavy receivers of Pajara Valley fruit, and it was deemed advisable to make an excellent showing on that account. The Los Angeles contingent will not only be entertained, but will entertain. A band of zobo players has been arranged and garbed in high hats, auto dusters and the zoboes hidden in the shapes of real band instruments, the merchants will parade the streets. Besides Watsonville, the special car will go to Del Monte, Santa Cruz and other nearby places.

BROOKS TO ENTERTAIN.

Fred Emerson Brooks, a California man who, like the prophets of old, is more honored in other states than his own, will give an entertainment at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening. He is an orator and entertainer who has made a high mark. As a humorist he ranks with the best. His poem entitled "Pickett's Charge at Gettysburg," is regarded by Henri Watterson to be the greatest he ever read. Brooks reads his own poems only.

COMPANY ALLEGED BANKRUPT.

The California National Supply Company yesterday petitioned the United States District Court to adjudge the Consolidated Oil Company of Coalinga an involuntary bankrupt. The petitioner asserts that the Coalinga company is indebted to it in the sum of $2580.65 and is insolvent.

MEETING OF PRAYER UNION.

An all-day meeting of the Evangelical Prayer Union will be held in Central Presbyterian Church tomorrow, beginning at 9:30 a.m., and continuing throughout the day without intermission. There will be a different leader for each hour.

Perry, the "squint-eyed man," is thought to be the man who rented the launch Pastime, or Peerless, the description furnished by Mrs. Ingersoll tallying exactly with that given by the launch owner.

Acting on information obtained from Mrs. Ingersoll, the detectives believe they will succeed in locating the suspects in two or three days. They have found, it is said, a well-marked trail which they believe is leading toward the men themselves in such a way that capture seems certain.

MOTORCYCLE RACE EVENTS.

Ascot Park to Be Scene of Match Race and One-Hour Contest Sunday Afternoon.

The final plans for the motorcycle races at Ascot Park were concluded yesterday when the match between M. J. Graves and young Balke was arranged. This should be an easy victory for Graves. The course is in shape for good work.

Jake De Rosier, who is managing the meet, knows all the fast men and is able to secure some excellent talent for the dirt track events which are scheduled to start at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Some of the well-known men in town are to appear on the course and though De Rosier will be unable to ride, some equally fast speedsters are to be on the track.

One of the big events for the day is the one-hour race. This contest always calls out a fast field and the prize is worth striving for. This long race is to conclude the day's events. The Ascot Park track lends itself to motorcycle racing as the machines can hug the pole and secure a firm traction space for the fast work.

Ross Ledford, a messenger boy, who was arrested at San Diego about a month ago on a charge of having smuggled opium over the Mexican border, was brought to this city yesterday by Deputy United States Marshal Place, in order that he might have an opportunity to plead guilty. Ledford has told the officers that he brought the drug into this country for another man. He refuses to reveal the identity of the person whom he says procured him to commit the crime. The authorities say that a full confession from him might reveal a gang of smugglers who are operating in the southern city.

GRASPS GOLD, FINDS GRAVE.

DIARY OF SCIENTIST READS LIKE FAIRY TALE.

TELLS OF ADVENTURES IN FAR OFF COUNTRIES.

WRITES: "I AM RICH AT LAST," BUT DIES ALONE.

A short story from the diary of Dr. Charles P. Holt of Santa Ana, who died on July 19 at Cisneros, Colombia, supplies the leading motif of the last twenty years of the distinguished journalist-scientist-adventurer's life—a motif of gold.

The diary, camera, plates and other personal belongings of the doctor were brought to Los Angeles yesterday by two of his friends and associates—P. E. Fuller, a mining engineer, and J. V. Stewart, who has prospected the world over for the precous metal.

Stewart carries a watch, the case of which is made of seven different kinds of gold found in various parts of the globe, and a chain made of nuggets washed from the rivers of the Klondike. These men are staying at the Alexandria while settling up Holt's affairs.

Holt's dairy reads almost like a fairy tale. It describes at length many odd adventures and details the life he found in South American countries.

It was years before the Klondike had been discovered that Dr. Holt turned his attention to South America. A pamphlet issued in 1892 by the Bureau of American Republics, describing many of the countries of South and Central America, was found among his effects.

One passage marked concerning the possibilities of Colombia reads: "It may be said that one walks on gold, so plentiful is the mineral in sections of Colombia."

JOINS ALASKA RUSH.

Dr. Holt was one of the first to join in the rush for Alaska. After several years passed in the Far North, he returned to California, and was here at the time of the Nevada discoveries. He followed the pioneers into that territory and was associated with Charles D. Taylor, of the Goldfield Jumbo mine.

Later he had a longing for California and came back. Then came the trip to South America, attracted by the almost fabulous wealth reported to lay on the surface of the ground. He determined to go to Antioquia, Colombia, and his dairy records his doings there.

A day or two after his arrival on the shores of the Rio Mata, Holt wrote in his book: "The heat and the insects combine to make great disgomforts, but I am here for GOLD and nothing can cheat me out of the shining metal left in the dirt by the Incas for me to take back to Santa Ana.

He forgot that death might come and cheat him of all his gains, as it did less than a month after he had written this paragraph.

When the doctor, already past his fifth year, reached South America he refused to believe that it was necessary to take culinine to ward off malaria, induced by the heavy rains.

"My health is excellent and I am not afraid of the fever that they are all warning me of," he wrote in one place.

Of the rain he declared jestingly that is should be caught and taken to Arizona where it would be worth as much as the gold.

"In California," is a note in his diary "we think a rain of twenty-one inches in a season is a great deal, more than enough to supply all our wants, and when you read this and see that it rains here more than fifteen feet in a year, you will smile. It is true, however, and anyone that has had to travel through the muck and mire of trails that reach the bellies of the mules, can readily realize this fact."

QUEER EXPERIENCES.

While working for a short time on his claims on the Rio Mata, Dr. Holt tells of the peculiar growing things of that section.

"Several days ago while with one of the peons, we came across a peculiar tree, which he insisted on cutting down and then in chopping into lengths of about three feet. This done he stepped and turned up one end of the stick, leaving a rich sap flow into his mouth. I tasted it and it was clear and sparkling, having little flavor and the appearance of distilled water. What a boon this plant would be to the traveler across the Mojave desert, or begins finding it in Death Valley.

"At another time I saw my peon rush for a bush-like growth and cutting some of it, he handed it to me. I would have taken it for lamb's wool had I not seen the place from which it was taken. It was a peculiar vegetable wool which the natives sold for eight ten cents a pound. The name of it they gave me as 'bolas de lana,' the sap tree they call the 'aggrassa.'"

The myriads of butterflies attracted his attention.

"While I sit in my hut writing this I can see them flying all about. There is one hovering near that is as large as a robin and as blue as the azure of the sky. Yesterday evening one of the peons asked me to come and see the sights. He pointed out a bull frog on the edge of the stream. It was as large as a half gallon measure and as we approached it, jumped away ten feet at a le

While working for a short time on the mines on the Rio Mata, Dr. Holt tells of the peculiar growing things of that section.

"Several days ago while with one of the peons, we came across a peculiar vine which he insisted on cutting down and then in chopping into lengths of about three feet. This done he opened and turned up one end of the vine, having a rich sap flow into his cup. I tasted it and it was clear and sparkling, having little flavor and the appearance of distilled water. Yesterday evening one of the men came to me to come and see the monkeys. He pointed out a bull frog on the other side of the stream. It was as large as a half gallon measure and as we approached it, jumped away ten feet at a bound.

"Another time Dr. Holt speaks of a monkey killing by one of his associates. "There are hundreds of them in the woods. The little fellows in the woods. They are very tame, and while walking this morning I came within a few feet of one of a number of them gamboling about in the trees."

Speaking of snakes several times, he mentions a queen snake seven feet in length which was killed by an associate and the skin tanned by a native for a woman friend. This gave the doctor to meditate on the fickleness of woman, saying that just as the snake sheds under the cuticle of a new one, so the lovely belle would find in-wanted to interest a number of friends in order to put in big dredges. He daily wrote of the pannings of gold which were made from the gravel in the river bed, comparing them with those he knew in Alaska and other places. "The wealth of the river is unknowable. I have panned from $1.18 to $1.60 per cubic yard from the Mata. The average in Alaska is only thirty-five cents a cubic yard, and in Northern California seventeen cents a cubic yard. I am rich at last. I have my gold." He then went on to describe the things which his gold might bring him in Southern California—a beautiful home for himself and for his many friends to visit in.

He left the Rio Mata with his peons for Cisneros on July 6. Four days later he wrote the last page in his diary, a description of La Viborita and a few uncomplimentary remarks about his peons, who, with the money he had given them for dinner and breakfast, had gone out and bought anis-ade, the drink that takes the place of whisky in Colombia.

It was after leaving this place that the fever apparently took hold of him, and by the time he arrived at Cisneros on the eighteenth of the month, he was beyond the help of physicians. He died the day after, alone, and without the knowledge of a single friend. His body was buried just outside the Catholic grave yard near the railroad tracks by the officials of the town, and with the help of one or two associates who came with all speed to take charge of the remains.

Dr. Holt was associate editor of the New York Sun in 1875. He was a graduate of the American College of Physicians and Surgeons, but never took up the practice of medicine. He was one of the first stenographers in the country, having been a pupil of Isaac Pitman. He was also an associate of Prof. Fowler, the famous phrenologist.

He left no immediate relatives, but many friends in all parts of the world. It was apparent that he could not remain more than a year or two in a settled portion, the "wanderlust" calling him forth to new journeys.

Fuller and Stewart have extensive holdings on the Rio Mata which are being worked and are supposed to be among the richest placer fields in the world.

It will be built by the Holly Sugar Company of Colorado, and will be in operation by July 15, 1911. With its completion and the completion of the Anaheim Sugar Company plant, now building, Orange County will have four factories. There are two now in operation, one at Los Alamitos and the other at Santa Ana.

R. L. Forsythe has signed up a large acreage for the factory. Its capacity is not yet known. It will be all new machinery. The Holly Sugar Company owns two plants in Colorado, one of 1000 tons capacity at Holly and one of 600 tons capacity at Swink.

CALL BOND ELECTION.

Ontario City Trustees Take Steps So Electors May Express Wish on Water Bond Project.

ONTARIO, Oct. 12.—The City Trustees last night passed an ordinance calling an election on the 31st inst., for the purpose of voting on the question of bonding the city for $175,000 for the installation of a complete new city water system.

The board also adopted an ordinance empowering officers to enter and search any premises wherein there is reason to believe liquor is being kept for the purpose of selling it, and to confiscate all such "wet" goods found.

POSTOFFICE GROWTH.

Postoffice figures as given by Postmaster Berger for the quarter ending September 30, show an increase in the business of the local office this year over that of 1909 of 12½ per cent.

While riding a bicycle west on A street last night, Robert Campbell son of R. B. Campbell of West A street, collided with a horse and buggy. He was thrown to the ground and his leg broken. The buggy was driven by Mrs. A. Vaughan. The Campbell boy, when near the rig turned his head to call to a companion and the collision resulted.

AFTER MANY DAYS.

LONG DRILLING IS REWARDED.

OIL IS STRUCK IN WELL NEAR SANTA YNEZ.

Petroleum Reached at a Depth of Thirty-six Hundred Feet and After Hope Had About Been Given Up—Lot of Water Over It—Excitement Prevails.

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 12.—After three years of drilling and when hope was about to be abandoned oil was struck yesterday on the holdings of the San Lucas Oil Company, San Lucas ranch, four miles south of Santa Ynez and less than thirty miles from Santa Barbara.

Samuel P. Calef, interested in the company, received the information here at noon and immediately communicated with Arthur Alexander, another interested, who was at Los Olivos. Mr. Alexander hurried by machine to the well and later telephoned a substantiation of the report.

The oil was struck at a depth of 3600 feet. In the casing there was considerable water, which retarded the flow, in fact, it prevented the oil from getting to the surface in such a refined state as to tell positively what gravity it is.

Mr. Alexander stated, however, that the oil will test about 34 or 35, and that which has come through 3600 feet of water will go 25. The oil is a light green, very much like the Santa Paula oil. All other wells in the upper end of the Santa Ynez-Santa Maria field developed a black oil.

At the point of contact with the oil-bearing strata the casing was six-inch. This will be cemented, and the water pumped out, then the well will be developed. Not before this time, however, will it be possible to determine just what sort of a well it is.

The company is made up of Santa Barbara and San Francisco capital; Santa Barbara holding 49 per cent., while the Crocker estate of San Francisco the remaining 51 per cent.

There is great excitement in Santa Ynez as the result of the strike, which is considered the most important since the Santa Maria field was opened. The San Lucas Company was formed by interested capital in the Santa Ynez Valley for the purpose of testing that region for oil. Now that oil has been found there will be several rigs placed on the ground and operations will commence shortly on several properties.

ELSINORE.

ELSINORE, Oct. 12.—Byron and Ed Robinson of the Elsinore Cafe, and S. Jones of the Boyd Drug Company, charged with violating the city's prohibition ordinance, appeared before Recorder Harrison, pleaded guilty and paid fines of $100, each.

STOMACH MISERY JUST VANISHES

Indigestion, Gas, Heartburn and Dyspepsia Go

There is not a single reader of the Times who suffers from any form of Stomach trouble who can afford to leave Diapepsin untried. There is no other preparation which gives such prompt and lasting relief.

As there is often someone in your family who suffers from an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour gassy Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula, plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieves at once such miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, every-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest; instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and besides, poisons the breath with nauseous odors.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

TUMBLES TO DEATH.

Unknown Man Fatally Injured by Fall from Top of Freight Car in Ventura County.

VENTURA, Oct. 12.—An unknown man was killed last night near Moorpark, this county, by tumbling from the top of a freight car, on which he with a companion, was stealing a ride towards Los Angeles. When the man fell from the top of the car his companion scrambled down and dropped off. He found only the manbled remains scattered along the track. The Coroner held an inquest. A part of a letter from Coney Island, New York, was found near the remains. There was no envelope left, and the letter was addressed simply "Jack." In it something was said about the mother of "Jack" and the writers, who appeared to be a sister and brother to the party addressed. The letter was signed "Albert and Mary." The remains were interred here today.

COMES FAR TO AID.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Bernard F. McElroy is coming all the way from Pittsburgh in an effort to secure a parole for her husband, who is under arrest here charged with passing worthless checks aggregating $2500. McElroy will plead guilty. His criminal work was aided by a worthless draft deposited in a bank in Anaheim.

The bog Overland machine stolen at Colton from E. S. Bradish of Upland Sunday was found this morning by Constable W. C. Austin of Pasadena, among the Puente hills. The thief is still at large. The machine was wrecked.

The Santa Fe has decided to erect a $5000 recreation hall at the shop yards here for the use of the employees. Plans have been prepared and it is expected that work will commence on the structure soon.

THE HARMON WAVE MOTOR

Now being installed at Ocean Park, Cal., for the American Power Company of Southern California, is attracting considerable attention in this State. Reinforced concrete piles, each weighing over twelve tons, are driven in the ocean bed, and upon these is in course of construction the superstructure and machinery. Each square acre of ocean surface is expected to develop over three thousand horse-power, which can be transmitted anywhere distant from the sea as electric light, heat, or power. With the illimitable ocean as the source of production of this gigantic power, and with the entire world as a market constantly increasing its demand for power, the promoters of this enterprise have a tremendous field for the exploitation of this extremely valuable commodity—POWER.

Vigorous Old Age

No matter how old a man may be in years, he need never feel old if he will use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the elixir of life.

cine for those advanced in years. He is now 87 years of age, but he is as lively and busy as a man 40 years younger.

In his recent letter he said: "It has been some time since I have written so I am going to drop you a few lines to let you know how I am getting along. I wintered well and had lots of fun fishing this spring. Then I went back to work in the canning factory. Last Tuesday, Friday and Saturday I put in 15 hours each day. You can see I have some sand in me yet. I was appointed delegate to represent Fulton Chapter of R. A. M. at Baldwinsville week before last. I was the oldest delegate there. I saw a great many people from all over the country; mostly every one would say, 'What do you do to look so young?' and I would tell them 'I use Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.' Then most every one would say, 'I will try it.' Any one who talks to me is recommended to use Duffy's. I am sending you my picture so you can see how well I looked when I went as delegate."

S. R. Baldwin,
Fulton, N. Y.

When men and women pass the age of sixty they need a remedy that will quicken the circulation, bring restful sleep, invigorate the brain and prevent decay. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only agent that will produce these happy results. It improves the digestion and assimilation of the food and gives tone and vitality to every organ in the body.

It has been used with remarkable results in the prevention and cure of consumption, pneumonia, grip, coughs, colds, asthma, malaria, low fevers, stomach troubles and all wasting and diseased conditions. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children; recognized as a family medicine and prescribed by physicians everywhere.

CLIMBING UP.

VERNON WINS TWO GAMES.

ROY BRASHEAR AND HOSP HIT HOMERS IN FIRST.

MATINEE CONTEST ENDS IN ELEVENTH INNING.

GOOD FIELDING WITH ERRORS MARK BOTH GAMES.

Vernon, 8; Sacramento, 3. Morning game.

Vernon, 1; Sacramento, 0. Eleven innings.

If the Vernons had played ball three months ago as they did yesterday there would be no need of any one staying up at night figuring how to keep Portland from winning the pennant, for Hap Hogan would be very close to the top right now, as he beat the Senators twice yesterday without fudging.

He did not trim them, either, through the help of any horseshoes, loads of hay, life reader, or scer bunk, but simply out-hit, out-fielded and out-pitched them. The morning game was such a joke that it made every one laugh, but in the afternoon there was a free-for-all guessing contest that went eleven innings before Vernon won.

Fitzgerald heaved for the Senators in the first game and was good enough to keep Vernon from making more than six hits, but some of these were slashers. Roy Brashear and Hosp hit home runs over the left fence, and Carlisle rapped out a double and a single, and Schafer himself made two hits. In addition to all this Fitz gave seven passes and made two wild pitches while he heaved the ball so poorly another time that little Micky La Longe got a passed ball from it. One bad muff of an easy fly sent in two runs, and altogether Fitz had a rough passage.

In the first for Vernon, Carlisle singled and scored on a sacrifice, an out and a wild pitch. Then came Roy Brashear's homer. In the third a pass and Hosp's homer scored two runs, and two more arrived in the fifth on a pass, Carlisle's double, and Burns's muff of a pop fly with two out. A pass, sacrifice and a single made the seventh run, and a pass, wild pitch, passed ball and an out the final one.

Schafer had the Senators helpless from start to finish and the three runs they made were really lucky ones.

The matinee game was interesting from start to finish and was in doubt from the time Shinn made the first hit in the first inning until Brown batted in the only run of the game in the last of the eleventh inning. Willett was better than Arellanes in the pitching line and but four of the Senators got as far as third base. Shinn was caught at the plate in the eighth and eleventh innings and got to third in the sixth while Danzig reached there in the fifth.

While Arellanes was hit for twelve swats he was never in danger until the tenth and eleventh innings. In the tenth, with one out, Willett, Carlisle and Burrell singled, but Ross hit into a double play and a run was cut off.

Roy Brashear opened the last of the elventh with a double over third base and Hosp singled. Coy, batting for Hogan, forced Hosp at second. This put Brashear on third and he stayed there, while Lindsay fouled to Danzig. Then Brown won the game for Vernon with a hard slam over Burns's head, which scored Roy Brashear.

There were a number of fancy plays in both games and also a number of punk errors.

ALL-STARS WINNERS.

POOR SUPPORT GIVEN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—The American League team of All-stars again defeated the Philadelphia American League team, the score being 5 to 1. The home team's pitchers were the same as yesterday, Bender, Plank and Coombs, and all of them were far more effective than in the first game of the series. They were given poor support and the All-stars had no difficulty in winning. Walsh kept Philadelphia's hits scattered. Score:

All-Stars, 5; runs, 7; errors, 0.

Two-base hit—Cobb.

Three-base hits—Elberfeld and Collins.

Struck out—by Walsh, 2; by Bender, 1; by Plank, 3; by Coombs, 3.

Centerfielder Oldring of the Philadelphia Americans may not be able to play in the world's series, as the ligaments in his knee were twisted in yesterday's game.

In going after a fly ball Oldring lost it in the sun. To prevent being hit he turned suddenly and wrenched his knee badly. It was badly swollen today and specialists declared they could not tell whether the injury would prevent Oldring from playing until tomorrow.

OH, YOU DUCKS.

ANOTHER GAME WITHOUT RUNS.

STEEN HOLDS LOS ANGELES TO SHUT-OUT SCORE.

Fifty-eight Consecutive Innings of Whitewash Administered by Portland Team—Krueger Saves the Record in the Ninth When He Captures Wheeler's Short Fly.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With Steen pitching, Portland again shut out Los Angeles today in nine innings and made it fifty-eight consecutive innings since a run has been registered by a visiting club. The final score was 4 to 0.

Artie Krueger with a great catch of a Texas leaguer in the ninth, when the Angels registered three hits without being able to tally, saved the record when it seemed about to fall.

Roy Castleton occupied the hill for the Angels and was not effective at all times. He managed to escape serious molestation until the third inning, but in that inning the home guard chased over three runs.

Ryan opened the third with a tap to Howard, who ohit Ryan running to first instead of landing the ball into George Wheeler's mitt. Olsen's out put Ryan on second, and Halliman's bad toss allowed him to reach third. Krueger filed to Daley in center and Ryan beat the toss home, scoring the first run. Casey then beat out an in field tap and Sheehan walked, which put it up to Rapps with two men out. Rapps ripped one to deep center for a couple of cushions and Casey and Sheehan clattered over the plate.

The fourth run was scored by Portland in the fifth. Krueger opened by getting a ticket to first. Casey advanced him to second with a neat sacrifice and when Wheeler dropped Delmas' toss of Sheehan's grounder Krueger scored from mid-station.

That ended the scoring, though it looked very much as though the Angels would dent Portland's white washing record in the ninth.

Daley, the first Angel up in the ninth, flew to Ryan. "Berney" Bernard, who played second base while Howard went to right field, singled to left. Howard followed Bernard with a poke to center, but Bernard was held at second. Wheeler's Texas league fly was captured nicely by Krueger after a hard run and then Kennedy managed to shove one over second which Ryan retrieved in time to hold Bernard at third, and the bases were populated. Hallihan hit to Casey and the shut-out was recorded.

HOT STUFF.

PORTLAND MANAGER HOT AFTER LEAGUE OFFICIALS.

Accuses "The Bunch" of Robbing the Beavers and Intimates That There Must Be a Change—Intends to Carry Hetling Case Through All the Courts of Baseball.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] First to appeal from the decision of President Graham to the Pacific Coast League directorate and if over-ruled there, as they expect to be, to carry the controversy to the National Commission, is the plan of the McCredies in the Hetling case.

"I have not had time to study Judge Graham's ruling closely," said Judge W. W. McCredie, "but it is clear he places all the blame on Portland and gives us the worst of it. If we are to blame for playing a man who has drawn salary from us all season without a break, then I do not understand the rules of baseball. The decision was not unexpected, because I never have had fair treatment from the California officials of this league. I shall appeal this decision to the highest court and I expect to win."

Walter McCredie was much more violent than his uncle: "You can quote me as saying," said Walter, "that I think the whole thing is a frame-up to beat Portland out of the pennant in favor of Oakland, and also that I think the Coast League is crooked all the way through. It always has been crooked and it will continue to be so until the present officials are ousted.

"We intend to go through every baseball court in the land until we find just where we stand and whether or not Judge Graham can rob us of three games to satisfy the peanut politicians around San Francisco Bay.

"Judge Graham and the Oakland club have not only robbed us of these three games, but they have played the pickpockets on two more occasions. I refer to the bold hold-up that Umpire Van Haltren subjected us to, and Judge Graham decided against us, on that protested game at Oakland earlier in the season. Van Haltren lied from start to finish in the investigation afterwards. He knew that he was lying, and he had to do it because he owned property in Oakland and wanted to protect himself.

"They robbed us of Carson, Shinn and Pfyl in the same way.

"We have some interesting news to give out in a few days, and President Graham and the rest of the bunch down there will have to hunt their holes."

SAN FRANCISCO END.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] How the pennant race now stands:

	Played.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Portland	174	98	76	.563

Oakland was sustained in its protest of the playing of Gus Hetling by the McCredies and the three games in question of September 27-29-30, won by Portland, were forfeited to the Commuters by Judge Thomas F. Graham today. The ruling has placed Oakland in the lead by a narrow margin.

Judge W. W. McCredie of Portland, owner of the Beavers, has been variously quoted as regards this decision. According to some of the press dispatches he has been reported as saying that Judge Graham was playing peanut politics and that Portland never got a square deal. Other interviews have been more temperate, but in all of his statements the Portland baseball magnate has declared his intention of appealing the case to every baseball court of the land.

That there will be a loud outcry from Portland and that the sporting writers of that city will join together in abuse of the Pacific Coast League is to be expected. The McCredies have cleverly fostered the opinion that their club cannot get an even break until, through the assistance of fanatical baseball writers, the fans of that city in large measure have come to believe it.

This, however, will make no difference so far as the Coast League is concerned. Judge McCredie has his right of appeal through the national board of the National Commission as well as an appeal to the Coast League directors. That there has come at this time from Portland no threat of outlawry is a matter of surprise although it proves that in this particular Judge McCredie realizes that little or no attention would be paid to it.

UMPIRE SIDES IN.

DECISION IS WITHHELD.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—President Johnson of the American League, announced tonight that Umpire Evans, in a detailed report regarding the Lajoie incident at St. Louis, last Sunday, had given Lajoie an absolutely clean bill in relation to his securing eight hits in a double-header.

The report was not made public, but will be when President Johnson has completed his investigation and is ready to announce his decision.

With the debate regarding Lajoie's performance becoming more heated daily, President Johnson is said to have offered as the best solution of the matter the returning of the automobile prize to the donors of the award.

That, in the league president's opinion, would be very unpleasant, but in order to reward the players he would have the averages declared a tie and have the league present suitable prizes to both Lajoie and Cobb.

PLENTY OF BACKING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Encouraged by early successes to get backing for the Philadelphia Americans in the world's series against the Chicago Nationals, a coterie of Philadelphia fans has collected $100,000 to bet on the home team at even money or better.

The men promoting the scheme desire to send the team into the battle against Chicago next Monday confident that the Philadelphia fans are with them.

One of the men behind the deal is a former Swarthmore student and noted in the city as a plunger. The commissioners are still soliciting contributions and hope to increase the betting fund to $150,000 before the first game is called.

HIGH SCHOOL BEATS LAWYERS.

Cass Kicks Field Goal Two Minutes Before Final Whistle Blows at Fiesta Park.

The Los Angeles High School Rugby team defeated the U. S. C. Law School fifteen, yesterday, at Fiesta Park by the score of 4 to 0.

The score was made just before the whistle blew at the end of the second half by a beautiful 25-yard field goal by Cass.

The game was hotly contested throughout, and was marked by good playing on both sides. Foss, right wing, was the Law School's shining star. Time and again he plunged through the L. A. ranks with remarkable speed. He was stopped with difficulty each time.

Beach, McClure, Cass and Clark starred for the high school in advancing the ball. Patterson, L. A.'s three-quarter, featured the battle by his clever kicks in tight places.

Just about two minutes before the final whistle and after the ball had been advanced 25 yards from the goal, young Cass suddenly seized the oval, ran a few steps and then made the kick that won the game for the Blue and White.

Line-up of the L. A.-U. S. C. contest:

Around The World By the "OFFICE BOY"

The Parsee woman is usually a slender and shapely creature; as erect as a flag-pole, and she wears but one thing—a bright-colored piece of material, which is wound about her head and her body nearly down to her knees, and which clings like her own skin. Her legs and feet are bare, and so are her arms, excepting for the fanciful bunches of loose, silver rings on her ankles and arms. She has jewelry bunched on the side of her nose also, and showy cluster rings on her toes. As a rule, she has a large, shiny, brass water jar of graceful shape on her head and one of her naked arms curves up and the hand holds the jar in place. She is so straight, so erect, and she steps with such style and such easy grace and dignity, and her curved arm and the brazen jar are such a support to the picture. The working women of other nations cannot compare with her as a road decoration.

Usually the man is a nobly built, great athlete, with not a rag on but his loin handkerchief. His color is a deep, dark brown, his skin is like satin and shines like a piece of mahogany. As I recall these perfectly built men it occurs to me how differently we could make them look if we had them in one of our stores for a few minutes. First, I'd put one of our new "Shape-maker" suits on them; the "Shape-maker" is an entirely new model for young men which Hart Schaffner & Marx have just brought out. Then I'd have a nice Manhattan shirt with an E. & W. collar, and a scarf to harmonize with the suit and shirt and, to cap the climax, I'd use a Stetson telescope $4 hat, and then I'd show you the prettiest picture you ever saw off a canvas.

NEW VIEWS OF CHINESE.

EARLY ENLIGHTENMENT OF COAST COMMISSIONERS.

ADVENTURES OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE VISITORS.

BY LEWIS R. FREEMAN.

Special Correspondent of The Times with Coast Chamber of Commerce Expedition to the Orient

ON THE VOYAGE TO CHINA, Sept. 12.—If there is anyone who has an idea that the American Commission that visited Japan in 1908, and the Japanese Commission that visited America in 1909, have not strengthened the ties of affection between the two nations, the demonstrations with which our party, even though en voyage to another country, has been received in the Japanese ports would go a long way toward convincing him of the extent of his error of reckoning.

The first message that the wireless operator of the Korea pulled down out of the ether after we had come within the zone of Japanese communication was a "welcome to our shores" from Baron Oura, the Minister of Commerce and Agriculture. Several dozen messages, general and personal, were received before the steamer tied up to her buoy in Yokohama Bay, and after that distinguished visitors flowed over the rail so rapidly that, before long, Japanese barons in the cabin became as common as East Indian coolies in the steerage. A commissioner who had less than a half dozen dinner invitations in Tokyo was looked upon as an outcast, and some of the members who had visited Japan with the Commission of 1908, or who had formed friendships with the Japanese during the latter's visit to the United States last year, were bidden to twice and thrice that number of functions. The cabin was transformed into a Japanese garden with offerings of flowers and dwarf trees and the aggregate of the souvenirs would have started a respectable Oriental bazaar.

Moore of Spokane, Blaine of Seattle and Clark of Portland have been prominent in connection with both of the other Commissions, and these were the vortices of the most active demonstrations of amity. Moore was yell leader on the occasion of the Japanese visit, and I have a blurred composite picture in the centers of whirlpools of what would ordinarily have been distinguished-looking and dignified Japanese—now on the steamer, now at the Grand Hotel, now at the Shimbashi station, Tokyo—beating time for an international cry of his own composition which ran something like this:

Rah, Rah, Rah—
A - mer - i - ka—
Nip - pon, Nip - pon,
Banzai - Rah.

A couple of dozen Japanese mutes, with the fur of their beloved silk hats all awry and bedraggled like that of fighting tom cats, brought the voice of Moore back to the steamer just before she sailed from Yokohama. The parting yell was given in pantomime.

Besides a ball at the Grand Hotel and an informal meeting with the Mayor of Yokohama and the members of the local Chamber of Commerce, the only invitation that it was deemed advisable that any of the Commission should accept was one for a day of automobiling in Tokyo, with a luncheon at the Imperial, tea at the villa of Baron Shibusawa and a dinner at the Nippon Club.

MOTORING IN JAPAN

Motoring in Japan is distinctly a new experience. There are not many machines in the capital, and these are practically all owned by men who appear to be so powerful, politically or financially, as to come pretty near to being above the law, or at least above such law as applies to the rights of the proletariat. There seem to be no regulations regarding speeding and apparently the only effort made to protect the crowd is through keeping the man—the chauffeur—tooting on the horn while another—a sort of footman—shouts out warnings at the top of his voice.

It drizzled steadily during our stay in Tokyo and the pavements were covered with a thin layer of liquid mud. But as auto in the lot was equipped with skid chains. At places in such crowded streets as the Ginza Sandome the speedometers registered up to thirty miles an hour, and yet, miraculously, nothing happened.

The dinner at the Nippon Club was given by members of the Japanese Commission to America, prominent among the Tokyo guests being Baron and Baroness Kanda (some of the Baron's irreverent friends who were students of Yankee slang insisted in addressing him as "The Kandy Kid") Baron and Baroness Oura, Baron and Baroness Shibusawa and Mr. Nakano, President of the Tokyo Chamber of Commerce. In the latter's speech of welcome he voiced his regret that it was impossible for the Commission to arrange formal entertainment at that time, and took the occasion to extend to its members an invitation for a longer visit in Japan after the conclusion of the China trip. This will occur at the time of the Emperor's birthday, and it is the desire of the Japanese to reach Tokyo in season for the Imperial Garden Party at the Shiba Palace on the 13th of November, to which its members have been invited.

The most interesting feature of the dinner was the playlet—given by the pupils of the Imperial Dramatic School and brought it to a close. This piece, written by a Japanese girl of the class who was educated in America, was most cleverly presented, and would have compared favorably with any similar production of the pupils of an American dramatic school. The principal comedy part fell to a girl who impersonated an American tourist, and the blonde-wigged, padded-figured creature whose entrance was greeted with a nasal "Wall, I guess," and whose Japanese air so peculiarly faithful a representation of one of our steamer companions that she was christened on the spot.

Several "local hits" were introduced for the benefit of the American guests, but only one which I recall at this time was a jewel which fell from the lips of the blonded tourist to the effect that she "came from Spokane, where they spoke Engleesh, to Japan, where she was that lonesome because there was no Engleesh 'spokan.'"

MR. TONG.

At Yokohama we were joined by the celebrated Mr. Tong, a high Chinese official, the President of the International Institute and the proprietor of the International Review, China's most powerful magazine weekly, bearing the credentials of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of China as an emissary of good will. He brought his wife, daughter and a young friend of the family with him, and is accompanying us on the trip. We gathered in the cabin on the morning following his arrival for the reading of his credentials and the words of welcome from Mr. Booth, drank to the Emperor and the President of the United States, the future friendship of the United States and China, to their future and to their mutual prosperity, national and individual puissance, [illegible]

Chinese ladies of Mr. Tong's party, to—but I believe it was at this juncture that the champagne ran out and the motion to adjourn was reluctantly considered in order.

Mr. Tong, who is a Columbia graduate of the class of 1882, and one of the brightest and most forceful men I have ever had the honor of knowing, has already made a substantial start in correcting the misapprehensions regarding his country that have been accumulating in our minds during a month of reading. There doubtless are some countries of which something may be learned by reading, but of these is not China. One does learn something, to be sure, in the course of a few months reading, but it is quite neutralized by the fact that the most of it has to be unlearnt, a consummation which usually takes a much longer time than was spent in assimilating it.

Mr. Tong's sense of humor is amazingly keen, and is marred by no whitt of racial sensitiveness, as witness the manner n which he saved an embarrassing situation in the smoking room last night. His colleague, Mr. Chu, a member of the Waiwu-pu or Foreign office and a Yale graduate, had just raked in a big jackpot in a game of poker with Mr. Jacob Furth, the well known Seattle banker, and a couple of other members of the Commission, when some one among the bystanders was so thoughtless as to turn on his heel and start out through the door inconsequently chanting something about "For ways that are dark and for tricks that are vain the—"

The rest of the quotation was lost in the swish of the seas and the thud of the screws, but everyone knew how it ended and was glancing shamedly from left to right to catch the effect on Mr. Chu, when from an adjoining table came the suave accents of Mr. Tong completing the line with, "The Heathen Chinee is peculiar."

"Yes, gentlemen," he continued; "we are all Ah Sins. Just now I have stuck Mr. Geraldo for the drinks. What are you all going to have?"

And while we all sipped our long Tansan lemonades our genial Oriental friend told us that the picture of Bret Harte's immortal Ah Sin, with the twenty-two, more or less, packs of cards tumbling from his voluminous sleeves—had the place of honor in one of the Chinese clubs of Shanghai. "Only you will notice," he concluded, "that fashions have changed since Ah Sin's time, and that Mr. Chu and I are handicapped in having sleeves that will hardly hold a half dozen packs."

I could not help thinking of a remark of Captain Dollar's at a committee a few days ago. "Gentlemen," said the veteran shipper, this Commission is the strongest body of men of its kind I have ever seen together, but I would have you know that you will meet men in China who are bigger, keener and infinitely more subtle than any one of us. The sooner you get that settled in your mind the less of a shock your self esteem is going to have when it comes to a show down." The thought has come to me that perhaps we did not have to wait until our arrival in China to realize the force of this saying.

Speaking of the Inimitable Tong, an incident of yesterday morning occurs to me. I was listening to an earnest contening to an earnest conversation between him and Mr. Booth concerning the coming constitution in China, with the incident enfranchisement of the masses and classes alike. "In six and a half years," said Mr. Tong, "we shall have our constitution and shall set out along the highway of enlightment and progress to the goal of a united China. We shall become—and then apropos of nothing in the heavens above nor the waters beneath, nor of anything said or happening upon the steamer—unless there was some subtle suggestiveness in a madly-thumped punching bag on the hurricane deck. "Say Mr. Booth; how was it Jeffries could not get in shape to whip that black fellow?"

Booth gasped for breath a couple of times like a man standing under a cold shower, and then muttered something original about youth's not denied and the impossibility of an old athelete's "coming back." "Ah, yes," said Mr. Tong; "we have a proverb of Confucius' which bears that out. Let me see how does it go? Um—ah, yes—in six years and a half we shall have the constitution, as I was saying, and then we shall be ready to take our place and play our part in the comedy of nations etc. etc." Vagaries of the Oriental mind, no doubt,—but I wish that some of Booth's Los Angeles friends could have seen his face when Tong shifted the conversation.

MISS TONG AND MISS CHOW.

Miss Tong and her friend, Miss Chow—Iforget their other names—are about the most enlightened young persons of their sex to be found in China. Last night Mr. Tong took a couple of us youngsters—only two men in the party under forty—out to meet them after dinner. Both of them speag English fluently and are planning to go to college in America on the completion of their course in the school at Shanghai; but, possibly od account of their youth, Miss Chow being only fourteen and Miss Tong sixteen, conversation languished. Finally Mrs. Tong, who speak no English at all, arose bade us good-night and withdrew to her stateroom, leaving the two infants on the promenade deck with no chaperon nearer than Mr. Tong, who was deep in a political discussion in the smoking-room at the opposite end of the ship.

Fancy such enlightenment! With 200,000,000 Chinese women never being allowed even to sit at meals with their own husbands, what must have been the feelings of these children at the studendous honor of being allowed to appear on the promenade deck of a Trans-Pacific steamer with two full grown foreigners? For a few minutes they were silent with enraptured surprise and then the silvery thread of Miss Tong's soprano burst out in a glad paen of thankfuiness, thrilling the familiar notes of Auld Lange Syne. We really didn't have a great deal of old acquaintances that was in danger of being forgot, but the action eased off the tension considerably and turned out to be the opening wedge for a veritable songfest. "Old Folks at Home," started by Field in his melting tenor, touched the right chord and was rendered by the four of us with no small degree of feeling, but my "Onward Christian Soldiers" met with a discouraging reception. They didn't care for church music, they said, but if we would promise to wait a few moments, and be sure not to go away, they would go to Miss Chow's room and get a book of songs which they just adored. They returned with a volume of the popular college songster and with this we adjourned to the piano where, to Miss Chow's—she had asked us to call her Elsie by this time—accompaniments; we saw Nellie Home, apostrophied Juanita in the lingering southern moonlight brought the wagon home, John, and climbed the Alps to the tune of Upidee, Upidi till the lights gave their warning wink for the bedtime douse. The young ladies have been bashful and elusive all day, but Field and I, proud in our new title of the "International Harmony Association," and joyfully anticipative of a promised afternoon of Chinese music in the Chow gardens at Shanghai are resting easy on our much envied laurels.

Several informal dinners at Kobe, a really enjoyable reception by United States Consul Drichman—a very live young man, by the way who is sure to land a long way farther up the line than Nagasaki before he is through with it—completed the list of Japanese happenings and left us free to head across the Yellow Sea to China.

WITH A THRILL.

POINTS GUN, DOESN'T SHOOT.

ALMOST A TRAGEDY IN LONG BEACH.

WOMAN ACCUSER THREATENS MILLIONAIRE MEYERS.

TRIES TO FORCE HIM TO TAKE MARRIAGE VOWS.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

LONG BEACH, Oct. 12.—Her nerve failing her at the supreme moment was probably all that saved Al. D. Meyers, the Goldfield millionaire, from death tonight at the hands of Julia Ward Gibson of Pasadena, who at present has a suit pending against Meyers for $100,000 damages for alleged seduction under promise of marriage.

The moment the gun was displayed in the hands of the desperate young woman, Meyers made a bee-line for the dining-room of his house and thence upstairs, where he armed himself with an automatic pistol and then, noting that Miss Gibson and her father were still in the reception hall, summoned his housekeeper and asked her to send for an officer. Then he seated himself on the stairway and waited until the arrival of the police who, at Meyer's request, took Miss Gibson and her father into custody.

"I am not afraid of a gun in the hands of a man," said Meyers tonight, "but I was not taking any chances with the weapon in the hands of an excited and hysterical woman."

The act of Miss Gibson followed Meyers' refusal to marry her tonight when she appeared at his house armed with a marriage license which she secured this afternoon from the County Clerk and, accompanied by her father, a retired Presbyterian minister, whom she desired to tie the knot which would remove from her the shame and disgrace under which she claims to be resting.

From the stories told by both parties, and which tally in all particular points, the case may be summarized: On June of 1909 Miss Gibson met Mr. Meyers at his Los Angeles office, whither she went to ask permission to get story material from his elegant new $100,000 residence on the bluff opposite Bixby Park. This led to other visits and meetings between the two until, finally, under promise of marriage, Miss Gibson says she yielded to her lover's desires.

"The last happy meeting we had," said Miss Gibson tonight, "was on October 12, just a year ago tonight. After that he grew cold and finally refused to fulfill his promise of marriage. After pleading with him for several weeks without success, and fearing publicity on account of her frailty, Miss Gibson, on February 24 of this year, brought suit against Meyers for $100,000 damages. The case was set for trial June 22, at which the attorneys for both sides, by stipulation, agreed to a continuance, which has continued ever since.

TELLS OF OVERTURES.

About two and a half months ago, Miss Gibson says Meyers began making overtures for peace, calling him up frequently over the telephone, but his answer was always the same, that she had brought suit and it would go to trial. Miss Gibson says that her request for a truce was met favorably and they were becoming real friendly again until she heard today that Meyers was going to marry another woman. Then she says she resolved that he should marry her at once or nobody.

She called at his office in Los Angeles today and found Meyers busy with papers relating to his lease of his home to W. Greer Campbell. Three or four men were present and Meyers asked her what she wanted, to which Miss Gibson replied that she wanted him to cut out his relations "with that other woman."

Meyers retorted that it was nothing to her and for her to prosecute her suit or be quiet. He then ordered her from the office. Miss Gibson says he walked down the street with her and in reply to her plea that he save her reputation and marry her said that he intended to marry the other woman tomorrow.

TAKES OUT LICENSE.

Miss Gibson went to Dist.-Atty. Frederick's office and told her story but got little satisfaction. Then she went to the County Clerk's office and secured a marriage license for herself and Meyers. She applied to Justice of the Peace Stephens to perform the ceremony, but he declined. Not to be thwarted Miss Gibson telephoned to her father and the pair came to Long Beach arriving here at 6 o'clock. They went direct to the Meyers home and ringing the bell, were admitted to the reception hall by Meyers.

Mr. Gibson took up the burden of talk by asking Meyers to save his daughter's reputation and his own by the only reparation in his power. Meyers who had since claimed that he was being blackmailed by Miss Gibson refused to agree to the proposition, even though he was assured that the pending suit would never be pressed. Finally his patience became exhausted and, striding to the front door, he opened it and ordered Miss Gibson and her father to leave the house.

Miss Gibson stood up, and remarked: "Well, my life is worth as much as yours" and pulled a .32-caliber revolver from her bosom, but as she expressed it amid tears, "I didn't have the heart to kill the man I loved."

DOESN'T GET A CHANCE.

To tell the truth Meyers didn't give her a chance. He turned and fled to the dining-room and thence upstairs, where he remained until the arrival of Officer Powell, who found Mr. Gibson and daughter waiting in the hall. As soon as Miss Gibson saw him she surrendered the revolver. The entire party came downtown to police headquarters, where they remained until Meyers swore to a complaint charging Miss Gibson with the assault with a deadly weapon. The warrant was served and Miss Gibson and her father were taken to Los Angeles, where they hoped to be able to give bail.

Miss Gibson is a tall willow blonde of perhaps 25 or 30 years of age, a good talker and during her tale of her treatment and her actions today and tonight appeared self-possessed except at times when her emotion crept to the surface. Her father, a well preserved old man with whitened whiskers and hair had little to say except to ask his daughter whether it was necessary for her to go into all the details.

SPORT IS UNSCIENTIFIC.

Athletes Violate the Simplest Laws of Applied Mechanics and Mathematics.

T. H. Brigg, an engineer, dropped a thunderbolt into the British Association for the Advancement of Science meeting at Sheffield recently.

His opportunity was a quiet discussion on the neglect of science by commerce and industry. He declares that not only is science neglected by business men, but scientists themselves, and every one else, are floundering blindly along trodden paths.

"There is a screw loose somewhere," he states, and in proof of his assertions he enuncIates a series of startling propositions. After having devoted nearly a quarter of a century to research work, he solemnly declares that:

"Members of the Oxford and Cambridge crews have all these years been unconsciously violating the simplest laws of applied mechanics and mathematics with the result that they have limited their propelling powers to the muscular capacity of one leg instead of using both.

"The methods in use of horse-riding, jumping, swimming and sprinting on bicycles or on foot from crouched positions are equally unscientific.

"Our locomotive engines are not designed or constructed on scientific and economic principles, and the 'rule of thumb' prevails in the industry to the danger of the traveling public.

"Although there are ninety-five million horses in the world, there is not a scientific text-book showing how to determine the tractive power of any given horse on any given road.

"Although every carriage builder knows that one vehicle runs much more easily than another of the same weight, differently suspended, yet no one knows how to solve and explain the responsible forces."

These are but examples of Mr. Brigg's "posers."

"Although the British association has been advancing science for eighty years," he declares, "I have never yet found a professor who knew the character and magnitude of the forces he exerted in walking at the rate of four miles an hour. I have found men who claim to be the highest authorities, including judges appointed by the Royal Agricultural Society, most ludicrously contending that horses, when backing their loads, do so with their hind feet and legs.

"Unless we wake up and replace the ingiorious rule-of-thumb by an intelligent appreciation and trained application of scientific principles we shall inevitably be driven to the wall."—Brooklyn Union.

A LOWER ASSESSMENT.

Tax Rates of Twenty-five Counties Less This Year—Eighteen Counties Are Higher.

Figures of unusual interest are contained in the complete data just received by State Controller Nye for publication in the annual valuation sheet, which will show the assessed values and tax rates of all the counties. The valuation sheet will appear as soon as it can be issued from the State Printing Office.

After the compilation of the final revised figures of the county auditors, it appears that the total assessment roll of the State, including railroads, is $2,373,897,092. This is some $64,000,000 less than the assessment roll of last year, when the State Board of Equalization made large raises.

The assessment of railroad property exceeds that of last year by more than $7,000,000, and there is also an increase amounting to some $8,000,000 in the assessment of money and solvent credits. The aggregate assessment of real estate, improvements and personal property shows a falling off.

On the other hand there has been an increase in both bond debts and floating debts of the counties. The total indebtedness reported this year is $23,407,411.39 as compared with $17,996,210.50 last year. The greater part of this increase of debt comes from the increase in San Francisco and two or three other counties.

Of the fifty-eight counties in the State, there are twenty-five which this year have tax rates less than their rates of last year. Eighteen counties have increased their tax rates; ten counties have the same rates as last year; three counties have increased their outside rates only; two counties have decreased their inside rates only.

The difference between the inside and outside rates consists of the road tax, which is not levied within the limits of incorporated cities and towns. In recent years the road tax rate of the counties have tended to increase, and in some instances the total road now amounts to as much as 60 cents on the $100; that is the case this year in Los Angeles county, where the inside rate is 90 cents and the outside rate is $1.50. In the majority of counties, however, the road tax does not exceed 40 cents. Santa Cruz county, which last year had a road tax of 60 cents, has this year reduced the rate to 40 cents.—Sacramento Bee.

FILMS USED AS TARGETS.

Marksmen Shoot at Moving Pictures of Troops Charging Upon Them.

In the basement of the Royal Warwickshires' drill hall at Birmingham stands a remarkable target, the invention of Mr. B. W. Bates, a South African war veteran, says a London dispatch to the Chicago Inter-Ocean. Based upon the cinematograph principle the object of the invention is to provide snap-shooting practice at objects which move more naturally than do those which are governed by the mechanical and electrical appliances at present used at the great rifle ranges.

The principle of the invention is extremely simple. A cinematograph apparatus throws a picture of an infantry charge in open formation upon a screen, which consists of two rolls of heavy paper, one placed less than half an inch in front of the other. Immediately a shot is fired a red light appears on the screen indicating the spot where the bullet has perforated the paper.

Instantaneously with the report of the shot the picture is fixed, and a glance is sufficient to determine whether or not the marksman has succeeded in wounding or killing one of the onrushing foemen. The touch of a button and the rear paper roll moves across half an inch, the front one remaining stationary. In this way the perforation caused by the shot is concealed from the marksmen. The same action restarts the cinematograph, and once again the soldiers are charging down upon the marksmen. The films need not be limited to those picturing infantry. Anything from a warship to an aeroplane may be thrown upon the screen.

DENVER'S GOOD JOKE.

Women Told How to Get Off the Street Cars by Indirection.

The men of Denver have a good joke all to themselves. The women have not yet decided whether to be insulted, flattered or indifferent, but the men have unanimously and uncompromisingly decided that it is a good joke. This is shown by the laughter that may be heard on the street cars at all hours of the day and night. The new sign which has been placed on the cars by the tramway is undoubtedly a good joke, so far as the male population of the city is concerned.

The sign is placed at the entrance of the car, where anyone getting on or off can hardly fail to see it. Some women have been seen to utterly ignore it, however, and spread the impression that they were entirely unaware of its presence. The sign is a forceful one. It reads as follows:

"There's a reason for everything except a woman getting off the car backwards. That's foolishness."

The opening and closing clauses of the sign are printed in red ink. It has been placed on practically all of the cars of the company with a view to warning the ladies and preventing accidents. It has only been out a few days, and as yet there has been no outcry against it.

The tramway officials are of the opinion that they can stand a little temporary unpopularity, if the sign carries out its purpose and puts a stop to the practice of alighting from the car backwards, so common among the women of Denver.—[Denver Republican.

NOW ALCOHOLIC BEER.

A New and Hop Drink Invented by a Frenchman Used in England.

According to Consular reports, Consul-General John L. Griffiths of London furnishes the following information concerning a new temperance drink now being introduced in England:

There has been recently placed on this market a beverage which it is claimed is non-intoxicating, and still resembles and tastes like the intoxicating beer. It is brewed from malt and hops only and has no preservative in it. It does not look unlike beer, and the taste is very similar. It is made of precisely the same materials as the best English home-brewed ale, but alcohol is almost entirely eliminated, and it is stated that there is no chemical admixture of any kind. The amount of alcohol produced by the brewing process in this beverage is given as nine-tenths of 1 per cent., which is less than the percentage to be found in any of the ginger ales, stone beers, and other temperance beverages.

The process by which this beverage is made is the invention of a French scientist, while certain modifications were made by one of the professors of the Paris Pasteur Institute and an English brewer. Two kinds are made, ale and stout. The ale, it is claimed, has the flavor of a light beer, and the stout tastes almost exactly like a good quality of London stout.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew of the Episcopal Church will give a dinner at the Y. M. C. A. this evening to hear the reports of the delegates who have attended the Pacific Coast and National conventions of the Brotherhood.

This Home-Made Cough Syrup Will Surprise You

Stops Even Whooping Cough Quickly. A Family Supply at Small Cost.

Here is a home-made remedy that takes hold of a cough instantly and will usually cure the most stubborn case in 24 hours. This recipe makes a pint—enough for a whole family. You couldn't buy as much or as good ready-made cough syrup for $2.50.

Mix one pint of granulated sugar with half pint of warm water, and stir two minutes. Put 2 1-2 ozs. of Pinex (50c worth) in a pint bottle, and add the sugar syrup. This keeps perfectly and has a pleasant taste—children like it. Braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

You probably know the medical value of pine in treating asthma, bronchitis, and other throat troubles, sore lungs, etc. There is nothing better. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, rich in guiaicol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

The prompt results from this inexpensive remedy have made friends for it in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada, which explains why the plan has been imitated often, but never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

LAND THAT BRINGS YOU
A GOLDEN REWARD.
$80 AN ACRE UP.
SMALL CASH PAYMENT.

A word of advice to homeseekers and land buyers—to those who are interested in good land—and who want to buy it right. When I started in the land business here in Los Angeles a good many years ago, after having had a pretty thorough agricultural experience in California as well as Eastern States, I made it a rule to personally inspect the land—dig into the soil and get a first-hand view of all conditions from the ground up. I got all the facts relative to it, and proved them up to my own satisfaction, before I offered a foot of it to a buyer. Today this is a Million Dollar Business built up in this thorough, careful, painstaking way. Put into your purchases of land for yourself the same principles that I have used. Study conditions, investigate, know what you are doing. Then you cannot go wrong.

I place the Fresno Valley Tract before you with the request that you study it carefully, analyzing every condition, and acting upon your own judgment. It is a few miles south of Fresno city, crossed by the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe railways, each having stations at the property. The soil is rich. Water for pumping can be had in abundance at only 16 feet. Ditch water costs but 75c per acre per year. This is a splendid alfalfa proposition—only a small cash payment—you won't need it. Conditions are perfect for peaches, apricots, figs, walnuts, vegetables, tobacco and berries. Those who go in for general farming will make money, as will the poultryman and the hog raiser. There is a good town right at the property, with schools, stores, telephones, free rural delivery, etc. You can be comfortable and give your family the advantages. I can sell this land for only $40 an acre up. Make only a small cash payment—you won't need to worry about the balance. Under cultivation this land will soon pay for itself. I predict that it will be worth double its cost by the time you have paid for it. Come in and see my handsome exhibit of products—the best illustration of what this rich soil will produce. Get also, my illustrated booklet, and learn about my FREE EXCURSIONS.

Owens River Lands.

FOR SALE—
OWENS VALLEY LANDS.

The greatest opportunity for the California farmer today is awaiting him in the Owens River Valley. This remarkably fertile spot possesses more attractive features than any land in California. The only land in California that will produce with equal results the big red winter apples that have made Washington, Oregon and Colorado famous and have brought to the owners untold wealth. California farmers should learn real conditions of apple culture and appreciate that these lands under development, are equal in value to our choicest orange lands. The conditions which surround Owens River Valley are ideal in every particular. Not only is the climate nearly perfect and the scenery all that one could desire, but the productiveness of the soil excels anything in California. Corn 12 feet high, with ears 18 inches long, running 70 bushels to the acre. Potatoes that run 500 bushels to the acre, equaling the famous Greeley, Colorado district, where such land is worth $500 an acre.

So remarkable is the productiveness of the soil in the Owens River Valley, that one should consider its value purely upon its ability to earn, rather than to compare it indifferently with acreage in any other section. There is just as much difference between the Owens River valley land and the land that is ordinarily offered, as there is between the value of Hill st. and River Valley land and the land that is ordinarily offered, as there is between the value of Hill street and is 4,000 feet above the sea, with just sufficient frost in winter to make a perfect red apple. Fogs, hail or gales are unknown. The supply of pure mountain water is unlimited, and the completion of the new Southern Pacific railroad, which will be running in 30 days makes the entire proposition ideal. You owe it to yourself to thoroughly investigate this property, for there will be without doubt a greater increase in value in the Owens River Valley in the next few years, than in any other point in California. In fact, we look for nothing short of a boom the coming year. If you own orange or walnut land that you can sell at a good price, you will certainly be making a good move to dispose of it and go into this new country. We can doubtless help you in selling your land. We have done it for others. Drop into this office and talk with our representative, who is an old Rose River apple man of 20 years experience and who has studied Owens Valley conditions and can give you a very intelligent description of our property, or drop us a postal and permit us to send you our literature. JAMES R. H. WAGNER, H. S. COOK, 329 South Hill st., Los Angeles, Calif.

PASADENA.

ASKS FOR LODGE ROOMS IN SHIPS.

GOOD TEMPLARS' BODY TELLS OF ITS WISHES.

Would Have Accommodations for Meetings of Secret Societies in the War Vessels of the United States. City Officers Visit Neighborhood of Street Jog Dispute.

(Office of The Times, 26 S. Raymond Ave.)

PASADENA, Oct. 13.—To demand that the United States Navy Department install a lodge room in each of the battleships of the navy and to make an international effort to prohibitionize all members of labor unions in the world, but particularly in California, were the two principal matters adopted at the Fifty-third annual convention of the International Order of Good Templars yesterday afternoon.

It was argued that the battleships of many nations other than the United States are equipped with lodge rooms, fully fitted up with ante-rooms and other paraphernalia for carrying on the secret work of the secret order lodges; that if the United States battleships had such provisions that lodges of Good Templars could be organized on board ship and maintained just the same as on land.

"We believe if such provision was made that much of the intemperance now existing in the navy would be overcome," said one of the prominent grand lodge members yesterday. Grand Secretary E. S. Dunwiddie, national grand electoral superintendent, was instructed to wait on the Secretary of the Navy.

The resolution relative to sowing the seed of temperance among labor organizations was introduced by Miss Anna Soderburg of San Diego. In an interesting paper which she read she said that in Sweden, where she was born and reared, great good has been produced by the Good Templars in working among the laboring classes and especially among the union labor organizations. She declared that much of the harm in such organizations today is caused by intemperance. Following the adoption of her resolution she was unanimously appointed grand State deputy with instructions to devote her entire time for the next year doing missionary work among the laboring classes.

A letter was read from Rev. Dana Bartlett asking that the Grand Lodge of Good Templars assist in making the great international temperance congress to be held in Los Angeles in 1915 a success. A resolution was unanimously adopted to render every assistance possible to Dr. Bartlett and his co-workers.

The entire time at last night's session was taken up raising funds for carrying on the Good Templars' Orphan's Home at Vallejo. At present the school has 120 inmates all of whom are getting along well, according to the report of the superintendent in charge. A little over $1000 was raised to carry on the home work another year.

At this morning's session the grand lodge officers for the next year will be elected. It is understood there will be several candidates for the presidency as well as other officers of the grand lodge.

"KINKS" IN DISPUTE.

Mayor Earley and members of the City Council were taken for a joy ride yesterday afternoon away up in the northeast section of the city in an effort to straighten out the kinks in the famous street jog controversy now being waged between the real estate firms of J. H. Woodworth & Co., and the Citizens' Realty Company. The Woodworth company wants to extend Chester and Holliston avenues on north of Mountain street, but they want to have a jog at Mountain in order to accommodate some property which they own.

The Citizens' Realty Company, which owns the Sutton Villa tract immediately south of Mountain street, insists that such jogs will cause its property to be overflowed by storm water.

"We hope the matter will be amicably settled," said Mayor Earley last night. "We saw nearly all the people in that neighborhood this afternoon, and they seem to be in a receptive mood and are trying to settle it among themselves. I believe the members of the Council will be in favor of having those two avenues run straight across Mountain street. It would certainly be much better for the future city. I believe the property owners can fix it all up themselves if they will only try hard enough."

DRY TRACT BOILING AGAIN.

The dry tract is still dry, excepting the little water which is being hauled from house to house by the "water wagons," but the people are boiling. Factional troubles are at fever heat. At a recent meeting of the Citizens' League the Executive Committee was authorized to proceed with the lawsuit against the North Pasadena Land and Water Company regardless of any attempt which may be made to settle the matter by getting water from some water company. It was alleged that "spies" are working in the ranks of the league members trying to break the backbone of that organization. It is said that nearly all the dry tracters who are not members of the league are in favor of getting water from some source, providing satisfactory arrangements can be made. The committee recently appointed at a mass meeting of the people of that district has been doing some trying missionary work during the past three weeks and will be able to make a definite report within a few days. It is believed the report of the committee will be accepted by most of the people.

JAPANESE CHURCH ORGANIZES

The Pasadena Japanese Congregational Church was organized last night at a meeting held in the First Congregational Church. JAB OF POLE IS BAD FOR EYE.

SAN JOSE LAD MAY LOSE ONE OF HIS OPTICS.

Redlands Men Purchase Fifteen-acre Gravel Tract on Signal Hill and Will Develop New Pit, Which, by Means of Special Machinery, Will Supply Washed Material.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 12.—The carelessness of a fisherman named Graham this morning may cause Lee Vivian, aged eleven, of San Jose, the loss of his eye. Young Vivian, who is here with his parents was playing on the outer wharf this morning, walking along behind Graham, who was carrying his bamboo fishing pole over his shoulder, the small end dangling down. His attention attracted by the efforts of another fisherman to land a big surf fish, Graham stopped suddenly and the end of the pole jabbed Vivian at the corner of the left eye, cutting an ugly gash and it is feared also injuring the eyeball. The victim was given prompt attention and his physician hopes to save the eyesight.

SALOONS ON FRONT STREET AROUSE OBJECTIONS.

City Trustees and Liquor Men Meet and Talk Over the Subject. Members of Town's Governing Body Express Intention to Take No Snap Action in the Matter.

REDONDO BEACH, Oct. 12.—An informal meeting of members of the Board of City Trustees and the liquor men of this city was held last night. Three of the City Trustees, H. B. Ainsworth, A. B. Steel and J. H. Cavanah, together with all of the saloon men, or their representatives, being present.

The object of the meeting, as stated by Trustee Ainsworth, was to open an informal discussion of some means by which the saloons on Pacific avenue may be removed to a back street, the argument being that in their present prominent location they give Redondo Beach the appearance of much more of a saloon town than it really is.

A feature of the situation being popularly discussed is whether the Casino, which is not located with the other saloons upon Pacific avenue, but stands upon the Redondo Beach Improvement Company property, would be included in the proposed movement.

Meantime the Trustees have asked the liquor men for suggestions on the subject and state their intention to take no hurried action but give the matter several months' consideration if necessary.

HEARS ABOUT SEWAGE.

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 12.—The following letter has just been received from the War Department in regard to the sewer proposed to discharge in Newport Bay:

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.

Hon. A. N. Smith, Mayor of Newport Beach, Cal.

Dear Sir: Referring to your letter, protesting for reasons stated, against granting the application of the city of Santa Ana, Cal., for permission to discharge sewage in a liquid state into the waters of Newport Bay, I beg to inform you that the chief of engineers U. S. A., to whom the matter was referred, reports under date of 20th inst. as follows:

"The discharge of liquid sewer into the navigable waters of the United States is not forbidden by any federal law, and consequently the consent of the War Department to this part of the project is not required. Such consent is necessary, however, to that part of the project which involves the excavation of a channel into the bay.

"Newport Bay is navigable, in fact, and while its use for commercial purposes is very limited, it is of much importance to fishing, bathing and other pleasure purposes. While the discharge of sewage as proposed by the city of Santa Ana is unobjectionable from the standpoint of public navigation, it is very objectionable from an esthetic and sanitary point of view, and a number of protests have been filed against it. These are matters of local concern, however, and afford no basis for unfavorable action by the War Department, and in view of the hurtful effect that the discharge of sewage would undoubtedly have upon the value of the bay as a pleasure resort, I am of the opinion that the department would be justified in withholding its formal permission in the case.

"I accordingly recommend in lieu of a formal permission that the district engineer officer be authorized to inform the city authorities that the War Department will make no objection to the construction and maintainance of a sewage channel 10 feet in width, extending from high water mark to low water mark, in Newport Bay, at the location shown on the accompanying map provided the work is executed in a manner satisfactory to him; and that all material discharged through said channel shall be in liquid form."

The foregoing recommendation has this day received Department approval. Very respectfully,

ROBERT SHAW OLIVER,
Acting Secretary of War.

"We're Hungry

for adventure. We're only boys and girls, a little bit grown up, but still stirred by martial music, thrilled by fire horses, lured by tales of subtle intrigue and splendid daring. We're tired of reading reams of stuff we care little about to get a little we care a lot about. Give us some stories that grip. Give us a magazine of Adventure." And that's what we've done. Look at this.

LAMBASA, Oct. 4th.—This kingdom is in a ferment over the mystery surrounding the burial of King Maldio. In the middle of the impressive ceremony an unknown man, apparently an Englishman, broke through the guard and smashed the glass of the royal coffin, shouting—"The King is Alive." The man was seized and thrown into a dungeon, the ceremony abruptly stopped, and the company dismissed. Former Queen Horatia announced to-night that the king had been privately buried.

There is a story being whispered about that the dead king was later seen struggling to escape from the Queen's Guard in the court-yard of the prison where the mysterious foreigner is incarcerated. There are rumors that the king and the foreigner have both escaped and there are hints at poison plots, in which a certain royal lady is said to be not above suspicion.

SOUNDS like an adventure story doesn't it? It is. It's the beginning of "Can a Man be True?"—an adventure story that is the real, real thing. You'll read it, and keep reading it. In fact if you really want to get away from the hard grind of the daily mill, if you want to get 192 pages of stories that have "something doing all the time" you'll get a copy of The Ridgway Company's brand-new magazine

HOSPITAL FOR HOMEOPATHS.

MEDICAL SOCIETY PROPOSES TO HAVE GOOD ONE.

SUBSCRIPTION IS STARTED AT ANNUAL MEETING.

IMPORTANT ADDRESSES MADE AT CONVENTION.

Steps for the institution of a splendid new hospital for Los Angeles were taken by the Homeopathic Medical Society at the first session of its twentieth annual meeting, yesterday morning, in the sunny parlors of the Westminster Hotel. With an initial subscription of more than $4000 the members of the society hope to so organize their plans that the large hospital, to be controlled by their school of medicine, may be built within the coming year.

Another important consideration before the present meeting is the appointment of a commission to attend the next Legislature with the hope of preventing the enactment of any measure which may place the power of the State's medical supervision under any one school. The society is in hearty sympathy with the national movement taken up all over the country in behalf of medical freedom.

In speaking of this matter in his opening address before the society, yesterday morning, Dr. W. J. Hawkes of this city, the presiding officer of the present meeting and the retiring president, yesterday said:

MEDICAL DOMINATION.

"Our position is not that we are opposed to any and all laws which will permit one school of medicine to have inquisitorial power over all schools. Especially are we unalterably opposed to such power being centralized in the allopathic school, because that school has always been bitterly intolerant and even abusive of other schools and most especially of the homeopathic school.

If they regard all other schools as quacks and irregulars, as they undoubtedly do believe and proclaim, and if they believe, as they do believe and proclaim, that the practice of quacks and irregulars injured the health of the people, then do they not regard it their duty, as the conservators of public health, to abolish all such injurious practices and practitioners?

"Were such power placed in the hands of the old school, is it not an absolute certainty that all physicians not recognized by the Allopathic Medical Associations would be ultimately driven to the wall? No one conversant with medical history will deny it.

"Certainly there is no homeopath but who knows that the old scoool has persistently and unceasingly, during the century or more of our professional existance, endeavored by every means in its power to annihilate homeopathy. They have the same antipathy and intolerance, only in lesser degrees, against all other schools. We must presume they believe they are right and if they do believe this, can we do otherwise than also presume that if placed in power they will consider it their duty to suppress all things which they consider detrimental to the public health?

"We must not wait until such power has been vested in them before we raise our cry against it. The time to act is before the legislatures of the States and before the United States Congress can vest in them such a dangerous authority."

WORK FOR HOSPITAL.

Dr. Hawkes also urged the society to become active at once in securing a first-class homeopathic hospital for Los Angeles, and his remarks on both these important subjects were heartily cheered by all the members of the society, who are all workers and enthusiasts.

In Southern California 225 homeopaths are engaged in practice of this school of medicine. About 100 practitioners are located in Los Angeles. The school is more than 100 years old, having as its basic principle the ascertaining of the curative qualities of drugs by their administration to persons in health. By observing the symptoms of drugs in small portions on healthy persons they prove the remedy for similar symptoms when developed in case of sickness.

Several important papers were read before the society yesterday at the morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Among those addressing the society were: Doctors H. L. Stambach, Santa Barbara; W. J. Hawkes, Los Angeles; Willella Howe Waffle, Santa Ana; Anna Dewey Chapin, Los Angeles; E. C. Manning, Los Angeles; F. M. Watson-Reeves, Los Angeles; A. W. Buell, Long Beach; N. H. Chamberlain, Los Angeles; Mary A. Stoltz, Redlands; H. L. Shephard, Los Angeles; Edwin N. Channey, Pasadena; John A. Tilley, Patton; Charles S. Orr, Ontario; T. C. Low, Los Angeles.

These papers included all subjects from "Heredity" and "Diseases of Infancy" to "The effect produced on Mentality by Physical Conditions." One of the interesting subjects for discussion at today's sessions will be "What is to be Done with the Dependant Classes?" This discussion will be read by Dr. John A. Riley, of Patton.

SORROWS FOR LOSS

Resolutions were passed by the society yesterday morning, expressing the profound regret of the society at the death of the late Dr. E. C. Buell of Los Angeles, one of the most famous members of the school in the United States. Dr. Buell died several months ago while in Italy.

When the election of officers was taken up yesterday morning, Dr. F. S. Merrill of Los Angeles was surprised by being made president. For fourteen years he had served the society as its secretary-treasurer. Succeeding him in that office is Dr. C. H. Shaw of this city. The first vice-president elect is Dr. H. L. Bishop of Alhambra, and the second vice is Dr. Mary A. Stoltz of Redlands.

A board of censors was elected consisting of Drs. F. E. Kellogg, H. M. Bishop and S. S. Salisbury of Los Angeles, and H. L. Stambach of Santa Barbara. Elected as a board of directors were Drs. Last night's session was concluded with a pleasant get-together hour, the programme of which was prepared as a surprise by the women of the society.

One of the features was a brilliant character recital by Miss Edith [illegible] and another was a delightful [illegible] solo by Mrs. W. J. Hawkes. This evening the members of the society will dine together at the Westminster hotel, adjourn from the hotel to the Burbank theater, where they have seventy-five seats for the "Follies." HOSPITAL FOR HOMEOPATHS.

MEDICAL SOCIETY PROPOSES TO HAVE GOOD ONE.

SUBSCRIPTION IS STARTED AT ANNUAL MEETING.

IMPORTANT ADDRESSES MADE AT CONVENTION.

Steps for the institution of a splendid new hospital for Los Angeles were taken by the Homeopathic Medical Society at the first session of its twentieth annual meeting, yesterday morning, in the sunny parlors of the Westminster Hotel. With an initial subscription of more than $1000 the members of the society hope to so organize their plans that the large hospital, to be controlled by their school of medicine, may be built within the coming year.

Another important consideration before the present meeting is the appointment of a commission to attend the next Legislature with the hope of preventing the enactment of any measure which may place the power of the state's medical supervision under any one school. The society is in hearty sympathy with the national movement taken up all over the country in behalf of medical freedom.

In speaking of this matter in his opening address before the society, yesterday morning, Dr. W. J. Hawkes of this city, the presiding officer of the present meeting and the retiring president yesterday said:

MEDICAL DOMINATION.

"Our position is not that we are opposed to any and all laws which will permit one school of medicine to have legislative power over all schools. Especially are we unalterably opposed to such power being centralized in the allopathic school, because that school has always been bitterly intolerant and even abusive of other schools and most especially of the homeopathic school.

If they regard all other schools as quacks and irregulars, as they undoubtedly do believe and proclaim, and if they believe, as they do believe and proclaim, that the practice of quacks and irregulars injured the health of the people, then do they not regard it their duty, as the conservators of public health, to abolish all such injurious practices and practitioners?

"Were such power placed in the hands of the old school, is it not an absolute certainty that all physicians not recognized by the Allopathic Medical Association would be ultimately driven to the wall? No one conversant with medical history will deny it.

"Certainly there is no homeopath but one knows that the old school has persistently and unceasingly, during the century or more of our professional existence, endeavored by every means in its power to annihilate homeopathy. They have the same antipathy and intolerance, only in lesser degrees, against other schools. We must presume they believe they are right and if they believe this, can we do otherwise than also presume that if placed in power they will consider it their duty to suppress all things which they consider detrimental to the public health?

"We must not wait until such power has been vested in them before we raise our cry against it. The time to act is before the legislatures of the States and before the United States Congress can put in them such a dangerous author-ity."

WORK FOR HOSPITAL.

Dr. Hawkes also urged the society to become active at once in securing a first-class homeopathic hospital for Los Angeles, and his remarks on both these important subjects were heartily cheered by all the members of the society, who are all workers and enthusiasts.

In Southern California 225 homeopaths are engaged in practice of this school of medicine. About 100 practitioners are located in Los Angeles. The school is more than 100 years old, having as its basic principle the ascertaining of the curative qualities of drugs by their administration to persons in health, by observing the symptoms of drugs in small portions on healthy persons and by prove the remedy for similar symptoms when developed in case of disease.

Several important papers were read before the society yesterday at the morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Among those addressing the society were: Doctors H. L. Stambach, Santa Barbara; W. J. Hawkes, Los Angeles; Willella Howe Waffle, Santa Ana; Anna Dewey Chapin, Los Angeles; R. C. Manning, Los Angeles; F. Watson-Reeves, Los Angeles; A. W. Long Beach; N. H. Chamberlain, Los Angeles; Mary A. Stoits, Redlands; H. E. Shephard, Los Angeles; John N. Channey, Pasadena; John A. Patton; Charles S. Orr, Ontario; C. Low, Los Angeles.

These papers included all subjects from "Heredity" and "Diseases of Infancy" to "The effect produced on Locality by Physical Conditions." One of the interesting subjects for discussion at today's sessions will be "What is to be Done with the Defective Classes?" This discussion will be read by Dr. John A. Riley, of Patton.

SORROWS FOR LOSS.

Resolutions were passed by the society yesterday morning, expressing the profound regret of the society at the death of the late Dr. E. C. Buell of Los Angeles, one of the most famous members of the school in the United States. Dr. Buell died several months ago while in Italy.

When the election of officers was taken up yesterday morning, Dr. F. S. Bowles of Los Angeles was surprised by being made president. For seven years he had served the society as its secretary-treasurer. Succeeding him in that office is Dr. C. T. Hoag of this city. The first vice-president elect is Dr. H. L. Bishop of Alhambra, and the second vice is Dr. A. Stoits of Redlands.

The board of censors was elected consisting of Drs. F. B. Kellogg, H. M. Hoag, and S. S. Salisbury of Los Angeles, and H. L. Stambach of Santa Barbara. Elected as a board of directors were Drs. Charles S. Orr, Ontario; Walter E. Nichols, Pasadena; Mary M. Le Duc, Los Angeles; John Hoag, Santa Monica, and Charles R. Low, Ontario.

Last night's session was concluded with a pleasant get-together hour, the feature of which was prepared as a surprise by the women of the society. One of the features was a brilliant character recital by Miss Edith Hoag, and another was a delightful reading by Mrs. W. J. Hawkes. This evening the members of the society will go together at the Westminster and adjourn from the hotel to the Orpheum theater, where they have reserved seventy-five seats for the matinee. The meeting proper will begin this afternoon.

BOOSTERS ON THE WING.

Touring Southern California on Campaign of Education for Important Amendments.

A "boosting" committee, consisting of Phil A. Stanton and J. P. Tranbye, of this city; N. W. Thompson of Alhambra, and Winfield Hogaboom, are on an automobile tour among Southern California towns which will take them through the principal points of the San Gabriel Valley, Azusa Covina, Pomona, Ontario, thence to Colton, San Bernardino, Redlands, Riverside and towns between. Later Orange county and other sections will be thoroughly canvassed.

This committee is conducting a campaign of education on behalf of Constitutional Amendments Nos. 33 and 52, the adoption of which will make possible the holding of the great Panama-Pacific International Exposition in California in 1915, upon completion of the Panama Canal.

The beneficial effects upon the entire State which the hundreds of thousands of Eastern visitors to the Exposition will necessarily have, and the permanent residents the Southland will acquire, are the subjects which will be brought to the attention of the voters. They will be urged not only to vote for the necessary Constitutional Amendments, but to bring every pressure possible to bear on Eastern Congressmen in favor of official recognition of California and the Pacific Coast as the logical site for an Exposition devoted to a celebration of the Panama Canal.

NEAR GHASTLY END.

CORONER'S JURY LIKELY TO START TOMORROW.

Rolls of Paper in Rear of Baumgardt Plant, Smoldering Since the Big Fire, Break Out in Blaze, Which is Readily Extinguished With Hand Apparatus.

It is probable that the Coroner's jury upon which devolves the responsibility of determining the contributory cause of the loss of more than a score of lives by the explosion and fire in The Times building, will convene tomorrow to commence its final investigation.

In other words, it is the belief of the officials that today will see the recovery of the bodies thought to be still in the ruins or will demonstrate their absence and verify the list of dead as originally given.

"We expect to lose no time," said Coroner Hartwell yesterday. "The jury will be summoned for duty as soon as I am reasonably certain that there are no more bodies to be recovered. It has seemed likely that there may be one back in the ruins of the make-up room, where the men are now at work. The search there must be completed and I expect to have the wreckage back of the Baumgardt Publishing Company's plant gone over. It is thought that there may be another body there but, so far as I know, those are the only possibilities.

"As to how long it will take us to reach our final finding, I am unable to make any estimate. There is a great deal of evidence to be very carefully considered and it will all take time. Certainly the investigation cannot be completed in less than two or three days."

According to Foreman John Fickes of the Baker Iron Works the searching of the two places mentioned should easily be completed by tonight. The work in the pit under the make-up room has been greatly hampered by the presence of great masses of junk which were once steam tables, platens, motors, presses, etc. Several times yesterday it was necessary to recall the workmen from the pit in order to give full way to the dangerous work of removing these by means of the steam crane.

Though the Coroner and a representative of Bresee Brothers were on the ground practically all of yesterday in the expectation that more bodies would be found, the day passed without the addition of any to the ghastly list. Several hundred cubic yards of refuse still remains to be removed from the ruins of the make-up department and the foot of the rear stairway, where a body is thought to be buried, has not yet been uncovered.

Notwithstanding it is now twelve days since the fire was thought to have been extinguished, its extraordinary tenacity of life was evinced yesterday by the outbreak of a small blaze in the stock-room back of the Baumgardt plant. Many tons of paper were kept there and the thick rolls, though only partly burned, served to keep the smoldering fire alive. The opening of the piles, together with a light breeze, stirred the sparks into flame. Hand extinguishers were hastily brought from the Hill-street station and the blaze was checked without difficulty.

Sixteen bodies of the nameless, martyred dead now lie in the common plot in Hollywood cemetery. Owing to the advanced stage of decomposition, the two found on Monday and Tuesday were given interment almost immediately after their discovery, a general permit to bury the unknown dead having been issued by the Coroner.

A thorough inquiry among the bereaved families has as yet been fruitless in establishing the identity of the body found under the make-up room Monday morning. The gold crowns, with which three of the upper molars had been lately filled, have been preserved in the hope that the dentist who made them may recognize his handiwork.

A possible clew to the identity of the body found Tuesday is furnished by the statement of Compositor C. A. Pattee, one of those who escaped from the make-up room by the rear stairway. Pattee says that he saw Frank Underwood running toward the stairs just before the collapse of the floor, his position corresponding roughly with that of the body found buried in the ruins.

VENICE.

VENICE, Oct. 12.—Two young women who have been well known in society theatricals and in musical circles generally in the Santa Monica Bay district, will make their debut as professional concert artists this evening at the Venice Institute of Musical Art. They are Misses Marguerite Cooper and Margaret Obern Miller, the former a dramatic soprano and the latter a talented reader. These young women have decided to make the concert platform their career, and in the immediate future will go on a tour of the State and the northern Pacific Coast giving concerts in the more important cities. This evening gondolas will be furnished to carry the guests to the institute and back from the head of the canal system.

FRED EMERSON BROOKS, the California poet, will give an entertainment on Friday evening, October 14, at the Young Men's Christian Association. General admission, 25 cents. Open to everybody.

Average crops on October 1 were about 1.8 per cent higher than on the corresponding date a year ago, and 0.6 per cent. lower than on Oct. 13, 1909, and for the last 10 years.

The area under cultivation is 2.2 more than last year. The condition of other crops on Oct. 1 or at the time of harvest, 100 representing each crop not its normal condition, but its average condition on Oct. 1, ten-year average for most crops, was: Rice, 102.7; cranberries, 102.2; sorghum, 99.8; peanuts, 99.5; cotton, 94.9; sugar cane, 94.7; buckwheat, 94.1; sweet potatoes, 93.7; tobacco, 94.6; flaxseed, 94.6.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Highland potatoes were one of the big features of sales on the local market yesterday morning. With very heavy arrivals during the week and the market off several cents in the frantic effort of brokers to unload, dealers have started to buy at lowest possible figures. Choice Highlands sold as low as 90 cents a hundred pounds on Los Angeles. Fancy brought from $1 to $1.05. Local Burbanks cut very little figure in the market, there being so few of them on hand. Salinas are arriving in quantity. Prices are off. Receipts yesterday totaled 4615 sacks.

There were no changes in eggs. The demand for them was good and prices were exceptionally firm. Receipts 130 cases.

Butter arrivals were 12,408 pounds. The demand for butter was good in the creamery extras line and it sells. The latter sold at a cent above quoted price.

Cheese receipts were 18,992 pounds. The demand for cheese was good in Northern fresh which sold at 16½, and Eastern Daisy, which sold at quotations. Oregon Daisy also sold well. There were no changes.

Onion arrivals were the largest in weeks. The market was weak and some of the stock sold as low as $1.50 among the jobbers. Receipts totaled 1673 sacks.

Pink beans jobbed at $4. There were no changes in other varieties and no receipts were reported. Sweet potato arrivals were 327 sacks.

Red Pearmain apples of 4½-tier size sold as low as 65 cents on carload lots. Other apples were a trifle weak in prices but sales were good. Receipts for the day were 4300 boxes. Other fresh fruits were unchanged in value. Vegetables were in fair call.

PROGRESSIVE LEAGUE.

New Organization Entertains Candidates at Banquet — Fredericks Speaks in Another Hall.

The Progressive League celebrated with a banquet at the Hollenbeck Hotel last night. It is largely made up of rising young attorneys, many of them yet in the law school of the University of Southern California, and in addition to the fifty members of the league, a number of candidates now before the people, and endorsed by the league, sat at the tables as guests.

President D. E. Fulwider presided, and speeches were made by John Perry Wood, (Republican) candidate for Superior Judge, and Charles W. Bell, (Republican) candidate for State Senator from the Thirty-fifth district. All the other speakers were Democrats, as follows: Lloyd W. McAtee, candidate for County Clerk; Dr. A. C. Pratt, candidate for Coroner; Stephen Monteleone, candidate for Police Judge, and Thomas Lee Woolwine, candidate for District Attorney.

The speeches were all entertaining and free from bitterness, until Woolwine entered upon his tirade against Dist. Atty. Fredericks. Everything he said has been printed in the newspapers and told ad libitum on the platform.

While the meeting around the banquet table was in progress, another was held in Symphony Hall, on Hill street, at which Capt. Fredericks made his first appearance on the platform since the opening of the campaign. He reviewed the charges made by Woolwine and declared them to be absolutely false, convulsing his audience with satire and ridicule of his accuser. Kemper Campbell, Republican chairman of the Seventy-fifth Assembly District, presided at the meeting, and other speakers were W. D. Stephens, W. A. Lamb and Percy V. Hammon.

On Saturday night Capt. Fredericks will reply in full to Woolwine, in Simpson Auditorium, this ample hall having been secured in order to accommodate all those who will wish to hear him, as the charges have been hawked about for many weeks without reply.

CHARMS THE EAR.

Selected Talent Furnishes Delightful Programme for Many Friends of Association.

The programme for the third night in the series of entertainments given by the College Tract Improvement Association for the purpose of raising funds to buy a piano for College Tract hall, was a delight to the large audience which attended last night.

The talent was furnished by the faculty of the College of Musicians, Blanchard building, and those who appeared were: Homer Grunn, composer and pianist, director of the Piano Department of the College; Zoe Ballard Fuller, director of the School of Expression, in several readings; Ralph Wylie, rendering Hungarian Fantasia, by Ernst, on the violin; Homer Grunn at the piano, Ralph Wylie, violin, and Axel Simonsen 'cello, giving Mendelssohn's Andante from D Minor Trio. Edwin House, director of Vocal Department of the College of Musicians, and soloist at the Simpson Auditorium Christian Science Church, rendered several vocal solos.

The programme was in charge of A. B. Marshall, president of the College Tract Improvement Association.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

In the center of the Auditorium stage, upon the occasion of the funeral ceremonies for The Times workers who lost their lives while engaged in their work, there stood last Sunday a masterpiece of floral art: a beautiful reproduction of The Times building done in flowers. Seven thousand roses, chrysanthemums and carnations spread their fragrance throughout the vast building. It was the work of A. F. Borden, florist. His exquisite art only was shown to the onlooker who saw the result of his handiwork; but the sentiment behind that bank of flowers was known to the living workers on The Times who from the general manager to the youngest office boy subscribed to t cheost of the piece. Everyone in the establishment had gladly grasped the chance to express a loving memory through so grand and beautiful a medium.

And when Borden rendered a bill, he did so only to have an opportunity to transfer a generous contribution for the Relief Fund.

Lame back is one of the most common forms of muscular rheumatism. A few applications of Chamberlain's Liniment will give relief. For sale by all dealers.—[Adv.

TOPICS OF THE STAGE.

The first and one of the most interesting concerts of the season will be given tonight at Simpson Auditorium by the singing section of the Turnverein Germania, which won the Kaiser's Golden Cup in the recent contest of the Saengerbunds at San Francisco, when singers from many cities participated in the keen though friendly rivalry.

The entire proceeds of this concert will be devoted to the benefit fund being raised for the families of The Times martyrs. This was unanimously decided at a sympathetic and enthusiastic meeting of the Turnverein directorate a few days ago.

The programme will include several vocal solos, a number of orchestral selections and a thorough exemplification of the splendid male choral work which has now made the Los Angeles organization internationally famous.

Marc Klaw has been enjoying himself to the full extent of his capacity at a number of local pleasure resorts since his sojurn in Los Angeles.

Tuesday he visited Pasadena and her environs, and in the evening saw "The Melting Pot," for the first time.

Yesterday he spent in Catalina, and in the evening watched a portion of Rose Stahl's performance at the Mason Operahouse.

Today he has several little side trips planned.

If his present plans are not changed, he will return East tomorrow.

A string quartette in G major, composed by Carl E. Angeloty was given its first rendition at a private recital last night at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth C. Abaskal, No. 523 Commonwealth avenue.

The composition, which is Mr. Angeloty's opus 26, is dedicated to William A. Clark, Jr. son of the former United States Senator. Young Mr. Clark is a member and patron of the quartette which gave the first rendition. The work is in three movements: (1) Allegro Ma Non Troppo, (2) Andante, (3) Rondo Allegro. It s best described as being in a sprightly vein, and much thought in harmonization is manifested.

The following compose the quartette which played: Edwin A. Clark, first violin; William A. Clark, Jr., second violin; Carl E. Angeloty, viola; Bernhardt Bierlich, 'cello. During the evening Miss Blanche Ruby sang.

Seats for "The Prince of Pilsen" will be on sale at Hamburger's Majestic Theater today, and at the Auditorium, for "Morning, Noon and Night," a musical-review to be presented there next week.

On Wednesday evening next a musicale will be given at the Garvanza villa for Miss Ethel F. Coleman, a talented young soprano. Other artists who will appear on the programme are Mrs. G. N. Meking, contralto; Mrs. Nina Bullock Moss, mezzo-soprano; Homer Grunn, pianist; Ralph Wylie, violinist. About 150 guests have been invited.

It will soon be the privilege of Los Angeles to hear in one of its own citizens a splendid tenor. E. M. Rhodes of Eagle Rock Valley, is sparing no expense or time in the highest culture of a most superior voice. Last winter he studied in the Chicago Conservatory of Music and after a delightful summer spent at his home in this city, he is preparing to sail with his wife for Italy, where he will study for one year, and perhaps more, at Milan, under Breda. He has devoted all of his time for several years now to the culture of his voice and the result should be a magnificent organ.

Tim McMahon's Southern Review, a conglomerative medley of minstrelsy, musical comedy and monologue, will be the chief attraction at Pantages new house for next week. Bert Swor, a late member of the Red Mill company, is featured in the act. It is said to be one of the biggest and best musical acts yet seen on the Pantages circuit.

Others of note on the bill are McQuarrie and Company in "Alias Trixie Kix," a rah rah skit featuring college boys, girls, pennants and football games, and Piquo Piquo, acrobatic clown; Sweeney and Holmes, blackface comedians, and Mintz and Palmer in singing novelties.

John L. Sullivan, the veteran gladiator of the prize ring, will be an early attraction at Pantages. John L. has appeared in the city but once before in vaudeville.

Miss Louise Royce, who recently announced her decision to retire from the Burbank empany after four years of continuous work, was prevailed upon by Manager Morosco to return to the company for the production of "The Eternal Three," the new play by Frederick Eldridge and Reed Heustis, which will be given at the Burbank next week for the first time on any stage. Another interesting feature of the performance will be the return to the city of Howard Scott, now a member of the Burbank company, and who has one of the most important roles in the new piece. A. Byron Beasley will again depart from the conventional hero and impersonate one of the Joe Brooks-Jim Platt characters in which he has won recent distinction.

The sale of seats for the opening of Ferris Hartman will commence this morning at the Grand box office.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartman and Manager Kavanagh will arrive in Los Angeles from New York City tomorrow night. Jovial Jose Fogarty is busy these days meeting his old friends; Jack Raynes is selecting an orchestra, and there is an air of general activity about the Main street playhouse.

Myrtle Dingwall, the clever Los Angeles girl whose rise to the rank of prima donna has been rapid, will be prominent in Hartman's support during the coming season. Miss Dingwall has a brilliant soprano voice and a great amount of personal charm that has made her a great favorite both here and in San Francisco. Another material addition to the Hartman voices this year is the strong bass of Oliver Lenoir.

Al Lawrence and his humor is causing the S. R. O. sign to appear regularly before the box office of the Los Angeles Theater this week. Lawrence gives a different discussion every day. Yesterday he gave a humorous talk on the cost of high living. He maintains that it is not the question of the high cost of living that is worrying the American public today but that many American citizens are worrying about the cost of high living.

Billy Van, assassin of sorrow and minstrel man, will be one of the early features at the Los Angeles Theater. Van is scheduled to appear during the first week in November.

Some seventy-five children of the Los Angeles Orphans' home had their annual visit to the Orpheum Tuesday afternoon. The bill, with "Jack the Giant Killer" as a feature, was admirably suited to their pleasure. The "front of the house" bought a large bucket of candy and this was distributed, adding still more to their enjoyment. Altogether, as the guests of Manager Clarence Drown, they had the times of their lonely little lives.

Elbert Hubbard, the sage of East Aurora and the editor of the Fra and the Philistine, is due at the local Orpheum late in March.

HAPPY LITTLE WOMAN.

Christian Chinese Bride-to-Be Is Showered in Unique Manner With Many Gifts.

Miss Jessie Kam, born of Christian parents in Los Angeles, was a happy girl Tuesday evening when the members of the Methodist Chinese Sunday-school gave her a shower in honor of her marriage, the 25th inst., to Wong Wing, a prosperous commission merchant of this city.

The affair was held tt the home of Mrs. H. A. Birdsall. After several pleasant features, Miss Kam was blindfolded and taken on an imaginary trip to China, while the shower was being prepared. On the stroke of a bell she was brought into the parlors, and seated in a handsome lounging chair, the gift of a guest. As the blind was removed, the contents of a white umbrella decorated with hanging white lillies and suspended from the ceiling was poured into her lap and she was "showered" with gifts, dainty, useful and amusing. Letters and registered parcels from former teachers in distant towns were opened and read.

The Garbage Puzzle.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In the article "Not Roses or Violets" in this morning's issue you say of the garbage "somebody will be compelled to smell it and see it dumped from the wagons." I cannot believe that you mean by that that we are obliged to have the garbage dumped from wagons into cars and carried out of the city in that way. The contract calls for covered wagons. In the eye of the law this means wagons with steel covers, not a rag of canvas, and that the garbage shall be carred at least five miles beyond the city limits and disposed of; not that it shall be opened and dumped into open cars with only a canvas to partially cover it until such time as those who have it in charge see fit to move it.

Were Mr. Alexander to live up to his contract, load the garbage into steel-covered wagons and ship these five miles beyond the city limits before opening them, there would probably be no protest even by those who see most clearly the need of a thoroughly sanitary means of handling the garbage. But if the garbage must be handled in the present filthy, shiftless manner, in the name of decency do let us have the reloading station located where there are no homes to be outraged and defiled by it. There are such places in the city and one of them should be selected.

In our neighbor city of Long Beach the garbage is collected from the alleys, thus necessitating very little transportation of it through the streets. Our city prides herself on her progressive spirit, let her display that spirit in this matter and not remain a byword with the many eastern tourists who visit us each year and who know so well how such things should be handled by an up-to-date municipality. Our city is too large for such matters to be settled out of hand by untrained men. We need a sanitary engineer with a thorough grasp of such problems to put and keep our city on a thoroughly clean and healthful foundation.

COSMOS CLUB'S OPENING.

The first meeting of the year of the Cosmos Club was held yesterday afternoon in the clubrooms of the Ebell Club at Eighteenth and Figueroa streets. About two hundred members were present to enjoy an excellent programme, refreshments and a social good time. In the absence of the president, Mrs. George Jordan, detained by the illness of her brother, Mrs. C. W. Murray, first vice-president, presided. The programme consisted of musical numbers, vocal solos by Mrs. Harry Dow Kirk, accompanied by Otto Kuritz, and violin selections by Mrs. Harry Underwood, whose accompanist was Eva Olney. At its conclusion a general reception to the old and new members was held. The next meeting of the club is announced for the 26th inst., at which time Dr. Burdette will give an address on "Jack the Giant Killer."

HEAVY RAINS IN JAMAICA.

KINGSTON (Jamaica) Oct. 12.—Heavy rains have been falling here since Monday and considerable damage has been done. The fall amounted to nine inches in the twenty-four hours ending at noon today. The thoroughfares are flooded and the railway and street-car service interrupted. The telegraph wires are down between important centers. It is feared that squalls accompanying the rain will have a bad effect on the banana crop.

NOVELISTS OUTDONE.

MOST DANGEROUS ADVENTURESS IN AMERICA TO BE ARRAIGNED TODAY.

Daisy Krause, Who Shot Frank H. Griffith in Los Angeles and Her Meteoric Career---An Immagination That Ran Riot. The Sensational Offenses of a Wayward Beauty.

THE detective gave a side-long glance of involuntary admiration at the pale, slight, aristocratic-looking woman he was interviewing at the Los Angeles jail.

"Madam," he said, "after some twenty years of rather liberal experience with criminals and other people, I want to say to you that you are the most dangerous woman I ever met; and," he paused: then added with deep conviction, "the biggest liar."

Mrs. Daisy Turney Krause, the ethereal little creature who shot Frank H. Griffith, the Los Angeles mining broker in his office, and whose preliminary examination on the charge of assault to murder is to occur before Justice Rose today, drew herself up haughtily.

"You dare say that to my face," she began. Then their eyes met and she threw back her head and laughed.

Mrs. Krause had accepted the tribute.

Her arrest, red-handed so to speak, in the office of the man she tried to kill, has brought to light an extraordinary life history.

Mrs. Krause is a would-be authoress whose manuscripts have the unerring instinct of the carrier pigeon for coming back home. But if she could write a story as well as she can live one, she would have Robert W. Chambers backed off the boards.

The facts upon which this narrative is based were not taken from gossip of hotel clerks. They are the sworn statements of the lady's husband, Dr. William Krause, who is regarded as one of the eminent scientists of the South.

Mrs. Daisy Turney Krause, the lady in the case, is an appealing little creature with the blue-eyed baby stare that actresses used to affect a few years ago, a touch of hauteur in her bearing that suggests the blue blood of her parentage; restless willfulness that no man, woman or devil can curb; a furious and uncontrolled temper; a vivid reckless imagination which helps her to dramatize herself into assuming any character that helps her designs and gives her an almost inhuman ingenuity in wreaking vengeance upon her enemies.

As a young girl in Mississippi she was noted for her beauty and headstrong willfulness. No one ever dared cross her. Her waywardness led into an unfortunate early marriage with fascinating and worthless specimen of humanity.

After a short period of alluring young widowhood, she met and married Dr. William Krause. This marriage was material for a great domestic drama.

Dr. Krause who espoused this wary, reckless, pleasure-loving, hot-tempered young widow, was (and is) an absent-minded elderly scientist whose knowledge of the world was gained from looking at bugs through a microscope. He has been for years a bacteriologist of international reputation and is perhaps the world's greatest authority on yellow fever.

He knows every microbe by name and reputation and he knows about as much about people as he does about the inhabitants of Mars.

This strangely assorted pair seem to have traveled along peaceably enough for about two years when Mrs. Krause became possessed of an ambition to be a high-brow heroine and a star in literature.

Her stories being first back by the editors and her plays being ignored by the managers, she is alleged to have entered upon one of those strange games of "pretend" that disappointed authorines have been known, before this, to try.

ALL IN HER HEAD

According to the plaintive allegations of the old scientist back in Memphis, she began dashing away from their home to have all sorts of negotiations with well-known theatrical managers. She was continually finding it necessary to go to New York to consult David Belasco.

She was bothered to death with her business dealings with Charles Frohman. Sometimes the negotiations became quite annoying and she said indignantly that Frohman was an old skinflint.

She pretended to have several literary productions always on the verge of acceptance by well known publishers. The royalties that the theater trust offered for her plays were quite fabulous.

She told her friends in Memphis that her story on Western life had been pronounced the equal of the best that Owen Wister has done; and the play that it would make when dramatized would be much better than the "Virginian."

According to the sworn statement of the doctor, he believed all these stories and, in the innocence of his heart, kept supplying her money, far beyond his limited means, for her "business trips."

Dr. Krause now claims that while on these business trips, she engaged in another fascinating game of pretend. In Memphis, she was a busy authorine, compelled to be away from home to negotiate with publishers and managers—altogether too busy to bother with society.

While on the business trips, she stayed at fashionable hotels at Chicago, New York and Los Angeles where she posed as an aristocratic leader of Southern society.

Drunk with the awed admiration she had managed to create by both pretensions, the woman actually began to believe it herself.

Dr. Krause says that she gradually began to assume an air of superiority and condescension toward him. She took on the magnificent airs of one who had the entree to exclusive notables, occupying a select sphere to which the old doctor could not hope to be admitted.

Amazing as the statement is, this couple drifted apart on account of the fashionable and artistic friends who were all figments of the lady's imagination.

Meanwhile the financial strain was beginning to tell on the doctor. Although a man of high reputation, like most scientific men, he was not a money maker. His income was modest. Mrs. Krause was almost continually traveling and her husband was almost continuously in debt and growing more so every day.

Her imagined fame, coupled with her good looks, naturally attracted the attentions of men. Her husband makes against her serious allegations as to the attentions of men that she met from time to time as she traveled about the country playing at being a heroine.

Money was becoming her serious problem. It takes "dough" to be a heroine and stick at the job. She was deaf to the pleadings of her husband and the protests of her relatives. She wanted money, money, money.

In despair, the doctor was finally obliged to post a notice in the Memphis newspapers warning tradespeople not to give her credit. Nevertheless she ran up bills at the big dry goods houses of Chicago, Philadelphia and New York.

The old doctor claims that she even drove him into their bedroom at the point of a pistol in the course of one of their quarrels over money. Being a dead shot with a revolver, gun play has played an important part of this heroine's career. She has terrified many men before taking a pot shot at Griffith.

It is alleged that she got loans, enforced and otherwise, from different men on which to keep up her drama of pretension.

In his sworn cross complaint, in the divorce proceeding of Krause vs. Krause, now pending in the courts of Memphis, Dr. Krause openly charges her with attempting to blackmail at least one man.

In her madness for money with [illegible] pretend, she even caused the arrest of the old scientist for vagrancy, under a special statute of the criminal laws of the State of Mississippi, where he had gone as one of the faculty of the University of Mississippi.

Her object, of course was to expose him to ridicule and scorn and make him "come through." She had in the meantime brought suit against him for divorce, making all manner of charges of cruelty, tending to hurt his professional standing.

Her attempt to send her husband, the doctor, to jail as a vagrant resulted in her fingers being badly burned. When she testified as the complaining witness, the attorney for Dr. Krause reded her with questions about her affairs of the heart and about her strange and merciless pursuit of Frank H. Griffith of Los Angeles, which was then in full cry. The cross-examination was never finished. She left the witness stand; the charge was hastily dismissed.

THE BITER BIT.

In justice to a man of the standing of Dr. Krause, Justice Murch of Vicksburg handed down a written opinion stating that Mrs. Krause was a woman unworthy of belief; that her charges were lies and that she had herself been guilty of infidelity and that Dr. Krause was justified in having abandoned her.

After this bad spill, Mrs. Krause seems to have continued her red-hot hunt of Frank H. Griffith of Los Angeles.

According to the statements of all parties, she met Griffith at the Angelus Hotel in this city about two years ago. At this time, as at most other times, she needed money. Griffith was pointed out to her as a rich mining man of Alaska and Nevada and she asked one of the hotel clerks for an introduction.

Their meeting was one of casual courtesy and the next day, Griffith went away to San Francisco.

HOW'S THIS?

He was followed by this letter from Mrs. Krause who elsewhere describes herself as the "family cold-storage box." What must the warm-hearted members of the family be like? The letter:

"The Angelus, Los Angeles, Cal.

"Dearest, Oh Darling:

"You must come to me—you must, simply must .....I cannot live without you. I have been fighting against you, my better self trying to assert itself in my defense but it is impossible. I can't sleep for wishing, almost praying for you. Now you will have to come or let me come to you. I cannot endure it any longer, dearie. I am all broken up this morning since you left me. The doctor came to see me this morning and said: 'Oh I see, been writing again have you? Can't get your story to run smoothly. Been sitting at that desk 26 hours out of 24. All right my little lady! Just keep it up and I will send you home in a beautiful box all lined with white.'

"Oh dearie, he made me angry, very angry, but it didn't do any good because he made the maid assist me to bed and I have been trying to sleep but I can't. Won't I have a letter today? Please, please—do write me every day. Can't you feel me holding out my hands to you? Don't you know I want you, you, you—nothing in God's great big, beautiful, glorious old world but you. I do not care for people my dear—never loved anyone or thought of any man only through friendship until you came into my life, my dear old birthday present. Don't get hurt. Take the very best care of yourself. Nothing must harm you now. Oh what a difference in my life since Friday.

"Your Daisy Dot."

ANOTHER LETTER.

Immediately thereafter, the amazed Mr. Griffith got another letter from this woman whom he had met just once. This time, she gave him a hint about money strong enough to knock off a brick block. She wrote:

"The Angelus, Los Angeles, Cal.

"Dearie, still my dearest: In spite of all I shall and will come to you some day. Oh yes, I will dearie—that is if you want me, not unless you do though very, very much. I am very unhappy, very lonely and heart-sick. I did everything in my power to remain here until you came, but found it impossible.

"Oh money, money. Isn't it perfectly frightful that a few dollars would be the means of keeping me from coming to you."

(She explains that she is going to El Paso to get money from her uncle, (only $400 in debt to dressmakers, etc.)

The letter continues:

"Let me love you a week, or perhaps three weeks; then perhaps I will be able to continue my writing. Please, oh please dearie, don't give me up. Don't break my heart. I didn't think I could care for anyone as I do for you. You see I am not as strong as I thought and I am getting punished for all that I have written about love—only mother love—so I have always claimed—existed. The other kind was absurd or diseased imagination. God deliver me from ever being guilty of imagination again.

"Dear I am saying silly things. Please forgive me but—well dearie, dearie, I am so broken up I can't live without you. May God and all the an-

SUBSTANTIAL BUSINESS.

Open Shop Policy of Los Angeles Contractor Proves Success—Stone for State Buildings.

L. Bly, manager of the Bly Brothers Stone Company, has found that the open shop policy adopted by his firm several years ago has proved so successful that he is about to enlarge his plant by the purchase of some of the most up-to-date granite machinery in the East. C. E. Bly will leave this week for a tour of inspection of the granite plants in New England, with a view to making the Los Angeles institution one of the most modern.

Bly Brothers furnished the granite for the old Times Building, the San Pedro breakwater and many large buildings, including the Hall of Records now in process of construction. They employ about forty men. Recently they secured a contract on the State buildings at Sacramento, taking the job away from the union shops there.

"The open shop policy is the one on which to build a sustantial business in Los Angeles," said L. Bly yesterday. "The unions cannot dominate or control building here and the open shop contractor and employer is not tied down by unionism. Our business has expanded under the open shop system."

DEATH'S BREATH FANS WORKMEN.

GREAT STEEL SAFE FALLS FROM FIFTH STORY.

Accident in New Federal Building Just Escapes Being Serious and Workmen Miss Eternity in Remarkable Manner. Tons of Big Box Plunge Down Shaft of Elevator.

A half dozen workmen were near death yesterday when a huge safe tore loose from its fastenings in the freight elevator shaft in the Federal building and crashed from the fifth floor to the basement.

By rare fortune no man was in the path of the big steel box and the only damage done was to the wheels on the safe and the cement floor of the basement.

The safe is a part of the equipment of the Land Office. It weighs several tons. It was too heavy to haul up on the elevator and the men who moved the Federal offices left it until they had completed the remainder of the work.

Yesterday the elevator was run to the top story and anchored there. A heavy beam was then fastened to the sides of the elevator shaft at the sixth floor. From this was hung a large block and tackle. The safe was rolled to the bottom of the shaft and a thick rope was wrapped around it. A hook from the tackle was passed through this.

Several men then grabbed hold of the long rope which ran through the pulleys and began to slowly hoist the strong box. Floor by floor it was pulled up. They stood directly beneath it and occasionally glanced up to watch the progress they were making.

The safe had almost reached the fifth story, on which floor the Land Office is located, when the rope suddenly parted. In a flash it had dropped to the basement.

Just a moment before the workmen had stepped to one side, but they were close enough to feel the breath of death fan them. If one of them had been in the shaft, he would not have had time to have heeded any warning after the steel box began to fall.

One man had followed the safe up from floor to floor, holding to a guide rope to keep it from twisting around. A few moments before the accident he had stood braced, with the rope wrapped half way around his body. His position was such that he would have been dragged down to probable death if the safe had fallen a few moments before it did.

The strong box was straightened up and was again laced with rope. The men again hoisted it up by the same tedious process. After a few repairs had been made, it was wheeled to the Office of Receiver Robinson, where it is destined to remain probably for many years.

His Jewelry Gone.

Sam Robb, living at No. 318½ West Pico street, reported to the police yesterday morning that his room had been entered Tuesday evening and his watch, locket and ring stolen.

IN THE LAND OF PLENTY.

NINE THOUSAND TONS THE WALNUT HARVEST.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA will produce this year about 9000 tons of walnuts, or a crop that falls a little short of last year's. It will mean a revenue to the growers of at least $1,750,000. The walnut industry has by no means reached its zenith as shown by these figures. The demand is constantly growing while the production advances very slowly.

It is too early in the season to secure definite figures on this season's crop, as seventy-five per cent of the harvest is yet to be loaded on the cars and shipped. Many of the nuts are still lying in the orchards beneath the leaves where it is difficult to estimate the quantity. Some estimates place the crop 600 tons short of that of last year. The total shipments then amounted to 9,300 tons. The more optimistic growers, however, place their figure at 9000 tons this year.

The harvest is slightly early on account of the two rains. The rains have been light enough not to discolor the shells or cause any damage but have caused the nuts to fall. It is probable that a large part of the crop will be in Eastern markets in time to accompany the turkey and cranberries on the Thanksgiving menu. This will be an advantage in disposing of the supply early and stimulating a demand for next year.

The walnut growers are following the orange shippers closely in the care with which they are sorting the fruit. They realize that both prices and demand are built up by assuring a good quality. The customer who buys a pound of walnuts which contain no shrunken or discolored meats comes back for five pounds more, while the sale of one pound of poor nuts kills the demand for many pounds more.

The developing of the budded walnut, which is uniform in size, with fuller and sweeter meats, will do a great deal for the walnut industry. So far this crop is an inconsiderable part of the total shipment but it is increasing each year and the young orchards are being planted to the placentia or budded walnut.

Orange county produces the bulk of the walnuts and the crop there is lighter this year in proportion than in any other part of the State. Whittier, Rivera and Santa Ana will continue, however, to be the principal shipping points. Over-production of walnuts is little feared. The walnut is one crop that requires the most careful selection of both soil and climatic conditions. The trees require a deep, rich soil and the climate must not be too hot nor too wet. This limits the walnut growing districts even in Southern California to a comparatively narrow area. California nuts and raisins are gradually crossing the line between occasional luxury and general table necessity.

The prices to the Eastern wholesaler this year will be for No. 1 soft, 15 cents; for hard shell, 14½ cents; for No. 2, 11 cents. The No. 2 walnut, the cheapest included in the general shipments, is equal in quality to the others but is smaller. The seconds or culls are supposed to be consumed at home. Nuts will retail in the East as usual from 18 cents to 25 cents a pound.

SYRIANESQUE.

DREAM ESTATE AT JERUSALEM.

OLIVE ORCHARDS AND MULBERRY TREES SCARCE.

SON'S BANKRUPTCY BRINGS HIS FATHER LONG TRIP.

CREDITORS SADDEN AS ASSETS GO GLIMMERING.

The atmosphere of ancient Syria, with its thousand-year-old legal customs, its tongue-confusing names for persons, states, communities, and cities, was present throughout the spacious offices of Referee in Bankruptcy Lynn Helm, in the Trust Building, yesterday morning, during the hearing of the bankruptcy proceedings against George Maloof, formerly a house-to-house dealer in woman's fabrics and silks, the product of Syrian looms.

Maloof failed several months ago for $1500 and in his petition to be permitted to enter the realms of the bankrupts, stated that he was destitute, not even having sufficient funds with which to defray the expenses of an attorney. When examined, however, he admitted that he had an interest in Syrian lands deeded him and his brother, E. S. Maloof, a manufacturer, with a place of business on North Main street, by his father, Solomon George Maloof, a wealthy ranchman of Dooma, Mount Lebanon, Syria. This was later corroborated by E. S. Maloof, who stated that the land in question if sold would liquidate the indebtedness many times over.

This proved welcome news to the creditors of the bankrupt Maloof, and through Attorney William Craig, representing the Board of Trade, the services of the American Counsel at Beirut the closest city of importance to Dooma, were obtained, and a probe instituted into the reputed riches of the elder Maloof, and the value of the lands deeded by him to his sons.

To further the inquiry the local creditors secured the services of Abdul Malek, a renowned attorney of Beirut, to pore over the dust-covered records, locate the extensive holdings of the elder Maloof and to obtain proofs that the stipulated lands had been deeded to E. S. and George Maloof.

The attorney of the flowing-garb did his work well, and the necessary documents are at present in the hands of Attorney Craig. A communication was later received, however, from Abdul, that the elder Maloof had departed for parts unknown when reports of the financial troubles of his son became known to him. It was not stated whither he had gone and no end of surprise was created yesterday when he was ushered into the office of Attorney Helm by his son George Maloof.

The aged ranchman, fresh from his 12,000 mile jaunt—through the Ottoman empire to Constantinople, via the Mediterranean to Havre, thence across the Atlantic to New York, to Boston and finally Los Angeles—was placed upon the witness stand, and in his naive way, denied his riches or his extensive landed interests.

In depreciating his land values, he had the trust officials at recent interstate commerce hearings faded from every angle. In every way he affected the impecunious. Tracts of olive bearing lands that his sons described in hundreds of acres, he told of as plots wherein four or five trees flourished. His immense mulberry tree holdings which are necessary for the silk industry, he limited to the area of an ordinary telephone booth. But the final thrust was given to the roseate hopes of his son's creditors, when he stated that three thousand big American dollars would be a gross overcharge for his reputed estates.

Right there the hearing ended—at least for the present. Attorney Craig made a motion for an order restraining the creditors from further action until the representations of the elder Maloof had been investigated. Referee in Bankruptcy Helm however, thought it best to continue the matter at least until the 17th inst., to give him further time in which to probe the matter. And, when that time arrives, it is believed that the case will be again continued, and the services of Abdul Malek secured to institute another investigation, and rise afresh the dust covering the records in far-off Dooma near Jerusalem, for the satisfaction of American financial interests.

WRITES FOR HUSBAND.

Girl in East Seeks Opportunity to Come to Southern California to Live.

Apparently any little man, who is a nice little man, is the right little man for a girl who writes to Postmaster Harrison, asking his assistance in getting a husband for her.

She is so determined that she will come to Southern California to live that she is willing to accept a spouse in order to get to the land of sunshine and flowers.

While the Postmaster disclaims any intention of opening a matrimonial bureau, he was so impressed by the letter that he is willing to do something to help her succeed.

"I'm sure she is in earnest, all right," he said yesterday. "I'll bet she is a nice girl, too, from the way she writes. Perhaps she is just the wife some fellow has been looking for. Of course, I have no recommendations except her own letter."

The writer's request was that he should insert an advertisement, but he considered that he could do more to help her along the road to matrimony by giving her letter publicity. She also asked him to keep her name a secret, giving the directions by which mail might be sent to her.

"I hope you will pardon the unusual request I am about to make," she says in her letter. "I am a young lady, nineteen years old, and would like to marry a gentleman in your locality, but must need your help to do so.

"My request is—would you kindly insert an advertisement in one of the newspapers for me? I am not writing this as a joke or a quick means of getting money, but simply cannot get along in the East. A girl must look further away from her place of residence, or starve. And I prefer to look to your beautiful city for the help and happiness I need.

"My character and reputation are the best. There could be none better, so you see this is no mere nonsense af a girl, but the earnest appeal of a young woman.

"If you will please have 'Miss I. August,' in care of general delivery, put on any answers, I will get them. It will be an act of kindness for which I will be forever grateful, and I thank you in advance."

Facts, Features and Fancies for Women

BY OLIVE GRAY.

DAILY BEAUTY HINT: Care for the eye brows if you would look well. These features are important in lending expression to the face, as well as in protecting the eyes. Eye brows should be carefully brushed, all dandruff removed and now and then a good cream should be applied to keep them in healthy condition. There is a salve which materially aids the growth of the eye brows. Stray hairs which spoil the lines of the brows should be removed.

The other morning when it suddenly rained there was excitement in the mocking-bird family which reminded me of that prevailing in other families when the first rain of the season occurs at about the time for its members to leave home.

"Maria!" shouts father, "where's that new umbrella I bought last spring? I'll bet I've bought over 700 umbrellas since we came to California to live and every year, during the dry season they're all lost!"

"The whole 700, Charles," asks mother, suavely, as she hands him his umbrella.

Elizabeth sighs, "Dear me! I don't see where my rubbers have gone! I put them carefully away in the hall window seat—now—in the linen closet—oh, oh, mother, where are they?" And mother produces the frantically-sought gum shoes.

Then Bobbie: "Naw, I don't want no umbreller ner galloshes! I ain't no girl Maw!" and while mother is protesting against this outburst of boys' grammar—or lack of it—Bobbie slips away to school.

I don't know that the little mocking-birds go to school, or that the older ones attend clubs or work in offices, but the consternation in their circle sounded very similar to the above. Then the low lament from Madame Mockingbird, when all left might be translated: "Well, so the fall rains have set in, and before I get the house cleaning done, too! I'm glad to have the dust settled and the eucalyptus trees do smell delicious after the rain, but I believe I prefer the vacuum cleaning process. It's so soggy here in the wet."

Pups and Cups.

Have you seen the Broadway window full of them? Trophy cups—all that are not exhibited in that other window, and among them, as though each were guarding his trophy just as you have seen them protect their precious bones—dogs. Not real hairy dogs such as they use nowadays for candy-boxes—but dogs of china and bisque. This looks rather like a "dress rehearsal" for the coming Dog Show. These lovely, cool precious autumn days are sure enough "dog days."

Home-Made.

A new-old art for the home is pottery making. Back we go to the Indian days, but several rounds higher up the ladder! Just a little skill is required to mould the jars and vases and candle sticks which form such adorning articles for the household. And there is a way of using oil paints with just plain bath-tub enamel which is said to act as an excellent substitute for true glazing. The full particulars of this art are given in a current magazine.

For Christmas.

Do you know that you can get, put up in envelopes, all the "ingredients" for making such Christmas gifts as embroidered handbags, pillow tops, and dozens of pretty and simple fancy-work gifts? The pictured patterns on the outside of the packages show just how the articles will look when finished and tell what materials are there. The prices are very modgrate, running from as low as 25 cents and 50 cents up. The values of such gifts when completed far exceeds the cost of all material.

The Latest Variety.

And speaking of dogs, one of the Broadway stores which has just added a toy department to its great establishment has a collection of toy dogs which is a genuine novelty. The animals are made from heavy cardboard and the limbs and heads are "jointed." They come in boxes of six each, not exactly "litters" for every one is different, fox terrier, Newfoundland, Spaniel, etc. On the back of each card is the history of that especial kind of dog, its origin and its characteristics. So, unaware, the child playing with this toy is being instructed.

There are also sets of wild animals, each accompanied by its history. For instance of the donkey it is said: "Sir Samuel Baker wrote 'Those who have seen donkeys only in civilization can have no idea of the high-bred tone in its deportment when free and treading its native Abissynian wilds.'" The cardboard reproduction is very lifelike with its real "kickety" legs.

The most comical of these toys are those called the "Rope Climbers." These quaint figures of clowns climb an elastic string which is cleverly manipulated while suspended from a hook or nail.

Among other novelties there is a painting book, with little "windows" cut in covers and pages through which the paints are allowed to show, thus aiding the child-artist to copy in the outlined form exactly the colors of fruits and flowers printed upon the page.

An Appetizer.

Slices of toast covered with a paste made from Parmesan cheese, butter and cayenne, each slice topped with a small yellow tomato and garnished with finely chopped water cress, makes an excellent first course or appetizer for luncheon.

A Fine Conversationlist.

"Mrs. So-and-so is one of the best conversationlists I have ever met," was a deserved tribute paid by a gentleman who is by common consent—a good deal of a "bore." This was at a summer resort where people have ample leisure to be either entertaining or the reverse. I had not thought that Mrs. So-and-so was given to conversing very much; and it happened later that some one who had overheard the commended conversation remarked, "Poor Mrs. So-and-so, that old man talked to her this forenoon for two straight hours without cessation. I don't think she made a remark beyond 'No' and 'yes' during the entire seance." But she evidently made these remarks in just the right places. And as I have since noticed, those who are reputed to be the "best conversationlists" are, as a rule, simply good listeners; for to a majority, "conversation" is summed up in the verb "to talk," first person singular.

A Few Fashions.

Among the latest Paris eccentricities are hats, such as the "Chieftain," with great feather tiaras standing upright across the front, the "extinguisher," a mushroom shape in scarlet from which rises a grey smoke-like plume, and the "butterfly" a close shape trimmed simply with a huge butterfly of gauze printed in gorgeous colorings, the "creature" perched at the very front of the hat, as though it had momentarily alighted there.

Striped suitings are the rage, while the surface of most fab is rough.

Automobile and evening wraps show both the peasant and the raglan sleeves.

The kimono sleeve is being seen on dresses and separate waists; also in many coats.

Narrow, straight skirts are very popular, the body-and-sleeve-in-one idea being a favorite.

Lace bows are conspicuous in millinery, both black and white and ribbon being used a great deal.

Among novelties in buttons, pendants in imitation of jewels and small black and red buttons are offered.

Mole and seal and imitation seal are excellent flat and pliable furs for trimmings and are very fashionable.

The narrow skirts now in demand necessitate a further narrowing of underwear to conform to the new lines.

Tall chandeliers are to be seen on the covers of silk boxes that will be used as favors during the coming winter.

A smart riding habit is made of khaki, trimmed with leather, and a leather vest matches the stiff sailor of tan.

Jabots are usually in pleated apron style, though the cascade and one-sided frill varieties are much seen also.

RAISIN-SEEDER SUIT.

New York Concern Alleges Infringement of Patent by Four California Corporations.

The United States Consolidated Seeded Raisin Company, a New York corporation, yesterday began proceedings in the United States Circuit Court to restrain the alleged infringements of four California corporations on a patent owned by it.

It is asserted in the bill which was filed that the defendants are using machinery which is designed after an invention which was perfected by George Pettit, Jr., in 1896, for seeding raisins and which is now the property of the petitioner.

The New York concern, which is also in business in this State, prays for an injunction against the defendants and asks that they shall be permanently forbidden to trespass on its rights.

The defendants are the California Farmers' Union Incorporated, Israaution Arakelian, Krekar Arakelian, Basil H. Paul, Madeleine Paul, A. Sorensen, J. H. Dawson, C. W. Updike, Scott Manlove, J. M. Kneeland, S. M. Ingram, W. I. Tebbs, B. F. Leland, I. F. McFarland, J. C. Boyd, J. H. Dodson, Albin Olson, L. E. Hurley, B. N. Cook and the Union Raisin Seeding Company of Fresno; the Dinuba Farmers' Union, and Walter Billingslea, Charles W. Updike, Robert G. Kirk, John H. Remm, and William F. Mc Cracken of Dinuba, Tulare county; Kings County Raisin & Fruit Co., Lyman S. Chittenden, Ronald E. Sworder, William J. Wilson, William L. Haag and John T. Dunlap of Hanford, and the California Dried Fruit Agency, Henry W. Rudy, Albert R. Nicholson, George A. Hare, David L. Bachan, Daniel E. Eymann, Edwin Thompson, B. E. GET HIM AT LAST.

On a warrant issued two years ago charging him with passing fictitious checks, Ygnacio Rivera was arrested by Detectives Beaumont, Roberts and Cowan, yesterday afternoon, on South Spring Street. Rivera is charged with defrauding a Main street pawnbroker of $10 by giving him worthless paper. Rivera could not be found when the warrant was first issued, but he was seen yesterday and the detectives notified.

Linotype Operators Chance to Register

Many cordial offers of assistance from workers in various Times immediately after the explosion and fire—especially from pritners who were ready to lend a hand. These offers could not be accepted, although they were keenly appreciated. The spirit which prompted them was most gratifying, but The Times was not in a position to avail itself of them. Indeed, some of its own printers are out of work, on account of the destruction of its job office.

As the new equipment of The Times is increased, however, it may need linotype operators. Several of its former operators were killed; others are in the hospital. The Times suggests that non-union linotype iperators in any part of the country desiring employment register with The Times now. There may be openings for them at the best wages.

DAISY KRAUSE.

gels forgive me. Goodbye—I am suffering too much to write. I am kissing you in every word. Do you feel them?"

In a later letter of the 189 letters that Griffith received from her, she cannot forbear a touch of the game of pretend:

"Joaquin Miller and I have recently met and have become great friends. I am going to meet him in his beautiful old mountain home just when I wish. He is a dear sweet old man, all heart and soul. He kisses my hand because I write sweet (Oh mercy) stories. I am a little genius to him—so he says, but I don't want to be anything ever again, but just a woman who wants you very much and who should be ashamed of herself for saying such frightful things, but somehow she isn't. Goodbye dearie. Do you feel the kisses I am putting on this paper? God bless both of us. Yours, only yours.

"Little Girl."

SWORN STATEMENT

According to the sworn statements of the woman's own husband, these letters gradually progressed into angry demands for money, into a continued persecution of almost devilish ingenuity and finally to blackmail and attempted murder:

Using the doctor's sworn statement:

"Complainant (Mrs. Krause) sent many endearing and amorous letters and telegrams to said man (Griffith) begging him to come to her; despairing of coaxing him to return, she began some time during the early part of March, 1909 to threaten to ruin him socially and injure his business standing if he did not come to her; that she masqueraded among his intimate business associates as his wife; signed her name as such, and openly claimed she had been married to him in Oct. 1908.

"She went to San Francisco and registered at the St. Francis Hotel as the wife of Griffith where she remained until about April 24, 1909, purporting to transact business as his wife and having bills charged to him on that account; failing to coerce Griffith to return to her, she departed for Redding, California.

"During the period she was at Redding she posed and was known as the wife of said man and meddled in the affairs of a mining company of which he was president and exercised every means in her command to injure him and his business hereby seeking to compel him to comply with her demands; she wrote him a letter warning him not to deny she was his wife and threatening to shoot him if he did so, and offering if he would return to her, to go with him to some quiet place and live on the $150 per month she was receiving from defendant (Dr. Krause)."

As a matter of fact, Griffith received from Mrs. Krause a letter flatly demanding $150 a month. She said she was receiving $150 from the doctor and said she could live on $300 easier than on $150.

This demand being, of course, refused, Mrs. Krause, as a part of her revenge, filled some of the Los Angeles newspapers with stories to the effect that she had invested large sums of money—varying at different times from $20,000 to $40000—in his company and had been swindled out of it. She said Griffith handed her an envelope containing blank sheets of paper instead of the stock she bought.

SWORN STATEMENT.

Griffith's statement that she never invested one dollar, or advanced to him any money whatever is born out by the following extract from Dr. Krause's sworn statement on the cross complaint:

"She registered at Hotel Redding as said city under the name and as the wife of an unmarried man (Griffith,) of whom she is enamored and repeatedly has sought through threatened blackmail and physical violence to force him to become a party to an adulterous liaison; that her object in visiting Redding was to circulate slanderous stories concerning said man in reference to certain business transactions she pretended to have had with him, but which in fact, never transpired and thereby intimidate said man into acceding to her immoral demands or pay financial tribute for her silence.

Mrs. Krause, on one of her trips East, went to the home of Griffith's aged mother in Virginia and tried to get money from her by telling her that her son was in deep trouble and needed $250.

As every one knows, Mrs. Krause tried to kill Griffith in July, 1909. Regarding this incident, her husband takes oath in his cross bill as follows:

"Complainant tried to prevail on Griffith to assent to her demands and when he refused to do so, threatened and attempted to shoot him, but was prevented from doing so by having the revolver in her possession taken from her by an officer; that her conduct in this regard caused her to be examined by officers connected with the office of the District Attorney and a full confession as to her past conduct and several aliases under which she had operated was secured and made a matter of record in the Bureau for the Identification of Criminals in said city (Los Angeles,) that she was forced to leave the city to escape prosecution, but before leaving signed and delivered to the office of the District Attorney certain incriminatory documents and was guilty of acts of debauchery and depravity so wanton and infamous that the preservation of good morals requires that the specific facts in relations thereto should not be stated."

NOT DIVORCED.

In connection with this divorce suit and with this red-hot cross complaint by her husband, Mrs. Krause is said to have stirred up a great state of excitement in Memphis. On account of her threats made to the wives of prominent attorneys in that city, the doctor had a fierce time getting an attorney who was willing to take the case.

Mrs. Krause, since her arrest for her last attempt on Griffith's life, has been letting the impression go forth that she has been divorced and is now free. As a matter of fact, no hearing has been had in the divorce suit. Day before yesterday, to the lady's great wrath, she was served with a notice in her cell in the City Jail, that her husband's deposition on his cross complaint is to be taken in Tennessee.

"They can't serve me with a civil process when I am in jail on a criminal charge," she said. "I know more about law than these lawyers do, myself."

THE COUNTESS.

Mrs. Krause appears to be very nervous about facing the charge of attempting to kill Griffith in his office in the Story Building.

For the past few days the "Countess" Aurelia Bethlen who says she is the well known exponent of Bahaism whatever that is, has been going about the newspaper offices trying to work up interest in a plan to have Mrs. Krause admitted to probation. She says she is trying to get Griffith's consent. Griffith of course will not consent, so Mrs. Krause will have to face the music. Her examination is this morning before Justice Rose.

Griffith will appear as the prosecuting witness. On the day as to which he will give testimony, Mrs. Krause came to his office in the Story Building and said she wanted to see him. He refused to see her alone.

"You're afraid of me."

"Get that right out of your mind—now and hereafter," repled Griffith. He turned to the telephone and was calling up the office of the city prosecutor when Mrs. Krause whipped out a 38 calibre revolver and fired three shots at him at a range of about four feet.

One shot struck him in the right arm; another went through his neck tie and was deflected by the breast bone; a third struck on the cement floor and bounced into the plaster wall.

OIL STOCKS ON UP-GRADE

SIGNING OF AGREEMENT HAS GOOD EFFECT.

GENERAL NEWS OF INTEREST FROM OIL FIELDS.

At the present time there is an upward tendency of oil stocks on the Los Angeles Exchange, and also in San Francisco. The signing of the agreement between the Union-Independents and the Associated Oil Company, several days ago, was calculated to add strength to the market, and following fast upon that action came the official action of the Union Oil Company in increasing its dividend by 10 cents a share a month.

The first day after the Union increased its dividend its stock went up nearly $16 a share on the local market, and other issues gained strength in sympathy. Within the past few months a certain element of speculation in oil stocks has been eliminated, and an upward tendency was to be expected as soon as the marketing conditions were improved.

At Bakersfield yesterday the directors of the Independent Oil Producers' Agency ratified the agreement negotiated by L. P. St. Clair for the Independents with the Associated, and arrangements were made to put the agreement into practical working shape.

W. S. Porter, manager the the Associated Oil Company, is now in Europe, but the conditions of the agreement were passed upon by him before he sailed from the United States. O. Scribner, secretary of the Associated, accompanied by other directors of the concern, were in Bakersfield to be tors met. He refused to talk about tors met. Heretofore to talk about close when the Independent directhe prospects of better prices for Agency oil, contenting himself with remarking that the market is steady at this time. Mr. Scribner made a trip of inspection of the new-Coalinga-Sunset pipe line. He expressed faith in the Lost Hills district. The Associated and its individual officers have obtained over 30,000 acres in this territory, Scribner said.

SEES BIG GAS WELL.

GEOLOGISTS IN THE FIELD.

Considerable excitement was caused in Bakersfield the other day when it became known that Prof. J. C. Branner, vice-president of the Leland Stanford University and head of the department of geology of that institution, had spent several days in the Midway oil fields.

Prof. Branner would not make public the nature of his business to the oil fields, dismissing the subject by saying that it was purely of a private character. He said he had always been a believer in the westside fields, and he was particularly impressed with the big gas well of the Standard. He believes the gas should be used for domestic purposes.

VISALIA MIDWAY WELL.

RECORD FOR DRILLING.

Fred H. Hall, organizer and manager of the Visalia Midway Oil Company, says record time was made in drilling the company's well No. 2. The oil was struck at a depth of 2320 feet and the drilling only began on May 20. The well is classed as a gusher, for the reason that when it was brought in on last Saturday the oil for a time spouted over the crown block.

The oil is af a fine quality, and the lowest estimate of the daily production is very large. Reservoirs for the safe handling of the oil from the well had been wisely provided in advance of the strike, and the company will experience no trouble on that score.

The Union Oil Company is getting ready to reopen the Sage well No. 2, on Section 25, just west of the Lakeview. This well came in several weeks ago as a gusher of the big type.

The Olig Oil Company has brought in a gold well at a depth of 2700 feet, after moving twice because of crooked holes. The Lakeside Oil Company is down 2000 feet on Section 28, 31-24, almost on the shore of Buena Vista Lakes. This is the deepest hole in the Elk Hills district and as yet there is no indication of either oil or gas.

CROWN GOING DEEPER.

WANTS BIGGER PRODUCTION.

The Crown Oil Company, operating on 320 acres in the Sespe district of Ventura County, yesterday made a contract for the further drilling of well No. 1 from a depth of 1400 feet to 1800 feet, and the drilling of well No. 2 to a similar depth. A carload of six-inch casing will be shipped to the property today.

Oil has already been encountered by the Crown Company, and drilling will be continued, since near neighbors, the Dixie and National and the White Star found an increased production at greater depth.

IS OF UNUSUAL GRAVITY.

Late reports from the Western Minerals well on Section 25, 11-22 on the Sunset flat towards San Emedio, and confirmed by Fred C. Ripley of the Santa Fe, who is President of the Western Minerals Company, indicated that they have made a very fine discovery of high gravity oil. Their well came in at a depth of 1630 feet and is now pumping between seventy-five and one hundred barrels a day of reining oil testing 31 Baume gravity. The superintendent estimates that when the well is thoroughly cleaned out and in first class condition, it will produce from 100 to 150 barrels per day.

Oil men generally are very enthusiastic over the success of the Santa Fe in the new field, and as a result land values for miles in each direction are rapidly rising. The Western Minerals Company now has a steady production of about 300 barrels per day from four wells that it is now pumping in this field on Sections 22, 23, and 26, 11, 22, and fully seven miles Southeast of the old Sunset field. The oil being of high gravity, will command a high price owing to the great demand for light burning oil. This oil is pronounced by

Oil men generally are very enthusiastic over the success of the Santa Fe in the new field, and as a result land leases for miles in each direction are steadily rising. The Western Minerals Company now has a steady production of about 300 barrels per day from four wells that it is now pumping in this field on Sections 22, 23, and 25, 11, 23, and only seven miles Southeast of the Midway field. The oil being of high gravity, will command a high price owing to the great demand for light refining oil. This oil is pronounced by experts to be the finest refining oil ever found in Kern County, and this fact alone makes the territory in that section exceedingly valuable.

Several choice pieces of patented land in the vicinity of this well have been recently acquired by prominent oil men of this city. M. H. Whittier and Burton E. Green, formerly with the Associated Oil Company, have been quietly buying up properties north and northeast of the Western Minerals' new well, and now control some of the finest land in the district. It is reported that they propose to commence development work on their properties in the near future. E. L. Doheny and L. A. McCray of the American Oil Fields, and C. H. Plummer, President of the Merchants & Manufacturers Association of this City, have all acquired valuable properties in the same territory.

WILL USE GATE VALVE.

CONTROL OF OIL WELL.

The Consolidated Midway Oil Company received a wire from the field yesterday stating that its new well on section 22 is acting precisely as its section 30 gusher did when it came in. It has not been baled out yet, but the pressure is tremendous. Much gas and oil is coming up, and at times the hissing is deafening. Every precaution is being taken to control it in the manner that the section 30 gusher was brought under control; that is, by putting heavy gate valves on the casing. When that is accomplished the well will be baled out, and will then without doubt produce a tremendous amount of oil.

The Consolidated Oil Company is already the largest producer in the Midway field. This new well, with two more about to come in on sections 23 and 15, will undoubtedly make the company one of the very large producers of the State.

MIDWAY FIVE'S WELL, MAY PROVE A GUSHER.

The Midway Five Oil Company, operating on section 5, 32-23, brought in a well Monday morning that is in the gusher class. Its depth was 2200 feet, starting with sixteen inch casing and finishing with eight-inch. The well was cased off and perforated as it went down, and is under perfect control.

President Henningsen, who is at the well, sent a wire to Secretary Dawson that the well had flowed over 2000 barrels of oil the first twenty-four hours. The oil is better than 23 gravity. The derrick is up for well No. 2 and well No. 3 will be ready to spud in before long. It is intended to use a gate valve the same as the Consolidated Midway.

MANY HOSPITAL CASES.

One Man Stabbed and a Number Slightly Hurt in Minor Accidents.

Several minor accidents were reported to the police yesterday. Only one of them was serious and the other patients, after being treated in the Receiving Hospital, were sent to their homes.

Anterino Puerta, 30 years old, a Mexican, was taken to the Receiving Hospital from Ivy Station, where he asserted, he was stabbed by another Mexican whom he did not know. Puerta was deeply cut on the chest and was later sent to the County Hospital. It is expected he will recover.

Victor Frampton, No. 1410 West Fourth street, was struck and bruised in the face while playing football at Third and Whitman streets. The boy, who is seventeen years old, is not seriously hurt.

While Charles Pressley, 19 years old, was working at No. 619 South Broadway yesterday morning, dressing a window, the awning fell and he was struck in the right eye. He was sent to his home, No. 564 North Hill street.

W. D. Livingston, a mattress maker, cut his hand on a piece of tin while workinb at Fourteenth street and Long Beach boueivard yesterday afternoon.

Z. B. Goodman, 27 years old, a carpenter, living at No. 1642 North Main street, caught his finger in a jack which he was using to raise a heavy timber while at work near his home. The wound, though deep, is not serious.

"SHAW," IN EARNEST.

Friday Morning Club Will Hear Dissertation Upon "Social Symptoms" of Playwright.

That George Bernard Shaw has an excuse for living has been suspected by many Los Angeles people for some time. To know that this suspicion is to be supported by an interesting argument from Dr. Stanton Coit will be a matter of interest to a great many people here who have enjoyed Mr. Shaw's own explanation of himself.

Dr. Coit will speak to the members and guests of the Friday Morning Club, on the 21st inst., on "Bernard Shaw as a Social Symptom," and he will endeavor to show just why Mr. Shaw appears at this particular time in the social development of Great Britain. Mr. Shaw has announced his own reason for being to the satisfaction of himself and to the interest of many others in a long line of plays which are certainly attractive and which may or may not be sound.

Dr. Coit's interpretation will take Shaw seriously, regardless of how Shaw takes himself. He is the sort of man who takes the whole world in deadly earnest, a fact he proved by taking a strong hand in the original organization of University Settlement work in New York, in 1886. Since that time he has written a great many books of interest to students of sociology in England and America. While here he will speak to more than one of the city's most exclusive clubs and most of the students of literature and the drama will have an opportunity of hearing him.

The women of Los Angeles have become so absorbed in the study of the modern drama that they have lost no opportunity of receiving instruction and entertainment through the means of lectures on the subject. In Dr. Coit they have recognized an opportunity for a pleasant side excursion in their pursuit.

Monrovia Takes Lead in Matter of Good Schools

Citizens Rejoice Over Unparalled Growth. Movement Acts as Magnet to Draw Others.

Business men and the better class of wage-earners begin to realize the greater comforts and advantages of living in a strictly residential suburb.

In California, as elsewhere, the discriminating class perceive that by living beyond the city it is possible to get a certain refinement in environment for the same price as a commonplace house on the outskirts.

After all, a home should be more than a mere place of residence. If it is located on a conventional city street, without view, without any individuality or character, it simply becomes a dwelling, not a home.

There are certain charms that brought most people to California, and Monrovia's rapid growth is due largely to the fact that it combines all the charms that have made Southern California famous.

It seems paradoxical that modern "city conveniences," can best be had outside the city.

Hundreds of business men have moved to Monrovia in order to enjoy such "city" comforts as gas, electricity and telephones. Parents with children to educate have moved there to get the benefit of Monrovia's splendid schools. New families who felt homesick amid the great population of Los Angeles have established homes in Monrovia, where they have been warmly received and soon enjoyed Monrovia's hospitality and good comradship.

Take a Monrovia flyer some day and you will hear Los Angeles business men talking this wise:

"I used to live in Los Angeles, but the city cars made so many stops, it took me so long to get home, I decided I might as well move to Monrovia, and let my family enjoy real Southern California life. It doesn't take much longer and the ride seems shorter because the cars are comfortable and make quick time."

It is going to be a tremendously big season at Monrovia. Improved car facilities will soon still further reduce running time. The Monrovia Board of Trade points out these facts for the guidance of homeseekers.

You can live in Monrovia for less expense. You can buy a home in Monrovia for less money. Don't wait till you have to pay somebody a big increase over present low prices. Now is the time to find what you want at a price that will assure good profit in case you want to sell.

FANNERS OF MURDER'S FLAME.

Showing itself an enemy to industrial freedom the Springfield Republican vents some cheap talk about bringing "the miscreants to face a relentless justice," but shows it doesn't wish to believe there are any miscreants, for it adds, "should it [The Times disaster] prove to be the deliberate work of human beings." We can tell the Republican that it was the deliberate work of so-called human beings, who receive encouragement from the sayings of newspapers like one or two published in this city and others scattered all over this broad land. The Republican is silly enough to say that "the fault may not have been with The Times, but there must have been fault somewhere in the attitude of Los Angeles employers." This is the kind of language which gives "miscreants" who cause "bloody disasters," to quote the Springfield paper's own words, the courage to carry out such dastardly enterprises. Had it not been for the support given to the unions in this city by a section of the press it is certain that the strikes here would have petered out some time ago. That portion of the press which allows itself to be ridden by the labor agitators must bear its share of the opprobrium which attaches alike to those who were directly responsible for the explosion and those who fanned the spirit of savagery until it burst into the flame of destruction.

THE RAINY RIVER TRAGEDY.

From the regions north and west of the grim and forbidding shores of Lake Superior come terrible tales of hundreds of lives lost in forest fires. Americans and Canadians are among the victims, for the flames performed their dreadful work on both sides of the border, Minnesota, Ontario and Manitoba contributing to the funeral pyre.

It is believed that the original blaze started in the Rainy River district of Ontario and if this is the case the authorities of that Canadian province must shoulder some share of the blame for they have frequently been appealed to by newspapers, on behalf of the public, to take better measures for the prevention of forest fires.

Earlier this year, when Idaho and other sections of the United States were visited by the same terrible scourge, the Toronto Globe, the leading newspaper of Canada, called upon the people to demand a more efficient system of forest-ranging and fire protection. It said the danger was urgent, that if neglected a similar experience might befall Canada. It was a true if unhappy prophet. The similar experience has befallen Ontario.

The advance which the Dominion has made in recent years has greatly added to the dangers from forest fires. The area of lumber operations has been extended; the demand for pulpwood has enlarged the fire zone; the energy of the prospectors has taken them to once remote districts and their camps and operatiops continually threaten the inflammable material about them. The railroads, too, pushing ever northward and westward, have added to the danger from sparks. The amateurs, whom we have always with us, namely the campers and sportsmen, have of late years sought fresh regions to conquer and have carried matches and carelessness along with them.

Manifold, then, has been the multiplication of danger, but the means of preventing fires has not kept pace with it. The Globe sent a correspondent into the very region where such great destruction has been wrought, so many lives sacrificed. He found conditions which call for instant remedy. Every year the province of Ontario sends out a small army of fire-rangers, at a cost of many thousands of dollars, for the purpose of protecting the standing timber in its north. In three months the correspondent saw only three men patrolling their beats. He noticed this even in the scorching weather of June and July in a section of the Canadian country where protection is most needed.

In view of these facts, and seeing how awful a calamity has overtaken Ontario, Manitoba and Minnesota, those responsible in the government at Toronto cannot escape criticism. Doubtless conditions are not much, if any, better, on our own side of the line. The fullest inquiry ought to be made and there should be no whitewashing.

"JUDGE-MADE LAW."

When lawyers are defeated in the Supreme Court by that tribunal taking cognizance of the maxim that "it is the letter of the law that killeth out the spirit that maketh alive," they sometimes elevate the tips of their proboscises, and sneer at the decision against them as "judge-made law."

It is not clear that "judge-made" law may not sometimes promote substantial justice more than statutes enacted by legislatures. There was a case decided by Judge Heydenfeldt at an early day, in which the rights of a drunken man were clearly and sensibly defined. The client, while inebriated, had stepped upon a rotten plank in the sidewalk, which gave way under him, and as a result, his leg was broken. He sued the city, and the answer of the municipality was that as the plaintiff was intoxicated at the time of the accident he was guilty of contributory negligence and therefore not entitled, in law, to recover. This plea proved unavailing with the court and jury, and he was accorded a judgment for damages. The city appealed from the judgment, but the Supreme Court approved it, saying "a drunken man has just as good a right to a perfect sidewalk as a sober man, and he needs one a good deal more."

The decision in the "Archie case," made at an early day by the Supreme Court of California, was not so much an instance of "judge-made law" as of judicial evasion of the consequences of a law. The decision was made at a period when the Democratic party controlled very avenue to public office in this State, and the chivalry rather than the shovelry controlled the Democratic party. A young gentleman from the South, who was either ignorant of the law or defiant of it, brought with him to California a mulatto man named Archie, who was his slave and body servant. After a while the slaveholder determined to return to his former home, and proposed to take the mulatto boy with him. Archie demurred and a writ of habeas corpus was sued out to determine his legal status. The court held that the young southerner, having voluntarily brought Archie into a free State, the fugitive slave law did not apply, and the mulatto was entitled to his freedom. But as the young man was sick and needed his servant the latter was remanded to the custody of his master. This decision was characterized at the time as an honorable and statesmanlike compromise, for it "gave the law to the North and the nigger to the South."

Another unique case of "judge-made law" was that of Peopue vs. Hall, reported in the 4th California. Hall was a white man who had been convicted of murder on the testimony of Chinamen. At that time there was no law such as was subsequently passed—and afterwards repealed—excluding Asiatics as witnesses in cases affecting white men, but Indians and negroes were under the law ineligible to testify in such cases. The Supreme Court held that all men are either black or white, that a Chinaman not being white was therefore black, and being black, was therefore a negro, and his testimony could not be received against a white man. It further held that when Columbus discovered America he was looking for a new passage to the Indies and supposed that he had discovered it, therefore he named the aborigines "Indians," by which name they have ever since been known. That the term "Indian" was generic and applied to all natives of Asia, and a Chinaman, being an Asiatic, was therefore an Indian, and, being an Indian, his testimony could not be received against a white man, and for the gross error committed by the trial judge in permitting a crowd of long queued Indians and unwooled thin-lipped, yellow-shaded negroes to testify against a noble Caucasian, the verdict must be set aside, and Mr. Hall permitted to again whoop it up, pistol in hand, among the leprous Asiatic horde.

It might be a good idea for the Legislature to ask the judges of the Supreme and Superior courts to suggest the phraseology of such amendments to the laws as would tend to the abolition of existing errors and irregularities and simplify and expedite the administration of justice. A combination of legislative wisdom with judge-made law would be the best ever.

THE COST OF "LIVING".

IN MEMORIAM.

Uncover Friend! And look upon that flag
Which, drooping, sadly calls to us,
"Honor the dead! Those true, brave hearts
Which beat with loyalty and love,
Now stilled by Murder's demon hand!"

What was their crime? Noble and true,
They simply did their duty without stint,
Or fear of coward's brutal threat
That would deny them daily bread
Unless they cringed as slaves!

In this bright world of ours, such poison hate
Could grow, by our neglect, to work such deadly wrong;
And then resolve, with purpose stern and grim,
That in this land of liberty, divine,

Thrilled by their faith, let ev'ry one of us
Remember those, in sorrow thus bereft, and let

ARIZONA'S FIX.

If it is possible for the Democratic members of the Arizona Constitutional Convention to queer the proposed new State, so that the Republican majority in Congress will be justified in refusing the admission to the Union, they will do it. Every Southern State readmitted to the Union was required, as a condition of admission, to adopt by ratification the new amendments to the United States Constitution, and ever after those amendments had, by receiving the requisite two-thirds majority, become a part of the Constitution, and no further ratification was needed, yet all the States which were subsequently admitted—Colorado, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Utah, North Dakota and South Dakota, adopted the Constitution of the United States in the preambles to their organic law, without discriminating against the war amendments.

It was reserved for the Democratic statesmen of Arizona to break this record, and to express their disapprobation of the amendments which abolished slavery, the amendment which repudiated Confederate indebtedness and the amendment which granted suffrage to black men. There are a good many Republicans who, forty years after the last amendment was adopted, are somewhat dubious as to whether its adoption was wise. But it is there to stay, and no good result can accrue to anybody by making such an ex post facto howl about it as that in which the Arizona Democrats are indulging.

The Thirteenth Amendment, which abolished slavery, would, if it were a new question, be unanimously adopted by the South today, although it seems to have fallen under the ban of the displeasure of the Arizona Democratic statesmen.

As for the Fourteenth Amendment, it was rendered inoperative by the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment, except as to the clause forbidding any State to assume or pay Confederate indebtedness. It is not apparent that the people of any Southern State are anxious to pick the worthless provincial obligations of their grandfathers out of the waste-paper baskets, and tax themselves to pay such of them as have escaped the purveyors for paper mills. But the gallant-souled prehistoric Democrats of the prehistoric politics of prehistoric Arizona are different. They are positively yearning to have this ancient Confederate indebtedness paid by the present inhabitants of the States once in rebellion, and, at the base Republican proposition to adopt the Fourteenth Constitutional Amendment, which prohibits such payment, their honest gorges arise in righteous anger and they smote the aforesaid Fourteenth Amendment in the face, and glowered at the Republicans in the convention who would not agree with them in placing another stumbling block in the pathway of Statehood.

ANOTHER LABOR TROUBLE.

France has now joined the countries where major strikes are in progress. The employees of the Northern Railroad have, in the usual union style, tied up the big road. The affair was but a few hours old before acts of violence occurred and military forces had to be posted along the route to protect the property of the company and the lives of men who took the places of some of the strikers.

Everywhere the union method is the same—violence. Dynamite, stones, guns, brass knuckles and clubs are the arguments of the unions, while all the time they insist in their newspapers that they "deprecate the use of force" and take "only peaceful measures to achieve their ends." In their case their actions do not merely speak louder than words, they explode.

It would almost appear as if there were a world-wide conspiracy among labor leaders to bring about industrial turmoil. Great Britain has a great labor war on its hands; all over the United States there are strikes, accompanied by violence; the struggle in Berlin between masters and workmen is still proceeding; and France is sharing the unhappy experience of its ancient opponent. Few greater enemies of mankind exist than the grafting labor leaders who deliberately stir up trouble for purposes of revenue. If they ceased their obnoxious activities there would be such peace in the world as would cause the working-men to wonder why they had allowed them so long to trouble the universe.

The fact that there were 1060 divorces granted in Los Angeles county during the year ending Oct. 1, is quoted all over the East to the discredit of the city. But the truth about the situation is that the causes for legal separation in more than half the cases originated and were perfected in the East.

It is understood that Minister Straus spent a few days as the guest of King Charles of Roumania and his Queen ("Carmen Sylva,") on condition that that the latter would not insist upon the American diplomat listening to one of her poems.

Texas is just now receiving a large immigration from the North, and that State will soon be in the Republican column. Progress and Republicanism go hand in hand.

Fred C. Thomson of Long Beach, the champion all-around athlete of the world, has abandoned the field of sport for the pulpit. But what will he do with a whole congregation of hammer-throwers?

The passengers making the sea trip between Los Angeles and the cities north of us will try to bear the proposed rate war with all of the fortitude that they can command.

It would seem that the Republicans of Ohio ought to be able to conduct their campaign to a successful issue without throwing any bouquets at George B. Cox.

Reports from Yosemite Falls are to the effect that they have been carried by the "wets."

"Kauffman, who may fight Johnson in a year or two, has"—now don't start that again!

BEWARE OF HIM!

A human ghoul, who gives the name of Walley and who pretends to be a newspaper man, is pestering the families of the victims of The Times disaster with lies about the husbands and fathers and about The Times. Several of the widows have registered complaints about his harrowing malice.

Great God! The shrieks of the dying victims and the moans of the bereaved families must ring in the ears of a small few of the unionite newspaper writers of Los Angeles who did all they could to promote the awful tragedy and are now apologizing for its perpetrators. They have even dared invade the sorrowing office of The Times with their grinning hypocrisies—and to flaunt their sneering, mocking, gloating faces in the sacred precincts of God's hallowed ground, where the dead rest.

What is in store for creatures like these? Some of them have wives and little ones. Do they never think of what might happen to their own? Are they entirely destitute of human feeling?

Times Never Run a Sweat Shop.

No event more deplorable and mournful has ever occurred in this country than the destruction by dynamite last Saturday morning of the printing establishment of the Los Angeles Times, carrying with it more than a score of human lives.

It is another of many recent indications that we are living in a perilous day and age of the world.

The Times has for years made a brave fight against the exactions of Union labor and at last a few desperate men have lifted their hands in vengeance most dire.

Let us have less inflammatory speaking on the part of the members of unions, and we shall have fewer acts of violence when the contests are at their hottest.

Let there be more of rightsoumess too in the demands of the unions and they will win more to their side. What really thoughtful man, for example, can sympathize with the union that recently called a strike in San Francisco because a contractor took tools and tried to show a bungling workman how a certain piece of work should be done. Or who can sympathize with the unions in their contention that the proprietors of a moving picture show in San Francisco shall not operate their own machines, but shall give way to union employees and do nothing themselves?

We believe that the time has come to speak out against the exactions and mistakes of the labor unions. Even if union labor has nothing whatever to do directly with this destruction of property and life in Los Angeles, it had an influence indirectly, and it is high time these organizations seriously examine themselves so as to see if more of the spirit of righteousness cannot characterize them in the future.

It may well be contended for a principle—that of the "open shop," and freedom of the individual.—[The Pacific, organ of the Congregationalists.]

Hang the Dynamiters.

It is in no sense unfair to organized labor to assume that the printing-trades unions or individual members of them in Los Angeles were directly responsible for the blowing-up of the Times building and plant with dynamite, the murder of nineteen of its employes and the serious injury of twenty-five more—because these unions and their allies have for years been threatening to destroy this non-union outfit and, if possible, the publication itself so as to weaken the forces that are fighting union policies and practices. A more dastardly crime can scarcely be conceived—the explosions planned for one o'clock in the morning, an hour when the entire working force of the establishment engaged in getting out the newspaper was known to be inside the buildings; so the intention must have been to commit murder as well as to destroy property; in other words, the deed was planned to kill men who have the courage to oppose labor unions and to work outside of them; another plain indication of the responsibility of the unions for this crime is the fact that for years General Harrison Gray Otis, proprietor of the Times, has been so sure that his establishment would be destroyed some day by the unions that he long ago provided a duplicate plant secretly located, in order not to be seriously crippled when the catastrophe came; but he had not calculated on murder as a part of the unions' plot. "There were about one hundred patrolmen on duty at the fire," says the chief of police, "and most of the detectives have found things that seem to us to point to the author of this calamity. The police will keep at it without rest until this whole matter is laid." It is "up" not only to Los Angeles but to the State of California as well to run down and punish these murderers. California is union-labor-ridden and ought to rid herself of the curse. A few hangings for union labor crimes will alone restore normal industrial conditions out there.—[New York Commercial.

He Needed Some of It.

William Knox, architect, revels in a Scotch story he picked up this summer, says The Oil City Blizzard, about a temperance lecturer who used for illustrations a glass of water, a glass of whiskey and a box of live worms. He would drop a worm into the water and show how it wriggled. Then dropping it into the whisky, he would exclaim: "There! One convulsive shudder and it is all over!"

"Haud on, there, maister. Are ye sure 'tis the liquor killed the puir worm?" a voice in the audience asked.

A FAIRY GIFT.

Insurance Company Will Pay a Times Martyr's Policy, Thought Lapsed Over Four Years.

Like the fairy gifts in the old time story book came to Mrs. John C. Gallihers yesterday the news that the life insurance of her martyred husband, one of those who perished in The Times disaster, will be paid even though it had lapsed for more than four years. The policy, taken out nine years ago with the Travelers' Life Insurance Company, was for $2000. At that time the Gallihers were residents of Montgomery, Ala. Five years later misfortune overtook them in the shape of an illness which attacked both simultaneously. Unable to meet more than the expenses of mere subsistence, the policy was allowed to lapse and payments were never resumed.

It appears, however, that the policy carried an automatic clause which served to prolong its life for five years after the lapsing of payments. On learning from newspaper accounts of Gallihers death the company at once notified its local representative to take the matter up.

The latter called upon Mrs. Gallihers as she lay sick in her little home at No. 1043½ South Olive street and, after establishing her identity as the beneficiary, informed her that the amount would be paid at once. Since the time of the terrible catastrophe, Mrs. Gallihers has been confined to her bed as the result of the shock of her husband's death and the knowledge that she and her little ones had been left destitute. She had, she said, forgotten all about the lapsed insurance, thinking that it had become void upon the cessation of payments, and her joy at the good news was at once gratifying and pathetic to see.

A LAWYER'S NERVE.

Doctor Says He Must Die, and He Arranges Affairs and Says Good-Bye.

A dispatch from Sunbury, Pa., tells how Attorney Walter Simpson of that place looked death in the face and smiled. It says:

"The doctor's verdict is that he can not live more than a few hours. With this in view he arranged his affairs, went to the cemetery and pointed out the part of the family lot in which he wished to be buried. Then he went to court to say good-bye to his judge and lawyer friends.

"Attorney Shipman is sitting in his home, surrounded by relatives. He is cheerful, while they are grieving. Knowing that death may come at any time, he still speaks words of cheer.

"Attorney Shipman, who has been urged by the Democrats to run for the judgeship of Northumberland county next year, was yesterday unconscious in the Miners' hospital, from abscess of the liver.

"On regaining consciousness he was told the doctor's verdict. Stimulants enabled him to regain strength enough to be brought to his home here last night.

"Early today he began to arrange his business affairs. Family matters were adjusted and then with relatives the trip to the cemetery was made. At the family lot Attorney Shipman pointed out the spot where he wished to be buried and made other cemetery arrangements.

"Back over the roads which his funeral procession will cover went Attorney Shipman and the party of friends. Another business session at the home followed.

"After this Attorney Shipman went to the court house and entering the room No. 2 told Judge Auten of the doctors' decree and said good-bye. After bidding all the court officials in that room farewell, Attorney Shipman went to courtroom No. 1, where Judge Savidge was presiding. Here court was suspended while he followed out the same programme as before, and then amid the silence of the entire assemblage he slowly walked out."

In discussing the law's delay in criminal cases in California, referred to by Associate Justice Sloss of the State Supreme Court, the judicial courtesy between courts and high priced attorneys that the accused or his friends are able to retain, must be taken into account. There is many a scurvy trick pulled off by attorneys whose position at the bar sometimes blinds the court.

DO YOU NEED GLASSES?

It is just as important to know when to go to have eyeglasses fitted as when to go. It is equally important that the one with whom you are dealing is strictly honest and whose advice may be relied upon. One might better do without wearing glasses at all, no matter how weak the eyes, than to have the wrong kind.

The new Invisible Bifocal Lenses are the right kind for those who either must have two pairs of glasses or who are wearing bifocals. They supply every need of the eyes as they can be made in any combination possible to meet the requirements of different eyes. In appearance they are single focus lenses, as there is no visible line between the two lenses. They are the acme of perfection as regards workmanship, appearance and construction. I will make you a special price on these lenses that will surprise you when you know their true value.

YOUR FIRST NAME

Its Origin and the Famous Folk Who Have Borne It.

ANDREW.

The Name That Means "Man" and the Manly Men Who Have Made It Famous—"Old Andrew Turncoat," and How He Tried to Please His Sovereign—The Lawyer Who Became a Monk Because He Told a Lie—Rulers of the Name in Hungary and the United States—Four Famous Italian Artists Who Bore the Name Andrew.

BY FRANCES MARSHALL.

The first name Andrew can boast among its noteworthy bearers three kings, two presidents, one of the twelve apostles, four great Italian artists and a big group of reformers, writers, inventors, generals and revolutionists, to say nothing of the world's steel king. Yet there has never been a famous woman bearer of the name, and the country in which the name is most popular—Scotland, where Andys, Dandies and Andrews abound—has not even a feminine form of the name. France has Andree, and Italy Andreana, but although these names are not unusual in their respective homes, they have never been raised to fame.

Perhaps the meaning of the name has something to do with this lack of feminine bearers, for it comes from the Greek word meaning a man.

It was the Apostle Andrew, a fisherman of Galilee, who first made the name popular. There were traditions that by order of the Roman Governor he was bound to an X-shaped cross and thus crucified. In the fourth century some of his supposed relics were carried to Scotland, and Andrew was made patron saint of Scotland, his cross became the national emblem and his name became a favorite.

Besides the apostle saint who worked so valiantly to establish his religion, there were other famous churchmen of the name. One of them was Andrew of Crete, who was born at Damascus about the year 660. He was made archbishop of Crete, and was noted as a writer of religious poetry. He was interested in church music, too, and is called the inventor of the musical canon. Another early churchman of the name was Andrew of Wyntoun, the fourteenth century Scotch chronicler who was a canon regular of the priory of St. Andrew's and prior of St. Serf's.

In the sixteenth century there lived three other famous Andrews of the church—Andrew Perne, Andrew Avellino and Andrew Melville.

Andrew Perne, born in 1519, was dean of Ely and vice-chancellor of Cambridge. He was chiefly noted for his ease to suit his religious convictions to those of his sovereign; and as he lived in the reigns of the Protestant King Edward VI, the Catholic Queen Mary Tudor and the Protestant Queen Elizabeth, the poor dean of Ely led a somewhat changeable life. He was called "Old Andrew Turncoat," and "Father Palinode;" and a coat of arms had been turned was generally said to have been "perned." But for all his fickleness he was a man of fine character, it is said, and did real service to his country.

St. Andrew Avellino was born in Sicily in 1521, and was lawyer by profession. One day, while pleading the cause of a friend, he let a lie escape him in the course of an argument. He troubled Andrew, and a few days later, when he read in the Book of Wisdom the verses which say that the mouth that belieth, killeth the soul, he decided to abandon not only his profession, but the world. He became a monk, and spent his life in reforming the monastic system and making converts.

Andrew Melville, a Scottish reformer and scholar, was born in 1544. He was an active leader in the reformation and worked hard in the formation of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland. He was repeatedly imprisoned during the course of his struggles against the influence of the king in matters of church, and in 1607 was imprisoned in the Tower of London because he ridiculed a service in the Chapel Royal at Greenwich. He was released and until his death four years later taught theology at Sedan.

Among rulers of the name Andrew Jackson, Democrat, seventh president, who inaugurated the spoils system, and Andrew Johnson, seventeenth president, Republican, who was impeached, are the two other rulers of the name. Both of them were poor, were born in the south, Jackson being born in 1767, the son of a farm laborer of Scotch-Irish birth. Johnson's father died in 1812 when the boy was but four, and as soon as he could walk he was apprenticed to a tailor. One of them gained a fairly good education, but Jackson, although he liked better than books, managed to get admittance to the bar at the age of twenty-one. Johnson used to sit up nights to teach himself to read.

Both had their representatives among the famous Andrews of art, Andrew Pickens, born in 1739, a daring soldier in the Revolutionary war in America; Andreas Hofer, born in 1767, who led an insurrection in the Tyrol in 1809, and the next year was put to death; Andrew Foote, born in 1806, an Admiral, who died in 1863, who had commanded the naval forces at Fort Donelson, and Andrew Atgen Smith, a civil war general, are among the brave soldiers of the name. Andrew H. Reeder, born in 1807, the first governor of the territory of Kansas, was one of the first generals appointed by Lincoln, but he thought himself too old to accept the position.

Many Italians have represented the name among artists. The first of these is Andrea Pisano, born in 1270. He was an architect and sculptor, the founder of a family of artists of note. His best work was the wonderful doors of the baptistry of the cathedral of Pisa, and these doors were made with the second of the name, Andreas; for Andrew is usually called Orcagna, was a Florentine who came to Pisano and was working on the bronze doors. Andrea della Robbia, born in 1399, was a painter of fairy stories; Andrea del Sarto, born in 1532, Andrea della Robbia, born in 1437, was a sculptor, and Andrew Carnegie, philanthropist, first President of the United States, and Andrew Carnegie, philanthropist, library donor and founder of other Andrews who have been famous in the arts of peace.

YOUR FIRST NAME

Its Origin and the Famous Folk Who Have Borne It.

ANDREW.

The Name That Means "Man" and the Manly Men Who Have Made It Famous—"Old Andrew Tarvelt," and How He Tried to Please His Sovereign—The Lawyer Who Became a Monk Because He Told a Lie—Rulers of the Name in Hungary and the United States—Four Famous Italian Artists Who Bore the Name Andrew.

BY FRANCES MARSHALL.

The first name Andrew can boast among its noteworthy bearers three kings, two presidents, one of the twelve apostles, four great Italian artists and a big group of reformers, writers, inventors, generals and revolutionists, to say nothing of the world's steel king. Yet there has never been a famous woman bearer of the name, and the country in which the name is most popular—Scotland, where Andys, Dandies and Andrews abound—has not even a feminine form of the name. Andrew Perne, born in 1519, was dean of Ely and vice-chancellor of Cambridge. He was chiefly noted for his ability to suit his religious convictions to those of his sovereign; and as he lived in the reigns of the Protestant King Edward VI, the Catholic Queen Mary Tudor and the Protestant Queen Elizabeth, the poor dean of Ely led a constantly changeable life. But for all his fickleness he was a man of fine scholarship it is said, and did real service for the country.

Andrew Avellino was born in Sicily in 1521, and was lawyer by profession. One day, while pleading the cause of a friend, he let a lie escape him in the course of an argument. It troubled Andrew, and a few days later, when he read in the Book of Psalms the verses which say that the mouth that belieth, killeth the soul, he decided to abandon not only the profession, but the world. He became a monk, and spent his life in reforming the monastic system and making it more strict.

Andrew Melville, a Scottish reformer and scholar, was born in 1544. He was a leader in the reformation and took a hand in the formation of the Presbyterian Church in Scotland. He was repeatedly imprisoned during the course of his struggles against the interference of the king in matters of religion, and in 1607 was imprisoned in the Tower of London because he ridiculed the service in the Chapel Royal at Whitehall. He was released and until his death four years later taught theology at Sedan.

Other rulers of the name Andrew have been representatives only in Hungary and the United States. The first Andrew I., became king in Hungary in 1046. Although he was a friend of St. Stephen, the apostle of Christianity in Hungary, Andrew opposed his spread. He fought, too, against the Germans, and against his brother Bela, and was finally killed by his own countrymen, who had turned themselves with his Polish subjects.

Andrew II ascendedd the throne in 1205 after a civil war with his nephew, and found that he deserves a special mention because of his inefficiency. He was under the influence of his wife Gertrude, and of the powerful nobility and clergy of the land. In the year he granted the famous Golden Bull of Hungary, which confirmed the privileges and rights of the bishops and nobility, and made his reign unsettled, but which they proudly referred to as the palladium of their constitution.

Andrew III, a grandson of Andrew II, was in Venice while his father was murdered, and came to the throne in 1290. His reign was short, for although he tried to encourage trade and commerce, he had to struggle against three claimants, and had not much time for anything else. He died in 1301, from poison, it is said, administered by his Italian wife.

Andrew Jackson, Democrat, seventh president, who inaugurated the spoils system, and Andrew Johnson, seventeenth president, Republican, who was impeached, are the two other rulers of the name. Both of them were poor, and were born in the south. Jackson was born in 1767, the son of a farmer of Scotch-Irish birth. Johnson was born in 1812 when the boy's father died, and as soon as he could work was apprenticed to a tailor. While one of them gained a fairly good education, although he liked fishing better than books, managed to get to the bar at the age of twenty. Johnson used to sit up nights to teach himself to read.

Both of peace and the arts of war had their representatives among the famous Andrews of history. Andrew Pickens, born in 1739, was a soldier in the Revolutionary war in America; Andreas Hofer, a Tyrolese, who led an insurrection in Austria in 1809, and the next year was put to death; Andrew Foote, a rear admiral, who died in 1863, commanded the naval forces on the Tennessee, and Andrew Jackson Donelson, and Andrew Johnson, a civil war general, are among the soldiers of the name. Andrew Hamilton, born in 1707, the founder of the territory of Kansas, was one of the first generals appointed by Lincoln, but he thought it best not to accept the position.

Italians have represented the name in the arts. The first of these was Andrea Pisano, born in 1270. He was an architect and sculptor, and a member of a family of artists of note. His best work was the wonderful bronze doors of the baptistry of the cathedral of Pisa, and these doors are said to rival in beauty those of the second of the Andreas; for Andrea Pisano had a pupil called Orcagna, who was a painter who came to Pisano after working on the bronze doors in 1308, was a painter as well as sculptor and architect, and even surpassed his master in the beauty of his work. His greatest achievement is perhaps the tabernacle at Or St. Michele, which is called the masterpiece of Gothic architecture in Italy. The other two artists of the name were born in the next century—Andrea della Robbia in 1437, Andrea del Sarto in 1486. Della Robbia inherited from his uncle Lucca the secret of his work in terra cotta. Perhaps his best known work are the medallions set in the facade of the Hospital of the Innocents at Florence. Each of these medallions shows the figure of an Italian baby, dressed bambino fashion, in swaddling clothes, with arms outstretched in welcome and pity. The terra cotta is colored blue and white. Andrea del Sarto's real name was Andrea di Francesco, but because his father was a tailor he was called Sarto. His specialty was frescoes, and one of them, the "Nativity of the Virgin," is said to be the best fresco ever painted.

Andrew Ampere, famous for his inventions in electricity, is another Andrew who developed the arts of peace. He was born in France in 1775. When he was eighteen the French Revolution came about and his father was guillotined. So depressed was the young Andrew because of this that he sought to study as a solace to his grief. He became especially interested in the study of nature and the Latin poets. Later he became a tutor, teacher and professor. His interest in electricity led to the investigations of great value to science; and the unit of the strength of an electrical current is called an ampere.

Andrew Lang, born in 1844, Scotchman, writer of poems and charming fairy stories; Andrew Dickson White, born in 1832, American educator, historian, politician, a founder and the first President of Cornell University, and Andrew Carnegie, steel king, library donor and worker for peace, are other Andrews who have pursued the arts of peace.

Unusual Values in Silk Hosiery

We are selling more silk hosiery this season than we have in years; due to two facts---that we are carrying larger assortments than ever, and that we have out-of-the-usual values at every price. For example:

Black Pure Thread Silk Hosiery
Stockings that compare favorably with the qualities for which other good stores ask $2.00—all silk, or silk with lisle top and sole, we sell at.....$1.50
Heavier quality top and sole, black only, at.....$1.75

Kayser Italian Silk Hosiery
This well-known silk hosiery is preferred by many women to the ordinary sort, because the threads do not "run", being woven in a different manner in black and colors.....$1.50

Broken Lines
Of black and colored hosiery, with self-embroidered designs; not all sizes; regular $2.50 quality at.....$2.00

Japanese Drawn Work.... $1.25
Pure linen Japanese drawnwork, shown in a variety of patterns—centerpieces and scarfs of various sizes; bought so that we can sell the regular $1.75 qualities at $1.25; and the better $2.50 ones at $1.75.

Leather Bags at..... $1.25
Straight from their makers—these extra good all-leather bags that we propose to sell for so little:
In black, brown, tan, green and blue; well lined, carefully finished; made in newest shapes, and fully equal to many that sell for two dollars apiece. If you want an inexpensive bag, see these at.....$1.25

Why Not Buy Toys Now?

Reason number one is that now there isn't the crush and confusion that's inevitable later on.

Splendidly Ready With
Electrical trains that run over tracks with signals, semaphores, switches, etc., steam stationary engines; all sorts of mechanical toys; carpenters' chests, wheelbarrows, California coasters; air-rifles, airships, racing automobiles, trolley cars, etc.
And for girls there are dolls galore, doll furniture, kitchen cabinets, hand sewing machines, doll perambulators, doll trunks, ranges that cook—dozen and dozens of things dear to little folks' hearts.

MY TOUR AROUND THE WORLD.

BY SYDNEY FORD.

NO. XXX.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—There's just one New York! Not a duplicate anywhere in the wide world. Nowhere conductors, such pert policemen, such else do we find such saucy street-car calloused cab drivers; such swift taxicabs, such handy hotels, such delightful shops as right here in dear, dirty little old New York, its streets forever torn up and dynamite flags waving their red warning to passing pedestrians. As our ship passed under the shadow of the Statue of Liberty a mighty cheer went from passengers and crew.

"How's that for a sky-scraper?" observed a New York hotel man as he pointed with pride to the new thirty-five or forty story block now nearing completion on the tongue of land that projects from The Battery. "It knocks the Singer Building into splinters, doesn't it?"

The London man gazed in awe upon the huge structure.

"So that's what you call a sky-scraper, eh?" he commented as he elevated his monocle. "Looks like a huge honeycomb set up on end"—and that reminded me of a remark made by our London guide as he called our attention one day to a six-story apartment building along the Thames Embankment.

"That," he said impressively, "ladies and gentlemen, is the only sky-scraper apartment house in London. It was put up by a man who had visited America and had seen some of your tall buildings over there. As soon as the Lord Mayor discovered what this ambitious Englishman was about, he promptly took measures to suppress sky-scrapers, and a law was passed forbidding their erection. The English people are careful and conservative and we do not take kindly to these venturesome American ideas, don't you know," with a disapproving look at the "sky-scraper" alluded to.

New York will never be finished. She is always instituting repairs of one sort or another; tearing down buildings to put up bigger ones, boring tunnels and tubes everywhere, you may ride under the East River or over it and you may ride under New York by the subway or over it by the elevated, or through it by surface car.

Climate Curiosities.

There's no climate in the heavens above, or the earth beneath, or the waters under the earth like that of New York. No such "heavy, hot, sticky, head-muddling, heart-depressing, back-breaking weather," as a local newspaper says with charming candor, as that of September when the mosquito returns to town along with travelers from abroad, from seashore and mountain resorts. An occasional thunderstorm clears up the reeking humidity, but soon it settles down again, wilting, withering, blithering, soaking, suffocating heat and stodginess. The lungs used to the fine air of the hills or the strong, sweet savor of winds blown over the sea, gasp and choke in the snuffling, sloppy, soaking breath of life that usually ends the summer in New York.

"Why should you order change of climate, doctoor," a fashionable invalid is quoted as saying to her family physician, "I live in New York."

Sure enough! It's all change. You start down town on a bright September morning. You recollect that the calendar calls this season the fall of the year. The early morning air feels fresh and you dress accordingly. Before you have gone half a dozen blocks you wonder why you were a jacket and what on earth made you discard that thin waist. You shed the jacket and sweater on. You see dead horses lying in Union Square where they have fallen in their tracks overcome by the heat. Presently the rumble of thunder reminds you unpleasantly of the umbrella you left behind and within ten minutes you are in the midst of a rip-roaring thunderstorm which later dissolves into a fog, which presently rolls away and leaves a November atmosphere. You shiver into your coat and return to your hotel to ask for steam heat.

That's a sample of New York's fall and spring climate—and yet people exist here and call it living.

Just now they are struggling with the problem of the equinoctial storm and so sober a newspaper as the New York Sun pauses long enough in the midst of the most exciting State politics that the Empire State has indulged in for lo, these many years to remark editorially: "Even the weightiest politics are brushed aside as the whole country waits for the equinoctial. The coast has been cringing for a week or more past, in anticipatioon of the storm lash. Captains have been keeping the weather eye in a sustained state of peledness. Citizens have been overhauling the overshoe and the raincoat. For the equinoctial is due. Summer hotels have been emptying and closing to get ahead of the great annual upheaval of weather. We know that in most years there comes a good snorting storm about this date, though persons do go about proclaiming that the equinoctial does not exist, but for the purposes of the man hanging an awning, or napping on the porch in the afternoon, the sun do move, and for all intents of the umbrella carrier, there is an equinoctial. That is enough for the man who is thinking which hat to wear and the woman whether to leave the wash on the line over night.

Miracle of Miracles.

New York has just made the greatest discovery in her history. It eclipses the wonders of the Brooklyn Bridge, the subway or the recently completed tube railway under the East River. A man in the Bronx—Robert C. Winters—and his name ought to be prnted in capitals—has just astonished the municipality and the world at large by refusing to stay on the city payroll because he believes he is not needed. He has been drawing an annual salary of $4000 as Assistant Superintedant of Buildings and the other day he paralyzed both city officials and tax payers by throwing up his job voluntarily on the flimsy excuse that he "believed the administration could get along without him perfectly well."

Did you ever hear the like of that? And right in the midst of this high cost of living too! The man ought to be canonized and a monument erected to his memory right alongside of the obelisk in Central Park.

The municipal housekeeping of New York is a pretty expensive proposition, but she has a family of 700,000 school children this fall—twice as many as the entire population of Los Angeles. It cost $163,000,000 to run the city last year and the Board of Estimate asks for a budget of $200,000,000 for the coming year.

These Were Honest.

Another cause for encouragement in the interests of decent honesty is the fact that Collector Loeb's eagle-eyed watchers gathered in $33,000 duty from European arrivals on a single White Star liner the other day. And this notwithstanding that one young woman forgot to mention a $30,000 pearl necklace which she had thoughtlessly hung about her neck inside her bodice before lahding. The searching inspectress help her find it and she's now struggling with the courts about it.

His Purple Pants.

Talk about the "hobble skirt!" About the noisiest, most freakish human fashion plate that has appeared on this side the water this season passed down the gang plank of this same steamer when C. Poynter Redfern of the distinguished firm of London clothiers, clad in coat and trousers of delicate violet hue, a rose pink shirt and purple tie, made his annual advent into New York to set the pace of masculine fashions. He was accompanied by the president of the house of Redfern who, incidentally was formerly Lord Mayor of London—Sir William Treloar.

As this sartorial dream—this vision in pink and purple splendor passed down the pier he paused long enough to impart to a crowd of breathless reporters the news that the hobble skirt for women is doomed, and the long-waisted Louis Quinze fashion is about to return.

Having delivered himself of this opinion, the purple-panted, violet-coated Redfern representative stepped daintily into a taxicab and was whirled away up town.

Fall Fashions.

Fall styles are out in Paris at last and the tight skirt is no more. Gradually, but surely our petticoats are gathering fullness. We've gained a yard, and our trotting space now measures two yards and a half, and the woman who wants to step more than seven feet at a leap is not a lady—she is an acrobat.

However, we are admonished that we must preserve the straight, up-and-down effect at all hazards. This is best conserved perhaps by the introduction of sly little pleats in the side of your skirt, which lie demure and slinking as you stand, but flop out comfortably when you walk affording stepping space.

Notwithstanding the word of the Redfern as above quoted, Paris reports that the belt line has moved up and is still rising. Sleeves are a fraction tighter and collars have disappeared entirely. Buttons are used by the gross and satin and mousseline are the favorite fabrics.

CITY MUSIC.

"FIFTY THOUSAND OR NOTHING," AND IT'S NOTHING.

Los Angeles Prestige Increased by Last Season's Music in the Parks Under Harley Hamilton's Direction—Civic Committee Would Accept No Compromise.

Last year the town supported a municipal band, under the leadership of symphony director Harley Hamilton, at about one-fifth this allowance. Regular park concerts were given and although the band did not play as well as it might have done had more means been at the leader's disposal to facilitate rehearsals, a great deal of public enjoyment resulted therefrom, and most of the programmes were of good arrangement and exceptionally high character, correctly and scholastically interpreted by Mr. Hamilton.

The fame of the municipal band here went far; it did a great deal to advance the artistic status of the community, and opened the eyes of some who have long been spiritually blind to the musical resources of this part of the country.

Now that there is no municipal band, and no prospect of any, the prestige of the city—as an artistic city—is set back just that much.

Messrs. Geisler and Salyer are the executives of the music committee. Some people feel that had the committee been content to accept a less amount all would have been serene, and a band of considerable proportions might have been heard for a limited number of concerts, at least.

L. E. Behymer, who has just returned from the East, has been making an exhaustive study of civic music, and feels that Los Angeles cannot afford to be unrepresented in the forward movement which is going on all along the line of the arts.

"Boston," says he, "paid $55,000 this year for the care of its play-grounds, park music, and music teaching in the public schools.

"New York opened up the wharves of the great steamship companies, proffered good music under strictly municipal auspices, and allowed the city's poor to romp and play, sing folk-songs and dance on these great out-door commercial platforms.

"Baltimore and Buffalo, Detroit and Atlanta, are doing nearly as well.

"We cannot expect in two seasons to reach the class enjoyed by cities which have been at municipal art for many years, but I do feel that we need music in our parks; good music, given under the direction of a competent committee.

"New York employs no less person than Arthur Farwell, at the head of the American Music Society, and pays him $400 a month to act as a censor of programmes and see that the slums are given as painstaking consideration as the more airy precincts of Fifth avenue.

"We need a municipal band, out of politics, out of pulls, with a director unhampered and a park board willing to open up its grounds to the public, and see that those who love music for its own sake are not disturbed by the mouthings and meanderings of the agitators and the toughs."

I am the only specialist in Los Angeles who is sole owner of his office and equipment, who does not advertise a fictitious name and photograph.

I publish my true photograph, correct address, personally or refuse to see you. I am the largest established, most successful and reliable, as medical credentials and press records prove. I make this statement so that you will know you consult a celebrated Specialist, who sees and treats patients personally, not a pretended skilful and experienced surgeon in each city that he advertises in, and should not be classed with medical concerns, that advertise to the trade and use cards which judge must may be valued, and it is unwise and expensive to embrace the statements of such companies. It is impossible for a medical company to attend college. Companies have no diploma or license to practice medicine in Oklahoma or other States. Medical companies usually are named after a doctor. A portrait, whose personality and identity are indefinite is selected and published as the legitimate specialist of the office. Hired embalmers, ordinary doctors with questionable ability, give consultation, examination and treatment.

A thorough investigation should be made by every afflicted man as to the responsibility, reliability and ability to cure and those who depend upon you demand the best treatment that can be had. The skilful and I can give you this service. I have always charged a very reasonable fee, so that my services may be obtained by all. If you are sincerely desirous to be cured, I make no misleading statements or substantiate impossibilities; neither do I desire to be particularly independent, and I would like to have you for a patient, if you will come to my office. I will give you a strictly professional opinion, and if I can cure you (and that I offer, which are my ability and thirty years' successful experience, Time-Saving Treatment) and Guarantee of cure of certain Diseases cured to stay cured.

NO MONEY REQUIRED TO COMMENCE TREATMENT. Many patients have no confidence in their doctor, because he demands pay before a cure has been effected, and there are many who have been misinformed about their condition, as through unsuccessful treatment have become skeptical and think there is no cure for them. I want an opportunity to prove what I can do, it makes no difference about the financial part, as I accept pay for my services at such time as desired. Or, if I am satisfied the patient is reliable. Health is capital at interest. I will prove my ability to cure you before asking pay for my professional services. Established 1899.

VARICOCELE—HYDROCELE
Impair vitality. I daily demonstrate Varicocele and Hydrocele can be cured in nearly all cases, by one treatment, in a satisfactory way that the vital powers are preserved and strengthened, and the swelling subsides, a healthy circulation rapidly re-established, instead of the distressing conditions. I guarantee you will be to stay cured or refund the money.

HERNIA (RUPTURE)
Disregard of existing hernia has cost lives. The smallest hernia is the most dangerous to life because of the constant liability to strangulation. I cure reducible cases with perfect safety. You will suffer no suffering, and do not lose time from occupation, under guarantee. Cases cured to stay cured in one sitting.

PILES AND FISTULA
By Oklahoma and other State Medical Companies usually are named after a doctor. A portrait, whose personality and identity are indefinite is selected and published as the legitimate specialist of the office. Hired embalmers, ordinary doctors with questionable ability, give consultation, examination and treatment.

The occasion of these advertisements is treating nervous release and sexual weakness. My treatment and cures are the result of years of experience. I cure you without cutting. I cure you without pain or detention from occupation. I give written guarantee to cure piles and fistula.

KIDNEY, BLADDER AND RECTAL DISEASES
With these diseases you may have complications that are not suspected by other diseased organs. By my system of illumination of the bladder I determine accurately the disease and I make a careful examination and urinalysis to determine the condition of the kidneys, bladder and rectum, and establish a correct foundation for scientific treatment.

NERVOUS DEBILITY
Curable, where the mental forces are impaired. Spinal, where the spinal nerves involved. Vital, where the vital forces of the nervous system and forces that govern the sexual organs are deranged by reflex action of disease. I treat these conditions successfully. Weakness induced by over-indulgence and excesses and put you on the right road to health, restoring the confidence and hope to your future life and happiness.

SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON
Scientific treatment only directed to the combating this loathsome disease. Specific Blood Poison by Mucous Patches introduces it into the blood, which permeates it into the blood, which permeates the entire system, neutralizing and eliminating from the system. New blood supplies and rebuilds the tissues to their normal state. I guarantee that the patient recovers his health, strength and vigor.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE—In every case I accept, I give a written guarantee to cure any stage of the disease or refund every dollar you have paid me for my services. I charge you nothing unless I cure you. Private diseases, except in the petty department of forgery is an offense that is unknown to them. The laws are supposed to be a nation enacted to give wrongs to feeling. Mr. Steele found that the attitude of the whole public there was absolutely a notable crime and that London was, for the time, excited about the Crippen murder and that the English people, generally, who were interested in it, than people of New York or Los Angeles.

Abroad Steele visited the scene of his birth at Nettingham, and found a sister and a nephew emigrated to New Orleans in 1869. Steele emigrated to New Orleans in 1859. He has been a resident of Los Angeles about thirty years, having been absent most of that time. His wife's maiden name was Jaddie in Durham county, England, and they spent some time on a farm.

SAFER.

TRANSIENT CASH IS A DANGER.

BANKS SHOULD STUDY UP ON THEIR DEPOSITORS.

National Bank Examiner Gives a Warning Regarding New Methods in Finance and Asserts Institutions Ought to Know About Probability of Money on Deposit Being Withdrawn.

That advanced methods of doing business have made it necessary for banks to make a more careful study of the persons from whom they receive deposits than they do of those to whom they give credit, is the opinion of Joseph W. Norvell, a national bank examiner with headquarters at El Paso, who, with his wife, is a guest at Hotel Hayward.

The examiner declares that banks are in more danger of being wrecked by having improper depositors than by the insolvent creditors who are likely to procure loans in an institution which is run on ordinary business principles.

To illustrate this point, in speaking of the subject yesterday, he mentioned a bank which was formerly in his territory, which included New Mexico, Arizona and the Panhandle of Texas. This institution was in the heart of a copper mining district and was apparently in a flourishing condition.

At the opening of one month it had $98,000 deposits. Before the end of the third week $560,000 had been drawn out and the bank had closed its doors.

The wreck was due to the fact that the officers had failed to pay enough attention to the character of its depositors. The majority of them were miners, each having from $50 to $200 on deposit. The mines shut down and they found it necessary to migrate to fields of activity. They had to have their savings to use in moving and the failure of the bank was the result of their run on it.

Norvell declares that the bankers should not only ascertain a prospective depositor's business or occupation, but should look into the condition of it and from the first should determine whether he would be merely a transient.

"I was amused at a friend of mine who went to Chicago with a $1000 roll and the intention of remaining there for four weeks," he said. "He discovered to deposit the draft with the intention of checking against it to meet his expenses. They are studying their depositors in Chicago. He could not find a bank which would allow him to deposit the draft. Anyone of them was willing to give him the cash.

"One reason was that there is no profit in taking such short term deposits. It costs money to keep books. Another is that a bank likes to loan out of the money it safely can. With the list of transient depositors it is difficult to determine where the safety line is."

Mr. and Mrs. Norvell will leave soon for a northern trip and will then return to their home in Texas.

BACK FROM ENGLAND.

Los Angeles Detective Interested in Crippen Case While Abroad—Finds Relatives.

Since the excitement over the murder of Dr. Crippen's wife was at its height in London, one of the former Los Angeles police officers of Los Angeles is studying the sensational crime from the English viewpoint. He is H. H. Steele, who was retired from the detective force of this city, on May 6, 1900, after a straight service of twenty years on his last appointment.

Mr. Steele and his wife have just returned from a year spent in Europe. It was while on this visit to the land of their birth that Mr. Steele had an opportunity to study the Englishman's temperament in the face of a crime which seemed to interest everybody abroad.

Mr. Steele asserts that the English people are accustomed to murders and other forms of crime. They have little respect, except in the petty degree, for forgery is an offense that is practically unknown to them. The English are supposed to be a nation inclined to give way to feeling. Mr. Steele found that the attitude of the whole public there was absolutely a notable crime and that London was, for the time, excited about the Crippen murder and that the English people, generally, who were interested in it, than people of New York or Los Angeles.

Abroad Steele visited the scene of his birth at Nettingham, and found a sister and a nephew emigrated to New Orleans in 1869. Steele emigrated to New Orleans in 1859. He has been a resident of Los Angeles about thirty years, having been absent most of that time. His wife's maiden name was Jaddie in Durham county, England, and they spent some time on a farm.

In his report Patrolman Burney says that when the woman saw him entering her house she ran into the kitchen, secured a large knife which she secreted in his face. The officer grabbed her arm and wrested the knife from her hand. Then he told her to get so that she could be taken to the Police Station. She refused and wrapped them about her head in the automobile patrol.

PONTIFICAL MASS.

Society Commemorates Discovery of America Before Large Congregations in Cathedral.

Several hundred persons were present at their attendance at the pontifical mass at the Cathedral, yesterday morning, celebrated by Bishop Conaty in commemoration of the discovery of America by Columbus. Discovery has always been observed by Roman Catholics and especially by the Knights of Columbus since that order was organized.

Father C. C. Condon, pastor of the Holy Rosary Church at Catalina, preached the sermon and there was special music for the occasion. This was Father Conaty's first appearance in Catalina for two months, and the unusually large attendance was largely due to him.

Upon reaching the station Patrolman Burney found that when the woman saw him coming for her house she ran into the kitchen and secured a large knife which she brandished in his face. AN OLD DUSTY BIKE.

How To Dispose of It To Better Advantage Than Selling It to Junk Dealer.

The Big Brother Superintendent, a work carried on in connection with the Bible Institute, has found a use for old rusty, dusty, discarded bicycles, which many young fellows have outgrown and stored away in the cellar. Charles T. Youngken, a hustling member of the Fishermen's Club, evolved this plan of getting jobs for boys, and it has already proven of untold benefit to many who otherwise could not have found employment.

Among his personal acquaintances, Youngken found the first old bicycle and after putting it in order, he put it into the hands of one of the boys to whom he is a "big brother," and sent him to a store that was advertising for a boy with a wheel, and he got the job. Without the wheel, his application would have been utterly useless, and as he was unfit for heavy work, by reason of long idleness and insufficient nourishment, there were many jobs he could not fill.

This has spread, until Mr. Youngken has put a number of boys into positions where they are earning a living for themselves and helping others at the same time, and he is now looking for more bicycles.

The plan is not to give the wheel to the boy as his own, but ownership is retained by the Big Brother Movement, and when a boy quits a job, the wheel is returned, or if not returned it is looked up and taken from him. While a boy has possession of a wheel, he pays a small sum each week, which after paying for repairs, is placed to his credit, and when he has saved enough, he is aided in buying a wheel for himself.

If anybody has a bicycle hidden away in the cellar he can find no better place for it than to donate it to the Big Brothers, who may be found at the Bible Institute. They also want a phonograph for hospital work.

PLENTY OF MATERIAL.

No Delay in Reconstruction of Salt Lake Meadow Valley Line—Rails and Ties.

J. Ross Clark, vice-president of the Salt Lake, reports that materials for the construction of the high line through the Meadow Valley wash have been received and that construction will not be delayed during the winter months.

Steel rails are coming in daily from the rolling mills at Pueblo and with their arrival the main portion of the construction problem is solved, while the ties from the northwest are also coming in large quantities.

These ties are all treated to prevent decay before they are laid and the experience of the road with the local product is that they will, properly treated, last as long as will the Japanese oak ties and the Hawaiian ties that are being put in by the Santa Fe.

The contracts throughout the valley are let to rival concern—one in Los Angeles and one from Salt Lake. This rivalry means that construction work is being rushed and the high line will be in before March 1, which is the contracted date.

FOR RIGHT OF WAY.

Noble Ranch at Pomona Bought to Secure Entrance to That City of Railway.

W. G. Kerckhoff, president of the Pacific Light and Power Company has been forced to purchase the Nobel Ranch, in the outskirts of Pomona, in order to make possible the completion of the Ontario and San Antonio line between Pomona and Claremont.

When the line was first proposed the Pomona property holders agreed to arrange for the entrance of the line into Pomona in order that traffic connections could be made with the Pacific Electric local lines in Pomona.

For months this part of the construction has been held up because of failure to provide the necessary right of way. The purchase of the required property by Mr. Kerckhoff means that the work now will be completed within the time required by franchise and the line will be in operation before the first of the year.

Already the grading has been completed and materials for the line have been received and have been spread along the right of way and now the final construction will be rushed to completion.

M. S. CHENOWETH, M. D. THE MASTER SPECIALIST

This photograph which I publish above is one taken of me in May, 1910, and is a perfect likeness. I do not hide under a false name, nor publish a false picture, nor make a false statement of any kind. I personally conduct my own office, see my patients and treat them personally from the time they come to me until I discharge them as cured.

I am the oldest, licensed and largest established specialist in California. I am a graduate of one of the largest medical colleges in the United States. I was formerly physician of outdoor clients, St. John's Hospital, St. Louis, Mo., 1888-1889, and railway surgeon on Harriman lines of railway for four years. Member of American Medical Society six years and the author of medical works of recognized authority. My years of experience, the right kind of experience, together with the quick, safe, painless, yet thorough methods I employ, have earned me the title, The Master Specialist.

Varicocele, Hydrocele, Hernia, Piles, Fistula

I have known Dr. M. S. Chenoweth for 18 years personally and intimately, and can recommend him as a physician and as a man whose character is above reproach.
JACOB EPLER,
Real Estate and Investments.
Glendora, Cal.

Dr. Chenoweth cured a twenty-year standing case of piles for me and the cure is permanent and complete. For the last 5 years it was a constant source of irritation to me when on my feet. I had tried almost every local remedy that I heard of without any relief. In July of this year Dr. Chenoweth treated me and I am a well man now. I am free to recommend the doctor for piles.
N. L. BROWN,
General Merchandise,
Highlands, Cal.

Dr. Chenoweth cured me of Varicocele and Rupture from which I was suffering. He has made a perfect cure after a few treatments. There was no pain and I was not confined to my bed, but able to attend to my work as usual.
HARRY C. RICHARDSON,
1315 Wilson Ave., S. Pasadena, Cal.

Dr. Chenoweth cured me of a large hydrocele perfectly, and I am sure it is permanent.
R. P. GATES,
Calabasas, Cal.

Dr. Chenoweth treated me very successfully after coming under his care and I am cured of the ailment from which I was suffering.
CHAS. SAITZ,
1417 Elwood St., L. A.

I was treated by another specialist in Los Angeles for Varicocele, using what he called the ligature method. I suffered intensely without receiving a cure. This was over a year ago. Dr. Chenoweth cured the condition promptly without pain.
J. LINTHICUM.

Hundreds of reliable testimonials on Piles, Fistula, Nervous Disorders and Weakness at office for inspection that for obvious reasons I do not publish.

VARICOCELE-HYDROCELE

Varicocele causes more human wrecks than most other diseases of men. These worry, suppressed vitality or stagnant blood sap up human vitality and destroy manly vigor. It is responsible for poor development of the penis and denies strength to otherwise healthy men. A few days at most is all I require to effect a permanent cure in recent months of endless doctoring. You do not lose any time, suffer no pain whatever and have no after trouble.

My treatment for hydrocele is entirely original with me. No matter of how long standing, or what the cause may be, I effect a permanent cure in a few days. Swelling immediately disappears. No pain, no loss of time, no detention from business—just a permanent cure.

WEAKNESS

I have published testimonials in my office for the cure of weakness, which for obvious reasons I do not make public.

What is commonly termed functional weakness is generally a symptom of prostatic disorder. To stimulate activity by the use of powerful tonics is an easy matter, but such results are merely temporary drug effects. Most doctors treat "weakness" in this manner because they do not know how to cure the real cause of the derangement. I am the only physician employing scientific and successful methods. I use no tonics at all. My treatment is a local one entirely and corrects every abnormal condition of that vital center, the prostate gland. My cures are real cures and are permanent.

Hernia, Rupture, Piles, Fistula, Specific Blood Poison

A neglected rupture may prove fatal. Many have proven so. The smaller it may be the greater the danger of strangulation, then there is little, if any hope, as most cases in this stage prove fatal. A few days and a permanent cure is effected. No loss of time nor detention from business. Absolutely painless.

I cure the most obstinate and long-standing cases of Piles and Fistula, after the failure of other physicians and specialists. My cure is permanent and those undergoing treatment do so without pain, inconvenience or loss of time.

Scientific treatment only should be used in combating this loathsome disease. I cure Blood Poison by methods of my own devising, which introduces my remedies directly into the blood, purifying it, destroying and expelling poison from the system. Nearly all other forms of treatment suppress and rebuilds the tissues in such a way that the patient receives his normal state of health, strength and soundness.

I guarantee to cure those diseases just as I say I do, or refund every dollar paid to me. If I fail, the fault is mine, not yours. Why should you pay? I have no home treatment; I do not treat by mail. All patients must come to the office for treatment.

FREE CONSULTATION AND ADVICE

I offer not only FREE Consultation and Advice, but of every case that comes to me I will make a Careful Examination and Diagnosis without charge. Alling persons should not neglect this opportunity to get expert opinion about their trouble.

My offices are open all day from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and Sundays from 10 to 12.

Game and Fish Protective Association to Meet in San Francisco and Recommend New Laws for Passage by the Legislature—Deer Season is Too Long.

One of the most important recommendations that is to be made by the California Game and Fish Protective Association at its annual meeting to be held at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco, October 14 and 15, is the abolishment of the closed season for gray squirrels and the removing of the bag limit.

The forestry officials all over the United States complain that the squirrels consume and destroy enough nuts each year seriously to hinder reforestation, naturally and artificially. The rangers have been unable for the last two seasons to collect enough young trees of the pine family to plant in the districts where they are needed. The squirrels cut the cones off before they are mature thus making them of no value for planting when their store houses are discovered.

H. W. Keller, president of the association, says that the laws enacted for the protection of squirrels were not encouraged by those who were familiar with the conditions but were fostered by sentimentalists who thought the animals were being exterminated.

Keller says that the association will very likely recommend that the open season for killing der b shrinvhave c- season for killing deer be shortened. It is his opinion that bucks are becoming too few for the number of does; and that comparatively few of the hunters are able to bag even one buck during the season because of their scarcity. He thinks that the season should close Oct. 1 as the hunting season begins about that time and the bucks become very bold, making them easy prey for hunters.

The association will also try to bring about a uniform open season for ducks, dove, quail and all shore birds. Keller says that a coincident season for all these will lessen the temptation to shoot them out of season. A quail hunter who is down on his luck is very likely to take a shot at a dove if one appears to come his way.

ALL UNDER CIVIL.

Postmaster Himself the Only Exception, According to Notification Received by Him.

Postmaster Harrison yesterday received official notification that every employe in the postoffice department, with the single exception of himself, has been placed under civil service rules. The order is general for all offices of the first and second classes.

There are now only three men in this branch of the government service in this city out of 800 employes who have not obtained their positions through civil service. They are the postmaster, Assistant Postmaster Dishman and A. C. Whans, the postmaster's private secretary. The latter two are affected by the change.

The rules will not go into effect until December 1, of this year. It is unlikely that there will be any change in the two positions included. The ruling provides that the incumbents shall remain if they prove to the satisfaction of the Postoffice Department that they are efficient.

The manner of demonstrating their efficiency, or lack of it, has not been prescribed. It is possible that they may be compelled to take an examination.

In the case of vacancies after December 1, the places can be filled by promotions, by transfers from the railway mail service or other branches, or by open competitive examination.

Perhaps the greatest effect of the new arrangement will be to put the assistant postmaster and the private secretary in positions where they can do politics only at the peril of becoming liable to forfeit their offices if they are caught.

CLAIMANTS LOSE.

Information was received at the local land office yesterday that the Commissioner of the General Land Office has sustained the decisions of Register Buren and Receiver Robinson in forfeiting the claims of fourteen persons who filed homesteads and failed to live up to the requirements. This land will now be thrown open to the entry of the contestants who started the proceedings resulting in the former claimants being ousted.

The suits which have just reached a final decision follow: Albert D. Freeman against John Walker, Charles S. Maston against Frank I. Wenger, Edward H. Alcott against William A. Seaton, Ernest Walter Jacob Bachm, Thomas J. Freeman against John De Bock, Frank A. Fletcher against Luther C. Miller, George A. Miller against Nila C. Barber, Fay A. Hines against Ira Van Maren, Joseph J. Chappell against Jacob R. Armijo, Edgar W. Lusk against Nathan C. Gilmore, Edward H. Alcott against Frank L. Lipton, Ralph H. Corum against Stephen J. Jones.

ASTRONOMER ROYAL.

NEW TIME-KEEPER OF WORLD HAS PLENTY TO DO ALL DAY.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—If all the geography books that were ever written were to be thrown into the sea tomorrow, a deed that would fill the hearts of many naughty little boys and girls with glee, it would probably fall to Professor Frank Watson Dyson, who has been appointed Astropomer Royal, on the retirement of Sir William Christie on October 1, to compile them over again, the determination of geographical positions by astronomy being one of the never-ending tasks of the people at Greenwich Observatory, of which he is now the head.

Let us hope that no such terrible calamity will fall upon him, for his other little jobs are many and arduous without it. His chief duty is to keep the world informed of the "correct time," which is flashed at 1 p. m. every day to every part of the British Isles. Then he has to keep tabs on the sun, the moon and stars in their courses, and put everything down on paper for the use of future generations, to say nothing of having to keep a sharp look-out for such erratic visitors as daylight comets, new stars, etc.

King George's Navy is largely dependent upon the work done at the Observatory. In the Naval Department, all the chronometers issued to the navy are tested, regulated and cared for, and the observations upon which the "Seaman's Bible" is based are all furnished from Greenwich. It also supplies the Meteorological Office with data for weather forecasts, while the photographic survey of the heavens, contributions to the study of the structure of the stellar universe, observations of double stars, and of the minute satellites of Jupiter, Saturn and Mars, all go to make up the routine of the Greenwich Observatory staff.

In 1894, Professor Dyson became Chief Assistant to William Christie, who was then Astronomer Royal at Greenwich, and most of the real work of the Observatory fell on his shoulders. Under his chief's regime, the work was greatly extended, several new departments were added, and the output of older departments largely increased, so that an additional assistant had to be engaged.

The stars, with which he is so familiar, seem to be anxious to show him their favor, for on the three separate occasions when he has taken part in expeditions sent out from the Observatory to observe total eclipses of their great relative the sun, he has always had fine weather, and was completely successful in getting photographs of the spectrum of the "flash" at the beginning and end of totality.

On the third expedition, when he went to Acer Gadang, a small island off the coast of Sumatra, he had rather an amusing experience, being marooned on the island with no other company than an old native who was looking after him. The native knew about six words of English, and Professor Dyson less of his companion's lingo, so conversation was somewhat limited and chiefly confined to "nods and becks and wreathed smiles."

In the autumn of 1905, Professor Dyson was appointed Astronomer Royal for Scotland, which office he has held continually since then, when beside the ordinary work of the Observatory, he made a special study of star-drift.

The Astronomer Royal is the son of the Rev. Watson Dyson, a Baptist minister, and after his school life he went to Trinity College, Cambridge, where he first commenced to deviate from the path of pure mathematics to the more fascinating one of astronomy. He was second of his year in 1889; he gained the Smith's Prize with a treatise on the form and stability of Saturn's Rings, and shortly after became an Isaac Newton student, with the object of taking up the study of the heavens as a livelihood.
